Truman Foes Launch New Eisenhower Draft Drive

James Roosevelt, Big City Bosses Go Ahead With Caucus Despite Statement

By Robert C. Albright
Post Reporter

Anti - Truman Democrats yesterday launched a new and all-but-desperate "Draft-Eisenhower" drive in the teeth of the General's "I . . . could not accept."

James Roosevelt, California State chairman, and most of the big city bosses and Southern "stop Truman" delegations, refused to take "no" for an answer.

They went right ahead with plans for a Saturday night pre-convention caucus in Philadelphia to present Eisenhower's name, regardless of his wishes, as the "national unity candidate."

But Administration Democrats, confident that General Eisenhower meant what he said, predicted a practically clear track for their man.

Democratic National Chairman J. Howard McGrath (R. I.) simply restated his earlier forecast that Mr. Truman will be nominated on the first ballot.

To the Ditch-Truman Democrats, way out on their severed Eisenhower limb, McGrath issued a "come home" plea.

He said the general's renunciation "offers an appropriate time to ask all loyal Democrats to contribute to the unity of the party."

Very few heeded the call. Most of them wired "Count me in" acceptances to Roosevelt's reissued call for an "open convention" caucus.

Senator Claude Pepper (D., Fla.) not only wired Roosevelt he would come—he told newsmen the Democratic Convention should throw politics out the window and draft Eisenhower to head "a national coalition government."

Predicts Ike Will Accept

He predicted Eisenhower would accept a strictly nonpolitical draft and proposed the convention give him carte blanche to pick his own running mate, write his own platform and make "bipartisan" appointments.

The Florida Democrat, who last year backed away from the Wallace Third Party movement to support Truman, told reporters Eisenhower could be drafted to meet the twin threats of war and depression just as the Nation's youth is being called into military service.

Roosevelt, in his new caucus call to Democratic leaders in 19 States, said Eisenhower in effect had refused only to "seek partisan political office."

Said Roosevelt:

"It is up to the Democratic Party to enable the people of this coun-

2 Men Killed In Seattle Blast; 1 Hurt, 3 Missing

Seattle, July 6 (AP).—A bomb-like blast that rocked northwest Seattle's Ballard district just after closing time tonight demolished the Lyle Branchflower Company's vitamin plant and killed two men.

One employe was injured and three or more were missing.

Coroner John P. Brill, jr., said first estimates that some 35 workmen were in the plant when the explosion came at 5:35 p. m. (PDT) apparently were in error.

The blast was heard and felt four to five miles from the northwest Seattle community. Plate glass windows in the Ballard store section were shattered.

The Ballard Bridge, crossing the Lake Washington Ship Canal some 50 feet from the plant, was covered with broken glass. Its deck is 60 feet above the ground level.

20 Families Flee in Rain

Lightning Sets Fire to Roofs Of 2 Units at Shirley Homes

A bolt of lightning out of a late-afternoon thunderstorm yesterday set fire to the roof above two families at the Henry G. Shirley Homes, off Shirley hgwy., Arlington, Va.

No one was injured by the lightning or fire that followed, but 20 families in two eight-unit sections of the one-story, temporary row dwellings were evacuated in drenching rain until firemen put out the blaze and checked wirings.

The storm that hit Washington at a heavy commuting hour, shortly after 5 p. m., sent temperatures tumbling from the day's high of 94 degrees to 73 at its end, at 6:25 p. m. In the first eight minutes of the storm, the Weather Bureau reported, the mercury dropped 14 degrees.

Accompanying winds felled one tree opposite 1628 Potomac ave. se., and stripped the two main limbs of a large maple at 1019 Woodside pkwy., Silver Spring, Md.

Trees and limbs falling across wires disrupted electric service last night in Silver Spring, Md., and other sectors of Montgomery County, the Potomac Power & Electric Co. reported. The night's troubles were minor compared to previous storms this season, they said.

For today, the weatherman predicted fair and not so warm, with the day's high set at about 85 degrees.

Before yesterday's storm broke, two men were admitted to hospitals here suffering heat prostration. They were Oreste Pesoli, 54, of 923 Maryland ave. sw., to Garfield Hospital, and Ollie Keesee, 42, of 1708 16th st. se., to Providence Hospital.

Occupants of the Shirley homes, a Federal rental housing project, said the lightning bolt apparently struck a chimney in the mid-2300 block of Scott st., followed telephone and electric wires across to the 2400 block, where it set fire to lofts at 2407 and 2409.

Mrs. Nelmer Thornton, wife of a Western Electric Co. installer, said she was with her sons, Richard, 2, and Ronnie, 6 weeks, at their home at 2407, when the bolt struck and the fire started. Next door, at 2409, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Carter and Robert, jr., 2, also smelled smoke.

Firemen said most of the blaze was confined above the two apartment homes, but it spread to minor extent above 2405 and 2411.

The Gallup Poll

Democrats Still Cling To Truman

By George Gallup
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

Princeton, N. J., July 6.—Although his popularity has dropped considerably, President Truman continues to be the choice of an overwhelming majority of Democratic voters for the 1948 Democratic nomination.

With the Democratic convention due to open next Monday, 67 per cent of Democratic voters polled from coast to coast say they favor the nomination of Mr. Truman. This compares with 76 per cent in a similar survey conducted last May and reported June 4.

Although there has been persistent anti-Truman talk within the Democratic Party, no appreciable amount of sentiment has crystallized around any other candidate for nomination. The next most popular, today's survey shows, is George C. Marshall, Secretary of State, but he polls only 12 per cent of the total.

Although Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas has often been mentioned by the anti-Truman forces as a possible candidate, only 2 per cent of Democratic voters selected his name from the list as their choice in today's poll.

The vote among Democrats today as compared to the June 4 report follows:

	June	Today
Truman	76%	67%
Marshall	10	12
Byrnes	3	4
Byrd	2	4
Farley	1	3
Douglas	1	2
Pepper	*	2
Forrestal	1	1
No choice	6	5

Because General Dwight D. Eisenhower has persistently refused to let himself be considered a candidate, his name was not included in the list in the poll. There is an outside chance that he may be drafted at the convention, but political experts consider this only a very remote possibility. As the Institute was the first to show last winter, General Eisenhower could without much doubt win if he chose to run.

President Truman's general political strength has been charted in three ways by the Institute. Prior to the GOP convention he was pitted against various possible Republican candidates. A second series of tests has shown the country's reaction to the way he is handling his job as President. The last report on that showed 39 per cent approving, 47 per cent disapproving and 11 per cent expressing no opinion.

The third type of test, reported today, is his strength within the

Detectives Sent To Baltimore In Girl's Death

Quiz Suspect in Case Resembling Murder Of Bardwell Child

Three Washington detectives were in Baltimore last night to question a suspect in a child murder which took place there yesterday closely resembling the District's unsolved Carol Bardwell slaying.

After learning the details of the murder in the Maryland city, Inspector Robert S. Bryant, chief of detectives, ordered his first assistant, Capt. Robert V. Murray, and Detective Sergts. H. V. Young and Jack Baker of the homicide squad to Baltimore.

The girl slain in Baltimore yesterday, Marsha Brill, daughter of a grocer, was 11 years old, the same age as Carol Bardwell.

Points of Similarity

Like Carol, she was slain with a knife.

Like Carol, she was murdered in a remote spot.

And like Carol, she was riding her bicycle when the killer attacked.

Baltimore police took a suspect into custody when he emerged from woods in the area two hours after the murder.

Two playmates with Marsha said the man who darted from the woods and stabbed her was a tall Negro wearing a blue shirt and dungarees.

The suspect was arrested by Patrolman Gilbert Spurrier who said he stopped his car when he saw the man, identified as a 30-year-old laborer, come out of the woods at Cross Country blvd. and Green Spring ave., about 10 blocks from the scene of the slaying.

Companions View Lineups

After his arrest, the suspect was taken to a district police station and placed in two lineups with about 20 other suspects rounded up in the area after the murder.

The dead girl's two companions, Barbara Lee Sapperstein, 11, and her brother, Alan, 8, viewed the lineups. Police did not announce whether the children had made an identification.

However, a high police official said later in the night that the case against the suspect looked "cold." It was learned that a contractor for whom the suspect works had substantiated much of the man's alibi. However, police continued to question him.

The Sapperstein children said they were riding their bicycles in a wooded and sparsely populated area between Cross Country blvd. and Park Heights, in Baltimore, at about 1 p. m. when the man leaped from the woods.

They said the man pointed a

Israel Rejects Bernadotte's Peace Plan

Premature Ending Of Truce Reported With Fierce Fight Waged Near Haifa

Cairo, July 6 (AP).—The Israeli government turned down Count Folke Bernadotte's Palestine peace proposals today. He promptly announced he would continue peace talks even if fighting resumes.

The United Nations mediator made this statement on arriving from Tel Aviv, where he was asked by the Israeli government to "reconsider" his plans for ending Arab-Jewish warfare.

And it began to look as though fighting was resuming.

The main Tel Aviv-Haifa highway was reported blocked tonight by a heavy battle between Jewish and Arab troops. The clash occurred as Bernadotte traveled from Tel Aviv to Cairo.

Few details of the fighting 10 miles south of Haifa were available. Two United States Marines, driving United Nations truce team trucks, were turned back by Arabs who fired on them for 40 minutes before they waved a white flag to end the shooting.

Private Charles Phalen, 19, of Bluefield, W. Va., and Pvt. Lewis Taylor, 19, of Jackson, Miss., said they were forced to pull their trucks into a ditch and crawl for cover under rifle and machinegun fire from Arabs dominating the road between Tireh and Jara. This occurred about noon.

There was no official indication how seriously Jewish authorities here regarded the highway clash. Telephone lines between the two cities were cut.

In Tel Aviv Bernadotte received from Israeli Foreign Minister Moshe Shertok a 1000-word reply to the mediator's proposal to turn Jerusalem over to Arab rule, make Haifa a free port and regulate immigration.

The reply said the Israeli leaders were deeply wounded by the Jerusalem suggestion and expressed emphatic opposition to any restriction on immigration.

Feels "Doors Still Open"

It said Bernadotte's proposals "appear to ignore" the United Nations partition decision and added: "It is indeed the conviction of the provisional government that the territorial provisions affecting the Jewish state now stand in need of improvement in view both of the perils revealed by Arab aggression . . . and the results achieved by Israel in repelling this aggression."

At a Tel Aviv conference Bernadotte said he did not know whether the Jews and Arabs would agree to extend the Holy Land truce but added: "I have a feeling the doors are not closed."

Explaining why he suggested that Jerusalem be demilitarized under a United Nations guard, he said: "If war should start again, I am afraid holy places would be destroyed."

Returning here, Bernadotte told newsmen he would continue his efforts even if his request for an extension of the truce is rejected.

The four-week truce ends Friday. Neither the Jews nor the Arabs have replied to his bid for an extension.

Bernadotte said he plans to fly back to Tel Aviv Wednesday to receive the Jewish reply to his truce extension proposal. In Tel Aviv, a government spokesman said the Israeli cabinet will hold a special meeting tonight or Wednesday morning to discuss the proposal.

Reds Tighten Grip on Berlin, Stop Food Trucks From East; Allies Demand End of Siege

Marshall Delivers U. S. Communication To Russian Envoy; Short of Ultimatum

By John W. Ball
Post Reporter

The United States yesterday demanded that the Russian blockade of Berlin be halted at once.

The demand was in the form of a note to Moscow, personally delivered to Russian Ambassador Alexander S. Panyushkin by Secretary of State Marshall.

Similar notes were delivered simultaneously to the Russian Ambassadors in Paris and London by the French and British Foreign Offices.

Because of the nature of the demands, the State Department announced that the contents of the note will not be disclosed until "the Soviet government has had a reasonable period of time to study the note and make its reply."

The British Foreign Office said the notes did not constitute an ultimatum.

France has urged a more moderate line than has the United States in dealing with Moscow. The final draft of the notes came after 10 days of constant talks between British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin, United States Ambassador Lewis M. Douglas and the French Ambassador to London, Rene Massigli.

Panyushkin was in Marshall's office for 14 minutes. When he left he told newsmen that he had received a note but did not know its contents.

The Russian envoy added that Marshall had not spoken directly to him about the Berlin crisis. He did not reveal what was discussed.

Outside of saying that the note was regarding the "situation in Berlin," Lincoln White, State Department press officer, did not comment on its contents.

Serious Issues Raised

Other diplomatic officials, however, expressed belief that the note protested Russia's recent policies in Berlin and demanded immediate action in removing the blockade.

They added that the note declared Russia must accept any responsibility for the lack of supplies reaching the millions of Germans in Berlin.

The secrecy surrounding the contents of the note, observers said, is necessary because of the direct demand it makes of the Soviet government by the Western powers. Because of the serious issues raised, the Russian leaders must be given plenty of time to study it.

The blockade of Berlin started June 24. On that date Soviet troops halted all railway traffic into the western sections of Berlin occupied by British and American forces. The Russian-licensed German News Agency said the action to close the rail lines between Berlin and the American-British railhead at Helmstedt was due to a "technical disturbance." No further explanation was made.

Allied sources believed the action was Soviet retaliation for the refusal of the United States, Britain and France to accept the Soviet zone mark as Berlin's only legal currency.

One day later, June 25, the Soviet shut off electric power furnished by plants in the Russian zone, to Allied sections of Berlin.

Russians Spurn Belgrade Bid; Albania Defies Tito Warning And Orders Frontiers Guarded

London (Wednesday), July 7 (AP). Premier-Marshal Tito's Yugoslav Communists got two hard answers early today to their defiance of the nine-nation Communist International Information Bureau (Cominform).

Russia's Communist Party said it has rejected an invitation to send a delegation to the Yugoslav Communist Congress opening in Belgrade July 21. The announcement was heard here just before midnight through the Soviet news agency Tass and the Moscow radio.

An hour later, Tass reported little Albania defied Yugoslav warnings that she must resume economic relations with her bigger neighbor or face the consequences.

The Yugoslav Communist Party placed itself "outside the family of Communist Parties," the Russian communique said, by its refusal to attend a Communist International Information Bureau meeting in Romania last month. At that meeting, other members of the nine-nation Cominform discussed Tito's alleged deviations from the Marxist line.

The Central Committee of the Russian Communist Party, which Stalin has served as general secretary since 1922, thus repeated in almost identical words a charge in the original Cominform blast at Tito.

The Russians implied that the situation remains the same — the Yugoslav Communists have not repented of their "Trotskyist" actions charged by the Cominform and, therefore, still are not welcome back into the Communist fold.

The Tass dispatch from Tirana, capital of Albania, said the Albanians were taking "strong measures" to guard their frontiers with Yugoslavia and Greece against "hostile elements."

Tass quoted an Albanian telegraph agency dispatch it said was published tonight in the Tirana newspaper Bashkini.

Presumably the "strong measures" were taken as a result of Yugoslav warnings against its little neighbor Communist country which has sided with the Cominform in the Yugoslav dispute with other Communist parties.

Albania has charged many times in the past few months that Greek government troops have violated its border.

Yugoslavia lodged diplomatic protests with Albania last week, charging insults to Premier-Marshal Tito's government, including the severing of trade and cultural relations and the ousting of Yugoslav agents.

Belgrade said then it could not be "responsible for the consequences" unless Albania rescinded all such orders.

Demonstrate Against Regime

Czechs Wave U. S. Flags, Hail Benes Until Silenced by Police

Prague, Czechoslovakia, July 6 (U.P.).—Police wielding clubs broke up a crowd of 3000 Czechs shouting "We want Benes for president" in Prague's main square just before midnight tonight.

It was the day's second demonstration by thousands of Czechs against Communist rule in this country.

The crowd gathered late in the evening in Wenceslas Square, chanting pro-Benes slogans similar to the ones heard during the huge Sokol (gymnastic society) parade earlier, when American flags were waved by the marchers.

Eyewitnesses reported that close to 100 police appeared in the square almost immediately, but they were temporarily stymied when the crowd sang the national anthem. During the song everyone stood at attention.

As soon as the singing stopped police charged into the crowd swinging their night sticks right and left, eyewitnesses said. At least a dozen Czechs were struck on the head and shoulders, but none of the injuries were believed to be serious.

Shortly after midnight a smaller crowd reformed in the square, two blocks from the site of the first demonstration, and resumed the chant for Benes. Police again charged in with night sticks and broke it up within minutes.

Eyewitnesses said that after the second demonstration police arrested a young student who protested, "even Heydrich (Reinhard Heydrich, German wartime ruler) never chased us around like this."

After the first big demonstration in Wenceslas Square, a plain-clothesman grabbed a correspond-

Canada Joins in

U. S. Opens Arms Pact Talks With Western Europe Nations

Diplomats from four western European nations that have joined in an agreement for military defense against possible Communist aggression, met with State Department officials yesterday.

It was the first of a series of talks about possible American military aid to Western Europe—talks that are expected to continue for several months.

The discussions are in line with a resolution drafted by Chairman Arthur M. Vandenberg (R., Mich.) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, which the Senate passed June 11. This resolution in effect said that this country should associate with and support "regional defensive groupings" that further this Nation's national security.

The four nations represented yesterday were Great Britain, France, Belgium and the Netherlands—all of which signed the Brussels agreement on March 17 for economic cooperation and common defense.

The fifth nation that signed the Brussels pact, Luxembourg, was not at the meeting. Its Ambassador, Huges le Gallais, was out of the city.

After yesterday's meeting, which lasted 80 minutes, the State Department issued a statement saying that Undersecretary of State Lovett had received the Ambassadors "for an informal and exploratory exchange of views concerning problems of common interest in relation to the Senate resolution of June 11."

"These conversations are expected to continue for some time, since

Destination a Mystery

U. S. Warships Speed to Sea From Istanbul and Naples

Istanbul, Turkey, July 6 (AP).—Acting on urgent orders, American warships sailed out of Istanbul and Naples harbors under forced draft today with their destination a mystery.

Varying reports had them headed for Palestine and Trieste, both of them Mediterranean trouble spots, and Crete.

(In Washington, the Navy said the ships' departures have "absolutely nothing to do with Palestine.")

Four units, including the escort carrier Palau, broke a short visit here and sped toward the eastern Mediterranean. Four other warships left Naples after receiving secret orders.

One informed source here refused any specific information, saying only that the Navy decided it would be wiser if the ships were at sea.

Three cruisers of the Sixth Task Fleet, commanded by Vice Admiral Forrest P. Sherman, sailed this morning shortly after the Palau lifted anchor.

Informed sources said the cruisers Dargo, Huntington and Juneau had orders to lie off the island of Crete "awaiting developments."

The four warships leaving Naples were the aircraft carrier Kearsarge and the destroyers Meredith, O'Hare and J. C. Owens.

They sailed in a southerly direction but authorities in Rome refused to speculate on their destination.

From Nice, on France's riviera, the aircraft carrier Coral Sea sailed for Gibraltar and the battleship Missouri for Algiers. The destroyers Leary and Bordleon accompanied the Coral Sea and the destroyers Leary and Vesole were with the Missouri. The ships will assemble off Gibraltar in five days and sail for Cuba and the United States.

French Disclose Plot to Touch Off 'Incidents,' Causing Soviet Intervention

Berlin, July 6 (AP).—The Russians stopped the truck export of food and other essential commodities to western Berlin from the Russian sector today, western-licensed newspapers reported.

This action apparently steered the Berlin crisis toward a climax. It came as the United States, Britain and France lodged a strong protest with Moscow against the Soviet land blockade of western Berlin.

And it coincided with a disclosure by the French Foreign Office that it had received from the British Embassy documentary evidence of a Russian plot to drive the western allies from Berlin.

Intervention Reported Planned

The Foreign Office said the British information was that Communists in Berlin were instructed by Moscow to touch off incidents which would cause intervention by Soviet forces.

The American deputy military governor here said the Americans are not taking any unusual precautionary measures in connection with the report. Maj. Gen. George P. Hays, the deputy, said the alleged plot was an "old rumor" circulating since last November.

Many American officials here have speculated that the Communists might try to foment trouble through demonstrations. There has been a persistent report since the present crisis began that the Communist-dominated Free German Trade Union might call a general strike.

The Russians, in another of their long series of protests, charged the Americans with violating flying safety rules.

The Soviet-licensed news agency, ADN, said a new protest was sent to American authorities by the Russian section of the Berlin air center. "The Americans by their unilateral violation of rules for control of flying traffic," the protest said, "take full responsibility for the safety of American planes."

The ADN report did not explain what was meant by the "safety of American planes." United States pilots have received daily routine briefings to watch for Russian fighter planes.

Western Berlin's air lifeline to the west was interrupted by bad weather, but by noon today the air over the city again was drumming with the sound of incoming planes ferrying essential supplies from western Germany.

Supplies Confiscated

The western-licensed German press said the Russians clamped strict controls on trucks entering Berlin's beleaguered western sectors, administered by the Americans, British and French.

Acting Police Chief Seidel of the Soviet sector ordered his men to inspect the load of every truck heading for western Berlin from the Russian sector, the press said. He ordered the confiscation of foodstuffs, scrap, building materials and telephone equipment.

American officials said the German press reports of new truck controls apparently were true.

Seidel's truck inspection order would erect another wall through the heart of Berlin, dividing east from west, as did the introduction of two currencies.

One checkpoint to control trucks was set up inside the Brandenburg gate at one of the main thoroughfares running from the Soviet to the Western sectors.

A second order directed the examination of German postoffice trucks for telephone equipment, the press said.

Steel Production Starts Skid

40,000 Soft Coal Miners Out At 'Captive' Pits in 5 States

Pittsburgh, July 6 (AP).—Protesting lack of a contract, 40,000 coal miners employed at steel-company-owned captive pits stayed away from work today. Steel production started an immediate skid.

An additional 45,000 miners failed to show up at commercial mines in West Virginia and western Pennsylvania, but their exact status was not immediately made clear. Elsewhere commercial production was near normal.

The captive miners were idle in five States — Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Alabama, Kentucky and Utah. Steel firms refused to sign a contract with them because of a union shop demand.

The majority of the Nation's 400,000 bituminous miners are employed by commercial pits, whose coal goes to homes and industries other than steel. Ending their annual 10-day vacation, the bulk of them renewed work under a new contract granting a $1-per-day pay boost and doubling to 20 cents their welfare fund royalty on a ton of coal.

Steel companies affected by the shutdown included United States Steel, Republic, Bethlehem, Inland, Weirton, Wheeling, Geneva, Jones & Laughlin and American Rolling Mill Co.

Losing 55,000 tons of coal daily in Pennsylvania alone, the U. S. Steel Corp. announced banking of at least eight blast furnaces and 28 open hearths. Its Bessemer output at Youngstown, Ohio, was sliced 50 per cent.

Thirty-five thousand commercial miners failed to show up in West Virginia, but they were described as merely slow in starting after a vacation.

The Western Pennsylvania Coal Operators Association said it was too early to brand the 10,000 idle in its area as holiday absentees.

"There usually is high absenteeism after a holiday but these shutdowns are too widespread to explain as absenteeism," said an official of the association.

This telegram was sent to John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, by the association: "Notwithstanding the fact that this association has a signed contract with you, more than 30 mines operated by members are on strike today. We demand that you notify the men to honor it and return to work immediately."

Western Pennsylvania's coal production was only 20 per cent of normal. Operators estimated their daily loss at 240,000 tons of coal.

Happy over their new contract, which is similar to that signed by commercial bituminous operators, the 78,000 anthracite miners of eastern Pennsylvania returned to work today after their vacation.

Ex-Gov. Kerr Takes Big Lead In Oklahoma Senate Primary

Oklahoma City, July 6 (AP).—Former Gov. Robert S. Kerr rolled up a commanding lead over nine rivals for the Democratic nomination for U. S. Senator in incomplete returns from the Oklahoma primary election tonight.

He needed an even wider margin, however, to clinch the nomination without a run-off.

Returns from 588 of 3698 precincts gave Kerr 17,754 votes against 9991 for his nearest opponent, Gomer Smith, Oklahoma City attorney and one-time national vice president of the Townsend old-age pension organization.

In the Republican senatorial primary, Representative Ross Rizley of Guymon, carrying the indorsement of his party's State organization, outdistanced five opponents and appeared likely to win the nomination without a run-off. His backers include Senator E. H. Moore, the Republican incumbent, who is retiring from office.

With 329 precincts reported, the Republican count was Rizley 3238, Joseph Holt 188, Frank A. Anderson (Negro) 151, Henry J. Wallace 453, Homer Cowan 242 and Rexford B. Cragg 186.

Representative Mike Monroney, Democrat seeking renomination for a sixth term from the Fifth Congressional District, blanketed his field of five rivals and appeared certain of avoiding a runoff.

Monroney's 1946 Republican opponent, Carmon C. Harris, Oklahoma City attorney, also seemed certain of going into the November general election against Monroney again.

Other incumbent Congressmen were leading with the exception of Preston Peden, Seventh District Democrat.

4300 War Dead Due In New York Friday

New York, July 6 (AP). — The bodies of 4300 American war dead are scheduled to arrive Friday from European battlefields aboard the United States Army transport Oglethorpe Victory.

Most of the dead were originally interred in temporary military cemeteries at Hamm, Luxembourg, and Limey, France.

Needham Turnage to Engage In Fight to Regain Health

NEEDHAM C. TURNAGE
On "protracted" leave

The Washington Post
CYRIL S. LAWRENCE
New U. S. Commissioner

Relinquishes Post For VA Respiratory Sanitarium in N. C.

Needham Coy Turnage, United States commissioner, is leaving after 25 years of service in order to begin a fight for his life.

Ill with a serious respiratory ailment, Turnage is turning over his office in the Commerce and Savings Building. His successor — until Turnage returns—is Cyril S. Lawrence.

The 60-year-old Turnage is not giving up.

"I'll fight it off," he said. "You'll see me come back."

He has always been a fighter, for himself, for the suspected criminals he arraigns daily, and for the underprivileged children of the city.

Cleared of Charge

In 1946, he was accused of causing an accident by driving while under the influence of alcohol. After he and a parade of his associates testified in his defense, the jury deliberated for an hour to find him innocent.

A little later, the police department here suddenly was issued an order to by-pass Turnage's office in certain instances in getting warrants and arraignments.

The reason was never given but it was broadly hinted that Turnage was perhaps a little too zealous in protecting the rights of the accused.

Childlessness a Regret

"My wife and I have been married 37 years, but it has always been our regret that we ourselves have no children," he says.

A visit to Turnage's office shows other facets of the man's character. Sheepskins of the Masonic Order, of which he is a past grand master, adorn the walsl. There are ancient prints of paintings. The furniture is homey and comfortable.

Turnage sits in an overstuffed chair behind a plain desk, his lawbooks in easy reach. He speaks with his native North Carolina drawl.

The air is usually tense there. In the anteroom, manacled prisoners sit side by side. The phones are always busy.

Turnage is approaching the 33,000th case he has handled for the Government. He has signed more than 210,000 writs, commitments, bond transcripts and pleadings.

A Trustworthy Official

His office is one of trust. For years, the vice squad used his office almost exclusively to obtain warrants. There was much less chance of a leak there, it was explained at the time unofficially.

He has started thousands of men on their way to jail and perhaps a score on their way to the electric chair, yet none has ever tried to assault him.

His official position, authorities say, gives him a gross return of more than $6000 a year, but this is cut down sharply by secretarial and office expenses. He is paid on a fee basis.

For years, Turnage has been working on a handbook for United States commissioners.

"Perhaps I'll be able to finish it at the hospital," he says.

Final arrangements are being made to have him admitted to the Veterans Administration Sanitarium at Oteen, N. C. He qualifies because of service as an Army master sergeant during World War I.

Berlin Fliers Get Mystery Red Warning

By Edwin Hartrich

Frankfurt, July 6 (NYHT).—All American and Allied pilots flying food to Berlin were warned that they might be forced down by Russian fighter planes if they stray out of the air corridor, or fly below 5000 feet, according to a notice posted in the operation room at the Rhein-Main Airport today.

Neither United States Air Forces in Europe headquarters in Weisbaden or Rhein-Main officials could give any explanation of this order, or of its origin. The notice was quickly removed after its discovery by newspaper correspondents. It said:

"Any Allied aircraft flying outside of the corridor or below 5000 feet over Russian airfields will be forced down by Russian fighters."

There is a possibility that the Soviets are, or have been, conducting extensive air and ground maneuvers in the general area, west of Berlin, over which the food-carrying transports are now flying. Recent unconfirmed reports have reached Frankfurt of large concentrations of Soviet fighter planes, numbering more than 500, at Treuenbritzen, 30 miles south of Potsdam, while other plane concentrations have been reported at Skeuditz, Halle and Leipzig, and at other fields southeast of Leipzig.

The Russians do not announce their annual maneuvers, as do the American forces training on this side of the zonal boundary, according to European command headquarters.

deputy commandant of Berlin, announced that coal will be added to the big air lift supply service tomorrow.

A shortage of coal has severely crippled Berlin.

Yesterday, American planes flew a record total of 975 tons of food to Berlin in 214 flights.

A report that municipal employes would not be paid until the currency situation is clarified in Berlin drew a denial. A United States spokesman said the payments went out as usual last Saturday.

He said some difficulty arose when police in the three western sectors refused to be paid in Soviet east-sector marks. He said plans are under way to pay one-fourth of their salaries in west marks and the remainder in the east money. The payroll is made up in east marks because the city hall is in the Russian sector.

Bouncing Tire Rim Kills Man in Auto

Bolton, N. C., July 6 (AP).—A 19-year-old Norfolk, Va., man was killed last night when a spare tire rim bounced from an oil tanker truck ahead and landed in the convertible he was driving.

Sheriff H. B. Stanley of Whiteville identified the dead man as William Ray Powell. He said the driver of the tanker was S. R. Bazemore.

Boy, 4, 'Afraid of Cows,' Found After 17 Hours

Little Valley, N. Y., July 6 (AP). Four-year-old Raymond Dempsey of Buffalo was found today by volunteer searchers after 17 hours in the open.

Allied Notes Demand End of Blockade

Deliveries of fluid milk and bread from eastern Germany to the Allied parts of Berlin also were halted.

About 2½ million Germans reside in the Allied portions of the former Germany capital, and are dependent upon American and British supplies. Both the American Air Force and the British are flying supplies into the city—with deliveries reportedly reaching almost the 2000 tons that formerly arrived there daily by train.

Coal Shortage Acute

The shortage of coal is particularly acute.

White's statement that the note will not be made public until Russia has had time to study it, indicates that this country plans to release it after several days. By publishing the note, the State Department apparently will try to prevent the Russians from publishing all or part of it as soon as the Russian answer is determined.

Several months ago the Russians surprised the State Department by publishing their version of a note from Ambassador to Russia Walter Bedell Smith to Foreign Minister Molotov. The note, which dealt with future American foreign policy, was interpreted by Russia as an invitation to a four-power conference.

Behind the Allied note lies the possibility that if Russia refuses to lift the blockade the Western Powers may take the whole matter to the United Nations, as a threat to world peace. This might explode the bitterest dispute in the history of the U. N. Security Council.

Plaza Officially Judged Winner of Ecuador Election

Quito, Ecuador, July 6 (U.P.).—Galo Plaza, 41, American-educated farmer and diplomat, won the June 6 presidential elections on the basis of complete official returns announced today by the supreme election tribunal.

Plaza, former Ambassador to the United States and graduate of the California, Maryland and Georgetown Universities, was nominated by the Independent National Democratic movement. He received a total of 115,846 votes, the tribunal said.

His nearest rival, Conservative nominee Manuel Elicio Flor, received 111,979.

Maryland Holds Pro-Truman Line

Baltimore, July 6 (AP). — Maryland's delegation to the Democratic national convention, unruffled by the Eisenhower boom, is maintaining its solid pro-Truman front, reports from political sources indicated today.

Governor Lane was reported to have received a telegram from James Roosevelt, son of the late President, inviting Maryland to join in a draft-Eisenhower move Saturday at Philadelphia. The Maryland executive is said to have declined the invitation. Maryland is committed to President Truman.

German Art Bill Dropped; Signing Reported by Error

Through error of a House committee clerk, the United Press reported on July 1 that President Truman signed a bill authorizing the Army to exhibit Germany's art collection and use the proceeds to feed hungry children in Europe.

Actually, the bill was not passed by Congress. It was dropped when United States officials and German leaders reached voluntary agreement on a plan to return the art treasures to Germany after a coast-to-coast exhibition in this country.

Power Workers Strike Deferred in St. Louis

St. Louis, July 6 (U.P.).—Production workers of the Union Electric Co. of Missouri postponed a strike today which would have shut off all but essential power service in St. Louis and adjacent areas in Missouri and Illinois.

The walkout was threatened when wage talks between the AFL operating engineers and the company became deadlocked. The workers voted last night, however, to extend negotiations for six days.

President Back in Capital

By Edward T. Folliard
Post Reporter

President Truman returned to the Capital last night clearly assuming that he is to be nominated by the Democratic Convention next week for a full four-year term in the Presidency. His train arrived at 9:35 p. m., from his week-end trip to Bolivar, Mo.

The President was not surprised early yesterday when he learned, aboard his train, that Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower had removed himself from the political picture.

The President and the former Chief of Staff of the Army had a long talk at the White House a couple of months ago and it is reasonably certain an understanding was reached at that time.

As early as last April, in a speech before the Young Democrats at the Mayflower, Mr. Truman told a gathering that there would be a Democrat in the White House and "you are looking at him". He has never wavered from that position, confident that Eisenhower would stick to his first pledge to stay out of partisan politics last January.

Possible Damage Seen

Associates of the President yesterday disclosed that the Truman strategists do not expect the anti-Truman forces to rally around Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas as a substitute for the glamorous general. The liberal Douglas, they reason, would never be acceptable to the Southern delegates.

It was apparent to those close to the President, however, that the attempt by some of the highest officials in the party to dump "the boss" in favor of the reluctant Eisenhower had done possible damage to the party and to Mr. Truman's chances for election.

Meanwhile, the strategy for the convention at Philadelphia next week has not reached the point of selecting a running mate for Mr. Truman. But there is an exhaustive search in progress for a Democratic vice presidential candidate who can strengthen the ticket against the formidable Dewey-Warren combine.

Several Names Suggested

Those close to the President say the following names have been suggested—and approved as acceptable runningmates: W. Averell Harriman, former Commerce Secretary and now roving ECA Ambassador. Senators Joseph C. O'Mahoney (Wyo.), Albin W. Barkley (Ky.), and Brien McMahon (Conn.), House Democratic Leader Sam Rayburn (Tex.); Representative John W. McCormack (Mass.) and Justice Douglas.

White House sources conceded that there had been arguments made against each of these possibilities for various reasons but said the choice for the second spot on the Democratic slate might well come out of that list.

On his return trip yesterday from Bolivar, Mo., where on Monday he dedicated a $100,000 statue to Simon Bolivar, nineteenth century South American liberator, Mr. Truman for third consecutive day refused to inject any political notes into his rear platform appearances.

Small Crowds Enthusiastic

To all questions about the Eisenhower statement the President replied with a firm "No comment." However, Brig. Gen. Wallace H. Graham, his personal physician, told reporters yesterday that Mr. Truman had remarked "Eisenhower is an honorable man" when he was informed shortly after midnight about the general's latest renunciation of political ambitions.

Small but enthusiastic crowds turned out to see the President when his 14-special car train paused briefly at Chillicothe, Ohio, and at Parkersburg, Grafton, and Keyser, W. Va.

At dawn at Cincinnati, Mr. Truman suddenly stepped from his private car and walked briskly through the railroad station for the entire length of the train. Reaching the engine, he turned and strode up a ramp through the station waiting room, where he waved to the cheers of early risers there.

Labor Law Stand Is Problem

Philadelphia, July 6 (AP).—Democrat platform writers faced this headache as they arrived here today: whether to pledge repeal of the Taft-Hartley labor law.

The labor plank of the 1948 platform, though not so explosive a subject as the civil rights plank, will stir up some arguments in the party's resolutions committee which starts hearings tomorrow.

The CIO, represented by Secretary James Carey, and the AFL, represented by President William Green, will ask the committee—later in the week—to go on record for the wiping out of the labor law.

Argument for Repeal

Democrats who want to pledge repeal says:

That President Truman vetoed the Taft-Hartley bill and strongly condemned it a year ago. That it became law only after the Republican dominated Congress overrode his veto.

That the law bears the names of two Republicans and has become known as a Republican measure. A Democrat pledge to repeal it would not only please labor leaders but it would fit in with Mr. Truman's campaign strategy of blasting the record of the Eightieth Congress.

On the other hand—many other Democrats say there would be political disadvantages in pledging repeal.

The Democrats, who are at their strongest in the big cities and among industrial workers, want to capture as large a proportion of the farm, rural, and small city vote as possible. Maybe a pledge of repeal would displease some non-labor groups.

More Democrats Backed Bill

Also, more Democrats voted for the Taft-Hartley bill than against it. That fact doesn't fit in with a pledge of repeal.

When the Taft-Hartley bill passed the House, 93 Democrats voted for it, 22 against it. (the Republicans voted for it, 215-84).

After President Truman vetoed the bill, 106-House Democrats voted to override the veto, with only 71 upholding the President. (the Republicans split 225-11).

In the Senate, the Democrats split, 21-21, on the Taft-Hartley bill, while the Republicans were voting for it 47-3. After the veto, Senate Democrats upheld the President by a bare margin, 22-20, while the Republicans were smacking the President down, 48-3.

GOP Rejected Request

Last month the AFL and CIO asked the Republican Party to pledge repeal of the Taft-Hartley Act. Instead, the Republicans said in their 1948 platform: "We pledge continuing study to improve labor-management legislation in the light of experience and changing conditions."

Some political observers expect the Democrats to adopt a general statement, maybe similar to that of the Republicans, instead of pledging repeal.

One thing sure: Labor unions will have more to say in the Democratic Convention — opening Monday—than they did in the Republican.

Union Delegates Estimated

A CIO spokesman said today that "between 75 and 100" CIO members will be included in the 1596 delegates to the Democratic Convention. Among the CIO delegates are CIO President Philip Murray and Jack Kroll, director of the CIO Political Action Committee.

The AFL says it doesn't know how many AFL members will be among the Democrat delegates, but that about 20 or 30 were at the 1944 convention.

The farm plank of the platform will come up first tomorrow when the resolutions committee, headed by Senator Francis J. Myers of Pennsylvania, starts its public hearings.

Jap Officer to Hang For Pistol Target Death of American

Yokohama, Japan, July 6 (U.P.).—An Eighth Army Military Commission today sentenced a former Japanese navy officer to hang, three others to life imprisonment and a fifth to 20 years at hard labor.

They beheaded a captured American flyer, Second Lieut. Robert E. Thorpe, 3 Doylston dr., Granston, R. I., after using him as a target for pistol practice.

Thorpe was captured by Japanese navy personnel after parachuting from his plane on Kairiru Island near New Guinea in June, 1944.

try to have the opportunity of voting for Dwight Eisenhower as a natural candidate, unfettered in these days of international crisis by the normal trappings of partisan politics . . .

"General Eisenhower's statement clearly indicates that he will not serve as a partisan President but will answer a call to national duty."

In similar vein:

1. Frank Hague of New Jersey called on President Truman to urge Eisenhower to accept. Said Hague: "The position of the New Jersey delegation is unchanged . . . New Jersey will cast its 36 votes for an out-and-out draft of General Eisenhower at the convention . . . I can advise the President that New Jersey will go into the Republican column by over 300,000 votes" if Truman is the nominee.

2. Jacob M. Arvey, Chicago Democratic leader, also refused to climb off the Eisenhower limb. Said Arvey: "In view of the general's own definition of his concept to duty, I am still of the belief that despite his unwillingness to be a candidate, as expressed Monday in New York, that if the convention provides the means to draft him, and does so draft him, he cannot and will not refuse to serve his country."

Johnston "Can't Be Tied Away"

3. Senator Olin D. Johnston (D., S. C.) wired Roosevelt, "I couldn't be tied away" from the Saturday night caucus. Johnston said he would carry the "Draft Eisenhower" fight to the Democratic National Executive Committee at Philadelphia. He will offer a resolution instructing McGrath to request Mr. Truman to withdraw in favor of Eisenhower.

4. Governor Tuck of Virginia, Georgia State Chairman James S. Peters, Senator Lister Hill of Alabama and Publisher Leonard V. Finder of the Manchester (N. H.) Evening Leader, to whom the General addressed his original declination, among others continued to press for a "draft."

But some other members of the stop-Truman alignment had either lost heart or were looking for some place else to go.

Henderson Turns to Douglas

Leon Henderson, chairman of Americans for Democratic Action, predicted the name of Associate Justice William O. Douglas will be presented to the convention.

Henderson said ADA still hopes General Eisenhower can be persuaded to accept the nomination but Douglas "is a man who measures up to the presidency . . . The Democratic Party should be proud to have him as its standard bearer."

The ADA leader said a majority of Democrats "are clearly united in their opposition to the nomination of President Truman . . . Neither Chairman McGrath nor anyone need fear for the future of the Democratic Party while men like Hubert Humphrey (Minn.), James Roosevelt, William O'Dwyer and Jacob Arvey are willing to assume aggressive leadership in time of crisis."

Bay Staters for Douglas

A swing over to Douglas meanwhile was urged by a Massachusetts group headed by former Representative Thomas H. Eliot, in letters addressed to all delegates.

The letters termed Douglas "the strongest available liberal leader" and said:

"We are not attacking President Truman personally. But we, and you, are confronted with a fact—there is so little public enthusiasm for the Truman administration that the Democratic Party would face a very difficult uphill fight if he were nominated."

In these other developments:

Cyril Bevan, Michigan National committeeman, who joined the original dump-Truman move, said he saw "no purpose" in going ahead with it after Eisenhower's statement.

Crump Sees Truman Victory

Mayor Hubert Humphrey of Minneapolis said Democrats will "win in November, even without General Eisenhower" if it drafts "a good, liberal, progressive platform — without any political doubletalk."

Memphis Leader E. H. Crump, among the first of the city bosses to break with the Administration, predicted flatly that Truman will be nominated.

Gov. Fielding Wright of Mississippi, who will attend a "stop-Truman" conference of Southern governors in Philadelphia Sunday, ignored the Roosevelt caucus call. Wright said he wouldn't vote for any nominee "until he has publicly taken a stand for States rights."

Bids Roosevelt Resign

Patrick W. McDonough, a member of the California delegation, called for Roosevelt's resignation as delegation leader to restore confidence in the integrity of the delegation. McDonough accused Roosevelt of "publicly renouncing your sworn affidavit to the Democratic voters of California to support President Truman."

William Ritchie, Nebraska State chairman and one of the original Eisenhower boosters, said he will "suggest" Senator Joseph C. O'Mahoney (D., Wyo.) for the nomination instead.

Senator Pepper's unique proposal to nominate Eisenhower but free him of any partisan political obligations was outlined at a press conference after the Floridan wired Roosevelt: "You are right."

Pepper for Man Above Parties

Pepper said Eisenhower's name will be presented to the convention regardless of anything the general has said or will say. He said a Florida delegate or alternate will make the nominating speech unless a State higher up on the roll call does it first.

"The international situation is so acute that World War III could break out at any moment," he said. "We've seen the country go unchecked toward disastrous inflation that some day will lead to another economic collapse. The people won't be satisfied with a partisan President. They want someone to meet this crisis of peace and economic security."

Asked if he knew how Eisenhower stood on housing, civil rights and other domestic issues, Pepper said he did not, but felt national security to be the paramount consideration.

Washington Was Drafted, Too

"We are in one of the really critical periods of our history," he said. "I don't think General Eisenhower is going to accept anything less than a national draft . . . George Washington was chosen on the same basis."

In his wire to Roosevelt, Pepper said:

"This man cannot refuse a truly national draft to truly national leadership in the salvation of his country. He will not stand on the record as favoring the draft of the flower of the Nation's young men and himself refuse a national draft to national leadership. For to him national duty is his supreme commander."

Pepper told Roosevelt, Eisenhower should be left free to "select his counsellors and shape his policies as free of partisanship as if we were in the throes of war itself."

Eisenhower in Letter Sees True Place at Columbia

Fort Lauderdale, Fla., July 6 (AP).—The Daily News today quoted Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower as believing that "as a part of a great and influential university I could do more than anywhere else to promote clear thinking as to the problems facing our democracy."

The newspaper published a letter dated July 2, signed by Eisenhower and addressed to Hugh M. Sutton, Fort Lauderdale attorney.

Sutton had written a letter listing reasons why he believed Eisenhower should "reconsider your position with reference to accepting the Democratic nomination for President."

Eisenhower's reply said that "For whatever it may be worth I hope that, free of any slightest suspicion that my views are colored by partisian approach, I may devote the time left to me to preaching, teaching and living Americanism. By that term I mean to include, among other things, devotion to the concept of human freedom and dignity of man; adherence to the system of free enterprise and recognition that a positive program of supporting freedom both at home and abroad is essential to our future well-being."

D. C. Eisenhower Group Carries on Undeterred

Washington Veterans-for-Eisenhower are carrying on despite the General's statement yesterday.

Maynard B. DeWitt, local director, yesterday said the group would continue its efforts to impress upon the General the fact that his nomination is favored by strong feeling.

No meetings are scheduled but DeWitt said that each member would continue to plug for Eisenhower.

Eisenhower Urges Kinship With World

New York, July 6 (AP).—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower said today that Americans should "recognize kinship with all the world and conduct government in that concept."

He addressed students of the forty-ninth Columbia University session after flatly disavowing political ambitions last night with a statement that he "could not accept nomination for any public office."

Speaking to an estimated 10,000 persons from the steps of Low Memorial Library, the new president of Columbia said:

"The other governments of the Americas and western Europe where men remain free are related to us and we have a common interest with them."

Eisenhower told the summer session students, "You came here fundamentally to make this country a better place for you and your children and those who come after you.

"The American Army and all of this country's armed services have existed from the beginning not only to protect life and property but a way of life.

"Such men as Washington, Jackson, Pershing and Grant have done it in uniform. Others, like Jefferson, Marshall and Lincoln, have done it in civilian activities. We are engaged in the same struggle they fought to accomplish and gave their lives for."

D. C. Indorses Federal Fund Use For Street Work

The Commissioners yesterday indorsed the program of the city's highway department for obtaining $5,288,000 in Federal funds for 16 street and bridge projects here.

The proposed program must still clear through the Federal Public Roads Administration. It is based on the Federal Highway Authorization Act approved by President Truman last week.

To the Federal funds would be added matching District funds that would make an estimated $19,572,000 available for the 16 projects to be built or started over a two-year period.

O'Mahoney Backers Launch Vice Presidential Boom

Philadelphia, July 6 (AP).—Campaign headquarters for the Democratic Vice Presidential candidacy of Wyoming's Senator Joseph C. O'Mahoney were opened in the Bellevue-Stratford today.

The Senator's campaign manager, L. G. (Pat) Flannery of Fort Laramie, Wyo., said O'Mahoney has received pledges of support from his home State and from Nebraska and Montana.

In addition, Flannery said, O'Mahoney expects to receive considerable support in the East.

Flannery was pitching his campaign on two points:

1. Senator O'Mahoney had been a "spearhead fighter for every sound, progressive measure advanced by President Truman."

2. In the 1946 election when Republicans regained control of Congress, O'Mahoney was the only Democratic Senator west of the Mississippi and north of the Mason-Dixon line to hold his seat.

As the first of the Vice Presidential campaign headquarters opened, Democratic leaders began to arrive in Philadelphia for the National Convention that opens Monday.

Among them was Leslie Biffle, Democratic Secretary in the Senate and sergeant at arms of the Convention.

California Capital Welcomes Home Warren, Family

Sacramento, Calif., July 6 (U.P.).—California's capital gave Gov. Earl Warren, the Republican vice presidential nominee, and his family a home-town welcome tonight.

The occasion was the return of Mrs. Nina Warren and the three Warren daughters to their home here. Warren, who flew home last week, went 100 miles east this morning to arrive aboard the train. Two of their three sons also joined the party before it arrived.

A crowd estimated at more than 5000 persons turned out to surround the railroad station.

A half-mile long parade was organized by city officials to take Warren to the Capitol.

Warren in a brief speech at the Capitol did not mention his candidacy except to say he had "entered on a new mission" and was going to "work hard on my asignment."

Sawyer Not Candidate For Second Post

Secretary of Commerce Sawyer said yesterday he is not a candidate for Vice President.

Reed Winegardner, delegate to the Democratic National Convention from Ohio's Seventh District, had said that Sawyer, a Cincinnati lawyer, was his first choice for the Democratic nomination for Vice President.

Asked for comment, Sawyer said:

'Quake Toll Is 5570

Tokyo, July 6 (AP).—Fukui prefectural police estimated today that last week's earthquake took 5570 lives and injured 19,628.

Damage was estimated at 48,500,000,000 yen ($179,620,000).

Truman May Call Special Session

St. Louis, July 6 (U.P.).—President Truman said today in a letter to Representative Frank Karsten (D., Mo.) that he is seriously considering calling Congress into special session for housing legislation.

Karsten, who had urged a special session, made public the President's reply.

"Of course, I am well acquainted with the seriousness of the housing situation and I am sincerely sorry that the Eightieth Congress did not see fit to take action," Mr. Truman wrote.

"However, I can't see very well the necessity for calling back that same Congress to do nothing about it, although I have the matter under serious consideration."

Court Closes Book On Mo. Vote Fraud

Kansas City, July 6 (AP).—The last fraud conspiracy case growing out of the 1946 primary election here was dismissed today at the request of the Government.

In granting the dismissal, Federal Judge Richard M. Duncan said he believed there had been irregularities and fraud in the conduct of the election but added that Federal law does not effectively cover vote conspiracy cases.

Richard M. Phelps, special assistant to the U. S. Attorney General, said Judge Duncan's ruling against admission of testimony of a former State grand jury made trial of the last case a "futile gesture."

He asked Judge Duncan to dismiss the charges against Joseph M. Tanner, a State legislator; Charles Modica, a deputy Circuit Court clerk, and three others. Tanner and Modica served as Democratic election officials.

Two Federal grand juries named 38 persons in indictments following an investigation of the primary. Two were convicted in jury trials; two were sentenced after pleading guilty or no defense; two died, and one defendant was convicted but was granted a new trial. The rest either ware acquitted or charges were dismissed against them at the request of the Government.

Tuck Caucus Plans Pushed, Unchanged

Richmond, Va., July 6 (AP).—Governor Tuck today said he would attend the preconvention caucus of anti-Truman Democrats at Philadelphia Saturday and that General Eisenhower's statement had not changed his plans.

The Governor pointed out, however, that the caucus was called originally to select the best candidate possible for the Democratic presidential nomination and did not specifically mention the name of General Eisenhower.

Meanwhile, newly elected Democratic National Committeeman G. Fred Switzer of Harrisonburg said Virginia's 26 convention votes would be cast for the former Army chief of staff according to instructions of Friday's State convention.

The Governor's comment, issued through his office while he was at Virginia Beach, was in reply to a telegram from James Roosevelt, Democratic State chairman of California.

Roosevelt sent the telegram after Eisenhower's statement yesterday in which he said he could not be a candidate in any partisan political contest.

"General Eisenhower's statement clearly indicates that he will not serve as a partisan President," the Roosevelt wire said, "but will answer a call to national duty."

A report spread here that Virginia's delegates would cast their first ballot vote for Tuck. Switzer said he knew nothing of such a move, but political leaders in Richmond were discussing it freely today.

Commenting on the recent State party convention, Switzer said:

"The Harrisonburg and Rockingham County delegates were fairly well satisfied with Chairman Massenburg's ruling on the resolutions vote. I heard of some who were dissatisfied with it, but most of them were satisfied and regarded his decision as the correct one."

Switzer was referring to the omnibus resolution that included among other things a provision for a recall of the convention on two-thirds vote of the State central committee. It was passed on a voice vote on a ruling by Massenburg, and there has been criticism from some quarters that the "ayes" did not have it and that the resolution was "railroaded" through the convention.

Democrats Still Favor Truman

Democratic Party as a candidate for nomination when pitted against other possible Democratic nominees. Despite many ups and downs, the President has continually led in such tests ever since he took office. In May, 1946 he was the choice of 61 per cent for the Democratic nomination, with Henry A. Wallace the next strongest contender. That was before Mr. Wallace shook the dust of the Democratic Party from his heels and set up his own third party.

President Truman's popularity as a nominee sank to a low point in December, 1946, the month after the Democratic Party lost control of both houses of Congress in the congressional elections. But by July of 1947 the President had regained an overwhelming lead, polling 71 per cent.

The Truman percentage on the eve of this year's convention is far below the standing of the late Franklin D. Roosevelt on the eve of the 1940 and 1944 nominations. In July, 1940, an Institute poll among Democrats found that 92 per cent were in favor of Mr. Roosevelt's nomination for a third term. Four years later support for him was again overwhelming, despite some opposition within the party, especially in the South. In June, 1944, he was the choice of 90 per cent for nomination for a fourth term.

In the Republican convention last month the man who was leading the Institute's GOP candidate poll won the nomination. Gov. Thomas E. Dewey was the first choice of 33 per cent of the party's voters, with Harold E. Stassen next with 26 per cent and Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg third with 13 per cent.

Wilcher Says He Won't Quit GOP Committee

Arlington real estate man Talmage Wilcher said yesterday he has "not resigned, and I do not intend to resign" as a member of the Virginia State Republican Committee.

Commenting on an interparty row during a banquet Saturday night in Alexandria, Wilcher said there was "no disagreement" between himself and other committee members.

But Carl A. Marshall, chairman of the Republican Eighth Congressional District Committee and the man with whom Wilcher had exchanged some heated words Saturday, said the committee would work to oust the Arlington committeeman.

Although Wilcher declined comment on the Saturday episode, banquet observers said the verbal tiff began when Marshall ruled Wilcher out of order as the latter attempted to get a resolution on the floor.

The resolution objected to appointment 'of Nathan J. Paulson, Alexandria Republican chairman, to lead in organizing Young Republicans in northern Virginia.

When Wilcher and several others objected to Marshall's ruling, the Eighth District chairman left his place as Wilcher moved toward him from the audience. The brief verbal battle took place before the two men were separated.

Meanwhile, Bennie L. Fletcher, jr., president of the Arlington Young Republican Club, said blame for the "unfortunate display of temper" rested "solely on the shoulders of myself" and club members.

He said club members felt they had grounds for complaint, in that they were not consulted in the Paulson appointment, which touched off the disturbance, but "we had no idea that our protest would cause the furor that developed."

Marshall, attending a special meeting of the Young Republicans last night, promised that the junior GOP members would be consulted when such appointments as Paulson's come up in the future.

Police Investigate Death of FWA Woman Employe

Police last night were investigating the sudden death yesterday of Miss Martha E. Chabot, 34, employe in the administrative division of Federal Works Agency, found dead on her bed.

Her body was found sprawled across her made-up bed at Scott's Hotel, 2131 O st. nw., by a housekeeper, Grace Burroughs, 50, of 2147 O st. nw. She was pronounced dead on arrival at Gallinger Hospital, at 6:25 p. m., presumably from natural causes.

The housekeeper, police said, investigated after Miss Chabot's supervisors asked a check for the woman, a conscientiously prompt employe, when she failed to report for work, or telephone an excuse.

Naval Museum Planned at Decatur House

The marriage house and stables of historic Decatur House will be converted into Washington's first naval museum, the Naval Historical Foundation announced yesterday.

Mrs. Truxtun Beale, owner of the home on Lafayette Square, has agreed to rent the stables and carriage house to the Foundation for $1 a year under a 50-year lease.

The museum will display naval relics, such as ship models, weapons, uniforms, pictures and manuscripts, which the Foundation has been collecting since 1926. The manuscript and print collection will be available also for reference and research.

$25,000 Remodeling Planned

The new museum will be called the Truxtun-Decatur Naval Museum. About $25,000 will be needed to set it up and convert the present structures, according to the Foundation. Maintenance and operation costs will run about $5000 a year.

The Foundation is now seeking contributions from its members and the public to finance the project.

The museum will be located within two blocks of the White House and will be readily available to tourists. At present, the nearest naval museum is located at Annapolis, Md.

Decatur House was built in 1819 by Commodore Stephen Decatur with prize money he had won in the wars with the Babary pirates. Decatur died there a year later after he was mortally wounded in a duel with James Barron at Bladensburg.

Designed by Latrobe

Barron had challenged Decatur, who was a member of the court martial that ordered his suspension as commander of the ship, the Chesapeake. The duel took place March 22, 1820, and Decatur died within 12 hours at his home. The dueling pistols are still in the house.

The house was designed by Benjamin T. Lathrobe, one of the architects who helped design the Capitol. Martin Van Buren lived there when he was Secretary of State. It has been the residence of many other members of the Cabinet, of Congress and the Diplomatic Corps.

It was purchased after the Civil War by Edward Fitzgerald Beale, grandson of Commodore Thomas Truxtun, one of this country's first naval officers.

The Naval Historical Foundation is headed by Fleet Admiral Ernest J. King (U.S.N. ret.).

Kensington Seats Mayor, 2 Councilmen

Mayor-elect Leonard Daymude of Kensington, Md., and council members James A. I. Parker and Mrs. Mildred B. Harman were formally installed last night in ceremonies at the Kensington Elementary School.

Mayor Daymude, who succeeds Col. Clarence V. Sayer, was elected to the post in June while serving on the town council, thus creating a vacancy. A caucus will be held tonight to nominate another councilman.

Mrs. Harman is the first woman elected to the council. The other present councilman is Raymond Weber.

Judge Alfred D. Noyes of Rockville Juvenile Court, conducted the installations before more than 200 Kensington residents. Retiring Mayor Sayer made the address of welcome; master of ceremonies was Leo Paulin.

Mayor Daymude promised the council will do "everything in our power to bring better government to Kensington." He urged residents to attend council meetings and make suggestions.

Following installation ceremonies, a brief open forum was held, with citizens commenting on various town needs and offering recommendations for improvement.

Federation Offers Plan For Memorial

Fort Worth, July 6 (AP).—The National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs biennial convention today found a $75,000 stained glass memorial to past national presidents too impractical for immediate adoption.

It deferred action until 1950.

The recommendation was for a window to be placed in the Episcopal Cathedral of SS. Peter and Paul in Washington, known as the National Cathedral. It was defeated for this session after spirited discussions involving the quick and the dead, religious affiliations and relative benefits to the cause for peace between a window symbolizing peace and money spent rehabilitating war-torn peoples.

The vote ended today's business session at Will Rogers Auditorium one half day behind schedule. Reports of the nominating committee were made by Dr. Minnie L. Maffett, Dallas, chairman. There were no nominations from the floor.

Candidates were presented to the delegates from the stage by Miss Sally Butler, national president.

The recommendation for the memorial window was presented by Miss Charl Ormond Williams of Washington, chairman of the memorial committee. Theme of the window, "Women of the World," would suggest activities of women throughout the ages, and a book of donors and a book of remembrance would be placed near the window. Approximate cost of the project, she said, would be $75,000.

$300,000 Gold Theft Baffles French Police

Paris, July 6 (U.P.).—Police still did not know today what had happened to the $300,000 worth of gold stolen from a customs shed at Orly Airfield Sunday in the biggest burglary in French history.

The cases in which the gold was shipped were found yesterday by a worker at Suresnes Dam on the Seine River, but all three were empty.

Summer Classes Open in 27 D. C. Schools

Summer school, six weeks of it, got under way yesterday in the District for thousands of high, junior high and elementary school students.

At 14 white and 13 colored schools, the students began classes at 8:30 and called it a day at 12:30 p. m. That's the way it's to be, Monday through Friday, until the sessions end in mid-August.

Only exception to this schedule is the veterans' school at Central High, which runs from 8:30 a. m. to 2:30 p. m. each school day.

Board of Education officials listed the schools as Veterans' School at Central High; McKinley and Dunbar High Schools—for regular high school students; Junior High Schools—Hine, Macfarland, Garnet-Patterson, Browne; Elementary Schools—Janney, Hyde, West, Emery, Burroughs, Amidon, Thomson, Maury, Wallach, Ketcham, Bell, Burrville, J. F. Cook, Garfield, Garrison, Giddings, Lovejoy, Mott, Phillips, and Sumner.

Britons' Meat Ration Upped to 20c Weekly

London, July 6 (U.P.).—Food Minister John Strachey announced today that Britain's weekly meat ration will remain 17 cents worth of fresh meat and 3 cents worth of canned corned beef until further notice.

The ration was cut last week because of the London dock strike, but supplies are almost back to the meager postwar normal.

Carol Landis' Suicide Ascribed To Love and Money Troubles

Hollywood, July 6 (AP).—Unhappiness in love and financial instability were ascribed by friends of Carole Landis tonight as motivating forces in her suicide.

Her death, which Detective Capt. Emmett Jones said was "definitely a suicide," was a shock to Hollywood, which long ago became accustomed to similar shocks. Many other actors and actresses have taken their lives because of unhappiness and financial reverses.

But Carole Landis seemed to Hollywood to be an extreme extrovert. Long a popular actress, she had kept fairly busy in pictures since she was discovered in a San Francisco night club and billed as the movies' first sweater girl.

She had been married four times. Her lawyer said she had effected a "satisfactory settlement" with W. Horace Schmidlapp, New York theatrical producer, husband No. 4, who she sued for divorce last March 22. Terms of the settlement were not disclosed, but recent actions of the actress indicated, studio sources said, that she was faced with a financial stringency.

She had been negotiating for the sale of her mortgaged home. She had asked for an advance from her studio on a movie she was to start next week. Movie sources disclosed she had bought lavishly in recent years and that many of her accounts were long overdue. She had started a retrenchment of expenses in the last few weks and among othr things released her press agent.

Members of her family said, however, they were at a loss to explain her act. Her brother, Lawrence B. Ridste of San Bernardino, said he would question Rex Harrison, British actor, about his association with Miss Landis.

Harrison found Miss Landis' body yesterday in the bathroom of her home. She had taken an overdose of sleeping pills and left a note for her mother, Mrs. Clara Landis. Without explaining her act, it said, "I'm sorry, really sorry to put you through this, but there is no way to avoid it."

Harrison told police he was "a very good friend" of the actress. Her maid, Fannie Holden, said he had been a frequent guest at the actress' home, dining and swimming with her. Harrison said he and Miss Landis had been discussing a picture they planned to make in England.

Harrison's wife, Lilli Palmer, New York actress, flew here today to join him. There have been reports in Hollywood she and Harrison was estranged.

Later today, Harrison issued a statement in which he said: "My wife and I are not estranged and never have been. I had planned to join her in New York next Thursday. I do not fear appearing at an inquest into Miss Landis' death, if one is called. She and I were just friends. We dined together Sunday night at her home. She told me that she had general financial problems.

"My wife and I both plan to attend the funeral."

Miss Palmer then told reporters she and her husband were not estranged.

"I am terribly upset over Miss Landis' death," she said. "We were friends for years. I saw her recently in New York, where I had been visiting my mother and sister."

Detective Capt. Emmett Jones disclosed Miss Landis had sold her residence for $65,000. He said the money was now in escrow.

Funeral arrangements were being made for Thursday.

HAVE YOU HEARD ABOUT SU-PURB?
(the "do-more" soap that makes washdays easier!)

Every granule of SU-PURB does more work for you because every granule of SU-PURB is actually SOAPIER—by laboratory test

IF YOURS is an average family, you wash about 32 lbs. of laundry each week. Goodness knows you can't avoid washdays, but the right soap can make them a lot less of a chore. You'll agree to that the very first time you use SU-PURB—the "do-more" soap that's made soapier, to hustle you through the hardest wash.

Tests show SU-PURB is noticeably soapier. At our request, a firm of independent chemists has repeatedly analyzed SU-PURB. At the same times, this firm has also analyzed three of the leading granulated soaps on the market. Result? These impartial analyses confirm what your own use will show you: SU-PURB granulated SOAP is noticeably superior to the others tested in "soapiness."

Judge SU-PURB at our risk. Look for SU-PURB next time you shop. It's featured at Safeway stores. Buy at our risk, and make your own washday test!

Unless you are more than pleased—simply return remaining soap in SU-PURB package to the store where you bought it, for a refund of twice the purchase price. This offer is for a limited time only.

LOOK what one pkg. of "do-more" SU-PURB can do for you:

Mrs. B. M. Angell, consulting home economist (and housewife), got exciting results like these in recent washing tests . .

40 WORK PANTS (greasy)
There's cleansing power enough in one 24 oz. pkg. of SU-PURB to wash 40 pairs of dirty work pants—and get 'em bran-spang-clean!

Dear Mr. President

(The following letter has been sent to President Truman by the Italian-American Trade Union Committee of the Congress of Industrial Organizations. The Committee is the official liaison between the Congress of Industrial Organizations and the Italian Confederation of Labor.)

Honorable Harry S. Truman
The White House
Washington, D. C. June 28, 1948

Dear Mr. President:

More than two months have passed since the critical Italian election.

By their choice in that election, the Italian people gave the democratic parties of Italy, and the Western democracies, a chance to show what they could do.

All of us know that the people of Italy are desperate. The new government, democratically chosen, democratic in purpose, must prove itself in action by bettering conditions rapidly throughout Italy.

The time for action is short. The burdens of fascism and war have been bitter and heavy. The poverty, sickness and unemployment which have ruled Italy since long before the war must be alleviated with all possible speed.

Yet even more important, this people which has so magnificently expressed its confidence in us and in the methods of democracy must be allowed a faith by which to live. Nations have never lived by bread alone.

The meaning of the great election must not be misunderstood.

The democratic parties won because they were ready to accept help from America. They won because they stood for economic reconstruction. But that is only part of the picture.

The democratic parties also won because they stood for civil liberties and representative government. But that, too, is just part of the picture.

Even more, the democratic parties won because they stood for a great faith: the faith that democracy can be broadened out into the entire economic system by democratic methods and without impairing democratic government.

It would be an ominous thing if the new government of Italy and its friends in the West failed to grasp that aspect of the Italian election.

It will not be enough to pour food and equipment into Italy. It will not be enough to stem the onslaughts of hunger and the ravages of disease. It will not be enough to finish rebuilding the factories and railroads, and put the economy physically on its feet.

The new government will have to solve other problems which run much deeper, and do so with American approval and aid.

The people of Italy expect that democratic principles will be introduced into economic processes and institutions:

that the land will be given to those who till it;

that the industrial workers and all the people will have a voice in the operation of industry; that production for exploitation and profit will give way to production for human welfare.

The new government has made many pledges, particularly regarding the land. The people of Italy believe these pledges. They believe they were made in good faith. They believe they will be carried out. They believe that America will permit and help them to be realized.

And, Mr. President, that is the critical test of the DeGasperi government in Italy and of our policy in supporting that government.

If the Italian economy is reconstructed merely with a view to private exploitation, our aid will make little difference. It will not matter very much how many profitable factories may be running, how many hydro-electric plants may be earning big dividends, how much irrigation may have been done for the benefit of big land owners.

The Italian people, like the people of all Europe, envision an economic order in which production is carried on for the benefit of all the people, not the profit of a few, in which land and machinery are now secure in the hands of the men who use them.

The old order is done for. If we seek to rebuild in the old patterns, we will fail. The Communists will have only to stand and wait. They will have only to bide their time while the democratic parties of Italy, and our Western democracies, prove that they do not understand the heart and mind of the common man in Italy, and that they cannot act even to save themselves in this all-too-desperate situation.

Mr President, we think we understand this problem. Most of us are Americans of Italian descent. We have many relatives and friends in Italy. We were in touch with them in the days before the election.

We represent unions in which there are many other Americans of Italian descent. They too have their relatives and friends in Italy. They too were in touch with them before the election.

Together we compose a committee of the CIO which maintains direct contact with the Italian labor movement. We are acquainted with all the currents in that movement, all the subtle differences of opinion. We are satisfied that Italian labor, like the Italian people in general, believes in political democracy, regardless of what some of its leaders may think. We are also satisfied, however, that Italian labor wants economic democracy along with political democracy. And economic democracy means a solid trade union movement, plus democratic public ownership and control of the basic economy.

Briefly, Mr. President, if the new Italian government and the Western democracies are to retain the advantage the election has given them, political events in Italy must move forward promptly into economic democracy, must result in democratic social ownership and control of the central elements of the Italian economy by the Italian people.

Nothing less than such a basic transformation of the Italian social order can stem the otherwise inevitable advance of totalitarian Communism in Italy. Not all the economic aid in the world can do it. Nor all the armies and the armament.

Some difficult, but very realistic, things must be done:

1. The land must be given to the peasants. All the great estates, those of wealthy individuals, those of powerful institutions, must be swiftly broken up.

Such compensation as may be just and as the nation can afford should be paid in due time.

As happened with our Public Domain under the Homestead Laws, these estates should be parcelled out to those who will cultivate them personally.

The Christian Democratic Party pledged itself to such a course many long months ago. Does it propose to wait until distribution takes place by the methods of Eastern Europe?

2. The vital institutions of cooperative democracy on the land must be created with all speed.

Agricultural machinery is desperately needed and must be provided, of course, but cooperatives must be built up, too, through which this machinery can be made available, repaired, and operated in common by the farmers.

Fertilizer must be provided, of course, but there must be teachers also to demonstrate its use and to spread the practices of crop rotation, contour plowing, and the like, so familiar to us now in America, which can make the difference in a few short years between productive land and desert.

The ancient system and philosophy of the use and ownership of land must change: there must be a widespread knowledge among all the people that the land is theirs for cultivation in cooperation with one another, and that they have the approval and the backing of their government and of our America.

3. The trade unions must have the continuing protection of the Italian government and the Western powers. There must be no confusion about that, even though some union leaders may disagree with our political point of view.

The essential thing is to strengthen the economic and political organizations of the Italian people. This will help guarantee that the Italian government will stay democratic.

Given help in their democratic faith, the workers themselves will take care of such anti-democratic trends as may trouble their movement in these troublous days.

4. The war damage to homes in Italian cities has not been repaired. Even before the war, the shelter standards of the Italian people were miserably low. The bombings and the suspension of construction for many years have increased the overcrowding to intolerable proportions.

Private residential construction everywhere is speculative. It has refused to take chances in the unsettled conditions of Italy since the war. It shows no sign of changing its mind. It will hedge until long after normal stability returns. The Italian people cannot wait that long to get a roof over their heads.

The cities of Italy must be rebuilt by public enterprise. We have plenty of proof from all over the world, and in our own America, that public enterprise can be relied on to build good houses for people of low income. A vigorous public housing movement must be launched by the new Italian government quickly with our approval and help.

This is a great opportunity to rebuild the ruined Italian cities on sound principles of city planning. The crowded urban centers should be spread out. The small towns should be built up. There must be green space where city workers can live and play. There can be a great vision and promise in all this. Have we the capacity to understand?

5. Great imaginative projects of regional development must be started. The new government should take the story and the practice of our TVA to Italy. New forests must be planted on denuded mountain slopes, devastated long before the days of Caesar. A beginning must be made in rebuilding the lowland soils for crops and pasture. The mountain streams and great rivers must be harnessed for hydro-electric power and the control of floods. Drainage and irrigation must add to the area of tillable land.

Above all, these great developments must be carried out as the projects of the people themselves. This is a job for public enterprise. In America we still debate the merits of public and private enterprise. In Italy, as in all Europe, that debate is over. The people of Italy, like the people of all Europe, are convinced that resource development is the democratic responsibility of all the people together, and must be carried out by public enterprise.

This is not merely a notion, a belief. This is not merely an economic or a social theory. This is a faith: a faith that the work of the nation can best be done by all the people pulling together, not by a few seeking profit, nor even by many working at odds with one another. We cannot cheat that faith and hope to retain our present advantage, our success, our prestige, our security, in Italy. It would be a fatal mistake to miscalculate on that point.

6. If the challenge of this crisis is to be met by the new Italian government, Italy must broaden the area of democratic public control in its economy.

This control must start with the banks and insurance companies. The basic financial institutions must become public property. They must be carried on as public enterprise. They must reflect a single purpose: the satisfaction of the economic needs of the Italian people.

There must be an end to private exploitation by huge financial interests. There must be an end to private financial manipulation of Italian industry. That extension of democratic public ownership and management into all key financial institutions which is taking place in other democratic countries must be carried through promptly in Italy.

7. The same principles apply to all highly organized and mechanized or basic industries. The time has long since passed in Europe, and certainly it has passed in Italy, when textiles, steel, machinery, chemicals, fertilizers, power, mining, shipping, railroads, and housing could be looked upon as a just field for private exploitation at a profit.

Unless we understand that much about our friends in Italy, we understand nothing. Unless we understand the need for public enterprise in these fields, unless we face that need and support those policies, we cannot hope to utilize the opportunities the recent election has given us.

The Italian people did not vote the Communists down because the Communists favored the redistribution of the land. They did not vote the Communists down because the Communists favored economic planning.

They did not vote the Communists down because the Communists stood for the public ownership and operation of the means of big industrial production.

Quite the contrary: Italy voted non-Communist although and in spite of the fact that the Communists offered the peasants the land and promised a planned and stabilized industry. They voted non-Communist because they want both socialism and democracy. If these are hard words for some Americans to take, the ultimate victory of authoritarian Communism in Italy, in all of Europe, unless these words are understood, will certainly be harder.

But that is the choice, Mr. President. You and the men who speak for America in the European Recovery Program, here and abroad, must understand that choice. The men who represent our American corporations in their separate operations abroad must also understand that choice. They must not seek to turn the clock of history back.

Some people will say that if America fosters basic social change in Italy it will be interfering in Italian affairs. The Communists, among others, will shout that charge from the housetops. America should take that charge in its stride, because the accusation is false.

Everything we do, in Italy, in Europe, or at home, for that matter, affects the situation in Italy. Everything that our Government or our businessmen do which touches Europe or Italy in any manner, affects the situation in Italy, will help or hinder basic change, and can be looked on as interference if one chooses.

A multitude of choices will be made by our governmental representatives in Europe and Italy in carrying out the European Recovery Program. A multitude of choices will be made by American businessmen in Italy and in Europe over which our Government can and will exert control. That control can be called interference, but it cannot be avoided. The question is whether it helps or hinders the Italian people in going ahead with the kind of social transformation they most certainly desire.

Your power, Mr. President, to influence the choices made by our Government spokesmen and our businessmen in this situation is immense. Your responsibility to democracy in this crisis is unbelievably heavy.

As American citizens of Italian descent, as trade unionists, and as friends and relatives of plain people on the other side, with whom we are in constant communication, we understand the situation in Italy well. The new government and its backers must face the clear-cut choice of going ahead promptly with the socialization of the basic industries and the redistribution of the land by democratic methods, or letting these things be done by others through expropriation, violence, and permanent dictatorship.

For our part, we propose that the policies of organized labor throughout the world, as they bear on the Italian situation, shall foster the democratic outcome, shall work toward broader public ownership and public enterprise, toward the cooperative ownership and cultivation of the land, and toward the permanent preservation of civil liberties and representative government.

The obligation of all of us, Mr. President, to Italy and Europe, to our own America, and to the democratic cause, in this fateful hour, cannot be evaded. The opportunity presented to all of us must not be lost. The President of the United States, the representatives of the American Government, at home and abroad, American businessmen, and American labor, must work together courageously for the social change which must come about in Italy. Humanity will hold all of us accountable for the things we do and for the things we fail to do. Failure to adopt a realistic program for world rehabilitation and reconstruction can mean the difference between war and peace.

Part of Uprising In Peru Collapses

Lima, Peru, July 6 (U.P.).—A government communique announced tonight that an uprising of the army garrison at Puno, in southern Peru, has collapsed, and order has been restored.

The communique added that yesterday's rightwing revolt now has been limited to the garrison at Juliaca, 30 miles from Puno and measures are being taken to put it down.

No mention was made of the garrison at Huancane, which earlier reports said had joined the revolt.

The communique said the Puno garrison had wired the inspector general of the army that most of the officers had abandoned the movement because they felt they had been deceived.

It added the Interior Ministry was in contact with the prefect of the town, the civil guard and the police, all reporting that normalcy had been restored.

As to the Juliaca garrison, the communique said army, aviation, civil guard and police forces were acting jointly to put an end to the uprising.

Panama Arrests 375 In Political Rioting

Panama City, Panama, July 6 (U.P.).—Police announced today that 375 persons had been arrested in connection with week-end political riots in which at least four persons were killed and scores wounded.

As a result of the disorders, the government declared a state of siege and placed the country under control of the national police.

With all civil rights suspended, Panama remained tensely quiet. No public demonstrations or meetings were permitted and no further skirmishes were reported since Sunday.

The situation was the outcome of the indecisive May 9 presidential elections, in which opposition candidate Arnulfo Arias apparently won by a small margin over Government Candidate Domingo Diaz.

Arias and officials of his revolutionary party remained in the Canal Zone, where they took asylum as soon as violence broke out.

Kaiser-Frazer Car Prices Up

Detroit, July 6 (AP).—Kaiser-Frazer Corp. today announced price increases ranging from $23 to $169 on its Kaiser and Frazer automobiles.

The new factory list prices are: Kaiser, $2091, up $124; Frazer, $2321, up $169, and Manhattan $2573, up $23. The Kaiser custom model price remains unchanged at $2301.

Fred R. Cooper, vice president in charge of sales, said the increase is the first made on Kaiser and Frazer cars for 11 months, and added:

"Higher costs of virtually all parts and materials which we purchase, plus a new wage agreement with K-F employes, have combined to force the present action."

300,000 Walk Out in Italian Protest Strike

Rome, July 6 (U.P.).—Three hundred thousand chemical workers struck for 12 hours today in the second phase of the Communist-directed campaign against the government's program to regulate by law the right to strike.

The half-day strikes will continue through Friday, with electric steel, glass and ceramics industry workers all scheduled to walk off their jobs.

The nation's electrical workers are set to strike tomorrow, cutting off electricity to private establishments but maintaining public services.

As the government appeared moving steadily toward strike-control legislation, Communist labor bosses defended their strike program as the only means of forcing industry to cease firing surplus workers and to pay higher wages and family allowances.

One Communist leader warned that "we will resort to graver measures after July 10," if necessary.

However, Premier Alcide de Gasperi's Christian Democratic Party organ indicated that the government was ready for a showdown with labor.

Koreans Back Constitution

Seoul, Korea, July 6 (U.P.).—The United Nations-approved Korean Assembly virtually accepted a constitution today calling for semi-Socialist controls over industry and commerce.

The constitution claims jurisdiction over Russian-occuped north Korea as well as the American-occupied south. It provides that the two zones eventually be rejoined.

All 102 articles of the constitution were approved paragraph by paragraph, but a vote on the document as a whole was postponed until tomorrow.

ECA to Favor China Business

Shanghai, July 6 (AP).—Private enterprise will get the first help from the American Economic Cooperation Administration in China, top ECA officials said today.

Roger Lapham, China director for ECA, told a news conference he found private enterprise "more productive" than Chinese government projects and said "I am out here to get the most I can for the American taxpayer's dollars."

Charles Stillman, head of an ECA survey mission, said he would recommend American aid to projects backed by private capital when he returns to Washington. He expects to leave here July 25 to make a preliminary report in person to ECA Director Paul Hoffman.

Stillman said ECA "is committed to a policy of private trading." (He did not explain in detail how this is to be ararnged with the government of China, where for centuries many large enterprises have remained under state control or domination.)

Stillman said that most of American aid would be applied to south China, where there is less danger of Communist interference.

Intrastate Bus Fare Hearing Set for July 28

The Virginia State Corporation Commission has set July 28 as the date for a hearing on a request by the Alexandria, Barcroft & Washington Transit Co. to increase fares on intrastate rides.

The request, according to A. B. & W. General Manager Beverly C. May, is necessary to overcome an operating deficit which will reach $23,500 a month unless increased fares are permitted.

The intrastate revision would raise present 5 and 10-cent fares by 5 cents and eliminate use of the 12½-cent token in 15, 20 and 25-cent cash fare zones.

Arbitrary Arrest

The line between unwarranted license and freedom of information is admittedly difficult to draw in the case of photographers taking pictures of accidents. No doubt there are many instances in which the public interest is served by restraining overly impetuous photographers determined to snap pictures of disasters under any and all circumstances. Policemen usually invoke the rule of reason in cases of this sort without protest from the press and with appreciation from the public. In the arrest of Joseph D. Jamieson, Associated Press photographer, by a Virginia State trooper at the scene of an accident near Bull Run, however, there are indications of unreasonable interference with wholly legitimate news-gathering activity.

Mr. Jamieson was arrested on a charge of failing to leave the scene of an accident upon the order of an officer. Does this mean that Virginia claims the right to order photographers away from the vicinity of an accident at their own discretion regardless of what the circumstances may be? That would be outrageous. Apparently Mr. Jamieson was ordered not to take a picture until the body of a man killed in the accident had been removed. He insists that he did not—that when given such instructions by the police he only set up his equipment on a bank preparatory to taking the picture later. For this he was arrested—he also claims he was threatened with violence—by an officer who seemed to be more concerned with obstructing the press than with his legitimate business of caring for the dead and wounded and investigating the cause of the accident. If this report of the case is substantiated, it would seem to involve arbitrary and unconstitutional interference with the freedom of the press which the Virginia authorities should hasten to correct.

The Cominform

The old Communist International, or Comintern, had as its avowed purpose nothing less than world revolution. That is to say, it strove in every country to undermine the prestige of the established government and, by incessant agitation, to exploit grievances, infiltrate crypto-Communists into positions of power and to create a chaotic revolutionary situation that might enable the party to seize the reins of power. The means employed might vary considerably, but the purpose remained the same. Such was the history of the Comintern under the celebrated Comrade Zinoviev.

But, with the infamous purge trials, the five-year plans and the doctrine of socialism-in-one-country, this history of the Comintern entered a new phase. It became less an instrument of actual revolution and more an instrument of Soviet foreign policy. The discipline it exerted over the various Communist Parties gave it power to foment strikes, demonstrations and other disturbances wherever it was useful to do so; but it could also be a service to the politicians in power. Thus the Comintern had a nuisance value which was exploited by Soviet diplomats in their dealings with the politicians of other nations. It was also highly serviceable in Russian espionage operations, as the Report of the Canadian Royal Commission abundantly demonstrates. However, the Soviet leaders who used their control of the Communist Parties as a bargaining point did not invariably get the better of their bargains. For example, it was the Nazis rather than Russia who benefited by the coercions applied by the Comintern to the German Communists to make them swallow the Hitler-Stalin pact of 1939. This seems to prove that the repudiation of scruple, which the Communists call "realism," is not necessarily a protection against the consequences of political stupidity.

It is now becoming clear that in its third metamorphosis as the Cominform, the main business of the Comintern is neither world revolution nor diplomatic pressure and espionage in capitalist countries, but the intimidation of "popular fronts" or leftist alliances, of which the Communists made use in seizing power in the satellite countries. If such an organization as the Cominform is necessary to keep these alliances under discipline, we may conclude that they contain a large number of politicians whose conformity to the party line is reluctant and whose fidelity to it in future is therefore uncertain.

It is also possible to conclude that the "realism" of the Soviet leaders is not less fallible now than it was in 1939. It seems fairly clear that the response of Tito and his henchmen to the anathemas hurled at them were in no way anticipated by Comrade Zhdanov. His conduct in inviting this blow to Russian prestige is explicable only on the surmise that he expected a formal act of submission by Tito, followed by a purge of the Yugoslavian recalcitrants, or the deposition or liquidation of Tito by elements in Yugoslavia still obedient to Moscow.

Thus from the broader view the most interesting aspect of the Yugoslavian incident is not the apparent breach it has made in the ring of Soviet puppet states, important as that is, but the failure of Communist discipline. For the first time a non-Russian Communist has defied the orders of Moscow and has not been punished for it by expulsion from his party. Instead, Tito has carried the Communist Party of Yugoslavia with him into rebellion against Stalin. To understand the significance of this it is necessary to remember that Tito is no mere fellow traveler or Johnny-come-lately of communism, but a party veteran, trained and indoctrinated in Moscow. Thus the ultimate meaning of his rebellion may be that it is not merely the Stalinist empire but the party itself that is cracking.

Ike's Second "No"

General Eisenhower stands about midway between General Sherman and Calvin Coolidge in point of ability when under pressure to run for the Presidency to say a no so that people will understand it. Sherman said in 1884: "If nominated I will not accept; if elected I will not serve." President Coolidge said: "I do not choose to run for President in 1928." General Eisenhower now says: "I will not, at this time, identify myself with any political party and could not accept nomination for any public office or participate in partisan political contests." The Civil War general's refusal left no ground for contention. Mr. Coolidge's verbiage, which appears to have been well understood in Vermont, raised a veritable storm of controversy in other parts of the country. A few die-hards are now refusing to accept General Eisenhower's words as a final closing of the door, but we suspect that history will prove it to vary from General Sherman's statement only in mildness of phraseology.

Indeed, we cannot recall any instance in which a man has been nominated and elected to the Presidency after saying that he could not accept the nomination. Several men have been allowed to retire on the strength of less positive statements. George Washington declined a third term by saying that "choice and prudence invite me to quit the political scene." Theodore Roosevelt had announced after his election in 1904 that he would not again be a candidate—that he would consider the term he inherited from William McKinley as his first term and would abide by the two-term tradition. When there was pressure for his renomination in 1908, he declared that he had not changed and would not change his previous decision.

At least one man was nominated against his wishes—Charles E. Hughes in 1916. Men who were close to Justice Hughes at the time, including Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes, recognized his preference to remain on the Supreme Court. Justice Hughes repudiated those who were working for his nomination and sought earnestly to take himself out of the race, but at no time did he say that he would not or could not accept the nomination if, in spite of his wishes, the convention should command his services. General Eisenhower is in quite a different category. For the second time he has closed the door as emphatically as he can without slamming it.

The most interesting aspect of this latest flirtation of the dissident Democratic forces with a name that seems to hold magic for the voters is their despair over the inevitable renomination of President Truman. Many believe that the Eisenhower boosters had no real hope of inducing their hero to run and were merely using him as a stalking horse to turn the tide against the President so as to clear the way for the nomination of Justice William O. Douglas of the Supreme Court. If so, General Eisenhower has scotched the scheme. Even if he had not done so, the chances of its success would have been slender; for the name of Douglas seems to have no more spark in it than the name of Truman. And the nomination of anyone other than the President would put his party under the enormous handicap of having repudiated its own leadership. Candor compels acknowledgment of the fact that the anti-Truman forces have no candidate with any real chance of winning. In desperation they are clutching at straws.

Carole Landis

The death of Miss Carole Landis (nee Ridste) under circumstances strongly indicative of suicide affords another melancholy comment on the cult of glamour of which she was an eminent priestess and which for a good many years has had the proportions of a major industry in these United States. In its original context, of course, the word "glamour" was associated with various evil arts and, as Mr. Ivor Brown has pointed out, there was a time when to accuse a woman of being glamorous was almost like having her burned at the stake.

But in poor Miss Landis' case glamour meant mainly a blonde complexion legitimately inherited from Slavic and Scandinavian ancestors and a moderate hypertrophy of the mammary glands, especially noticeable when her professional costume included, as it usually did, a close-fitting sweater. The peculiar attraction of the particular anatomical type represented by Miss Landis and many other Hollywood celebrities for the American male animal has been the subject of much curiosity and investigation by foreigners. Various explanations have been offered, among the more recent and plausible of which is that of the English anthropologist, Mr. Geoffrey Gorer.

There is some reason, however, to believe that Miss Landis was a victim of the very illusion she strove to create. She first married at the age of 15 and had had four husbands in 14 years. At the time of her death another divorce was pending and the Hollywood gossip, which, in these matters at least, is usually accurate, was speculating on the probabilities of a fifth marriage. Thus on the basis of this evidence it seems fair enough to surmise that, like so many of her compatriots, Miss Landis believed she had been promised happiness in every box, and having opened many boxes without finding it had surrendered to despair.

Freer Finland

The general misunderstanding about Finland's place vis-a-vis the iron curtain may be removed by the Communist defeat in the general elections. That defeat is a great victory for responsible government. In 1945 the Communist-controlled Democratic Union became the largest single party, and held the dominant position in a coalition government. Now it has slipped to third place, and, if a coalition is continued, will have to give way to the Social Democrats and the Agrarians, the two major parties. The verdict, and the free way of arriving at it, shows that Finland may be athwart the iron curtain, but is certainly not behind it.

The Finnish rebuke to the Communists had been foreseen. It was made the more pronounced by the revelation two months ago of Communist highhandedness in the office of the Ministry of the Interior. The Diet was informed that two years previously the minister had turned over to the Russians several persons, Finns as well as Russians, who were wanted in Moscow. This flagrant disregard for legal process angered the liberty-loving Finnish people. They insisted that the offending minister be removed, and, after this was done by a compromise substitution, proceeded to vent their indignation at the polls. The Communist riposte to the extrusion was a general strike, and this is not unlikely to occur as a result of the present electoral rebuff, and the reports show that the Finns are girding themselves for the ordeal.

However, the strike may not be called, for the Russians lately have been using kid gloves in dealing with the Finns. They know (and appreciate) Finnish toughness, as their predecessors did. Toward the end of the last century, when Finland was a Russian grand duchy with the maximum of autonomy, the czarists attempted a program of Russification. The program backfired, and the Finns were allowed to keep their quasi-independence, despite the fact that the country became a hide-away for enemies of the czarist regime. In revolutionary days most of the leading Bolshevists sought sanctuary in Finland. It is said, for instance, that Stalin first met Lenin while in hiding in Finland, and both of them came to have a great respect for the Finns. So much was this the case that Lenin always went out of his way to promise complete freedom for Finland when the Bolshevists came to power. When war broke out in 1939, Stalin, afraid of his exposed position in the Gulf of Finland, sought a test of strength with Finland, but he got the lesson that the Finns had previously administered to the czarists. He has not forgotten it. When he lately asked for a treaty of mutual assistance, he was merely requesting the arrangement that was in the peace treaty of 1940, and which, according to some authorities, was broken when Finland and Russia clashed in 1941. As events have shown, the treaty was not, as was then felt in the West, intended to make a slave-state out of Finland, for under it Finland is not obliged to ask for Soviet aid in case Finland is attacked by a third party, but is allowed to exercise its own discretion in making the request.

Since the treaty was signed, Moscow has gone out of its way to make up to Finland. Before then it had vetoed Finland's effort to join the United Nations and the Marshall Plan. But, as soon as the latter was enacted, the Finns blandly asked Moscow for the compensation that had been promised for nonparticipation. On June 3 the Russians canceled half of the war reparations due from Finland, and granted a short-term loan. This largesse was also aimed at influencing the elections. Doubtless the Russians would have liked to prevent in Finland, as they did in Czechoslovakia, a free election; knowing what the results would be; but the Finns could not be so treated. The Finnish demonstration of independence is dangerous living for the Finns, but they are frontier folk, and have lived for so many years alongside the Russian Bear that they are less afraid of it than are those people who simply read about it in the newspapers. They have shown that the best way to save freedom is to cling tenaciously to free institutions. The time is opportune to bring up again the suggestion which was bruited during the last Congress but never acted upon that the so-called war debt owing to the United States ought to be canceled.

"Superseniority"

The July 4 letter by "Americus" attacking your June 30 editorial entitled "Superseniority" seems to be based on three points, none of which hit the crux of the problem.

The statement in the editorial that nearly half of the Federal payroll is made up of veterans must presumably be a statement of fact based on statistics. Americus answers this by a discussion of temporary and permanent employes—he forgot the probationary—and the proportion of them in his office. He missed the point that a temporary—be he vet or not—can generally expect to become permanent eventually, so the nondistinguishable lumping together of both groups by the editor gives a clear picture of the trend and is well taken.

Next, the statement that superseniority is likely to tend to lowered efficiency, since a long-time nonveteran may be in constant fear of being "bumped" from his job, is interpreted by Americus as saying, by inference at least, that the vets are "the scum of the streets." Such misinterpretation is to be pitied rather than explained.

The third point, that a veteran may obtain a job ahead of a better qualified person under the superseniority system, is merely another result of the second point. Americus answers this with the old patriotic argument that service to one's country is the best qualification, an argument that is time-worn but, nevertheless, cannot be refuted without incurring a questionable status.

There is the possibility that service to one's country is not the best qualification for many, many jobs, and a man who could meet the entrance requirements of the job and served in a tank outfit during the war could hardly be as well qualified as one who has worked at the job during the war. Certainly, other things being equal, the latter is better qualified.

I cast no aspersions on the veteran and the preferences given him, but appreciating the inequities that may arise, I think the line should be drawn somewhere. Only time will tell if the superseniority system will create the vicious conditions of which it is capable. It appears to be well on its way toward doing so.

Faulty Truce

It looks as though Count Bernadotte, the U. N. mediator for the Palestine problem, is a long way from achieving a settlement, and the truce is in its last few days.

The idea of letting any nation's troops cross its borders into a neighboring country to acquire land seemed faulty to me as a matter of principle. Egyptian troops crossed the Egyptian border into a neighboring country, Palestine. Trans-Jordan troops also crossed the Trans-Jordan border into the same neighboring country, Palestine.

It reminded me very much of the time that German troops entered Poland in 1939, and Russian troops entered Poland from the east. It also reminded me of the time that Hitler went into Czechoslovakia after Munich, and then Poland took the eastern end of Czechoslovakia.

If Egypt and Trans-Jordan are given one inch of Palestine as a reward for sending their troops beyond their borders in conquest, I just don't see any U. N. victory, but rather a dismal U. N. defeat.

Unless the Egyptian troops are told to get back into Egypt, the Trans-Jordan troops told to get back into Trans-Jordan, and Israeli troops told to get back into Israel, with the various parties then permitted to take up any complaints they may have with the U. N., then, regardless of what settlement Bernadotte may make, if any, it will be a Munich in principle and hence will establish a pattern for war and not constitute an appropriate basis for peace.

It was pitiful to consider this truce a victory for U. N. without the return of troops to their respective countries. It was a violation of principle which incapacitated the U. N. for the future, including Bernadotte's mission.

Pagan Beauty Contests

His grace, the Catholic Bishop of West Virginia, is absolutely right in condemning beauty contests in which innocent and inexperienced young girls expose themselves. Beauty contests are not only pagan, but also the result of a diseased libido of which contestants are not consciously aware.

Moreover, no young man, whose love is spiritually clean, would approve of his sweetheart exposing herself to thousands of gathered Peeping Toms. There is a big difference between a young girl wearing a scanty for swimming or sunning and wearing one deliberately to expose herself.

Working Wives

As a newcomer from Great Britain, I was both interested and surprised to read in your editorial of June 27, "Women In Finance," that there are more married women than single in America's labor force. I doubt if this is the case in Britain, where even in essential jobs the manpower shortage is so acute that for some time past the government has been urging married women to come into industry both by appealing to their patriotism and by offering such material inducements as income tax concessions.

In this country there is no national appeal to married women to work, so that their motives must be otherwise. Are American women more career conscious than their British sisters? Or has the high cost of living and keeping a home driven wives to work who would prefer to stay at home?

Must the husband and wife both work in order to afford a car and labor-saving appliances, like washing machines, which the average British housewife regards as expensive luxuries but which in this country are considered almost as necessities? Or do these same labor-saving appliances give the American housewife more time to spend outside the home whether by working or in whatever way she chooses? DISTAFF SPINNER.

Behind The Soviet Tito Split

The spectacular attack of the Cominform on Tito has provoked endless comment about its real origin and significance. The comments have been all the more confused as the whole matter and the developments which preceded the blast were shrouded in mystery, so familiar with the Reds.

Your columnists, Messrs. Joseph and Stewart Alsop, in their third article on "Tito Trouble"(July 5) have attributed two recent incidents as being one of the sharpest causes of Tito's row with the Kremlin. Both of these incidents, namely: the statement of one of Tito's chief lieutenants, Ales Bebler, made to a British M. P., that Yugoslavia wished to discuss the possibility of economic aid from the West, and the settlement of 50 million dollars of Yugoslav gold impounded in the United States, led the Cominform, according to your columnists, to accuse the Yugoslav leaders of attempts to conciliate foreign powers.

The whole Tito matter, presented in this light, may lead to oversimplification of the reasons which brought about the break between Tito and the Cominform. Those two incidents are perhaps only the consequences of an accumulation of mutual dissatisfaction, which might have been going on for several months past.

A well-trained Communist—Tito—like the Commissar Rubasheff in Koesteer's Darkness at Noon, must have quickly detected the first signs of the Kremlin's displeasure and been aware of all of the consequences which would unavoidably ensue. But Tito had the advantage over the Commissar Rubasheff in that he was beyond the reach, at least temporarily, of the arm of the Kremlin. Therefore, instead of yielding to the Kremlin's pressure and leaving as a discharged servant, he chose to play the big game of resisting the Soviets.

Tito's resistance does not mean that he will have the last word in this conflict with the Kremlin nor that the Kremlin will resign itself to failure. Therefore, it seems to me that there is little likelihood that Western democracies will be faced with the awkward problem of how to help a Communist leader who has broken loose from the Soviet but whose record is a chain of long and systematic hostility toward the West and especially toward the United States.

Before embarking the Cominform on its attack on Tito the Soviets certainly must have planned how to curb Tito's eventual resistance. The split in the Yugoslav Communist Party which burst out two months ago with the purge of two powerful personalities, Sreten Zhuyovich and Andreya Hebrang, as well as the trial of 10 high party officials in Lyubljana (which ended with death sentences for nine of them) will be exploited by the Soviets—in addition to other means — to bring Tito's resistance to an end.

But this break also shows that even if Tito is successful in continuing his resistance for a certain time he cannot rely on the 36 divisions of the Yugoslav army nor can he now shift his allegiance to the West without aggravating his already difficult position.

The collaboration between Tito and the West seems to me highly problematic nor can it be of any great value. This at least would spare the Western democracies, and particularly the United States, the adoption of a "sensible if somewhat cynical principle of foreign relations" suggested by your columnists, that "the internal affairs of other nations, however unpleasing to us, are, after all, their own business."

The adoption of such a "cynical principle" would perhaps be of greater harm than benefit to this country. The prestige of the United States with the peoples of Europe comes not only from this country's strength and power but as much from its position as defender of moral principles and democracy. The principles proclaimed in the Atlantic Charter, in the Yalta Agreement and in the Charter of the United Nations seem rather to indicate that this country cannot deal with other countries by disregarding completely their regimes and the ruthless dictatorial methods they are using to maintain themselves in power against the opposition of the overwhelming majority of the people.

Bandwagon Behavior

By Malvina Lindsay

History Repeats

IN SEARCH of a clew as to what might occur at Philadelphia next week, I made contact with the shade of Mark Antony. "As an authority, General Antony, on mob—or rather mass behavior," I asked, "what is going to happen to President Truman?"

"I am not prepared either to bury or nominate him," evaded the general. "Many things can happen to the public mind in a week. I have seen it change in much less time."

"But the President's big drop in popularity—from a poll percentage even higher than Roosevelt's—isn't that amazing?"

"You could scarcely expect it to be amazing to me. In fact I have been having a most interesting time lately flitting around verifying my theories about human behavior. This morning, for example, I heard a man on a streetcar remark, 'President Truman is a nincompoop.' Later in the office where he worked—in a minor clerical job—I heard the same remark from three girl typists.

"Then I heard a drug clerk—no doubt a student of history—declare 'Truman's the weakest President we've ever had,' and I later found several of his customers parroting his words to persons they met. And in a beauty shop, to which naturally I gravitated, I heard four women, in varying stages of rejuvenation, declare the President wasn't big enough for his job. Now, of course, all these honorable men and women were speaking from honest and thoughtful appraisal of the President's record. And each naturally was sincerely convinced that he or she could do a much better job in the White House than the President."

"WHAT DID you think, General Antony, about the Eisenhower bandwagon?"

"It came the nearest to a millennium vehicle of anything I have encountered in history. I mean in the way lions and lambs were riding together. Now please understand I am not saying that those clambering aboard were not honorable men and women, or that they were not motivated wholly by principle."

"Which principle?"

"Well—er, that depends. But I must make clear that these honorable men and women were of course not thinking of their jobs, preferments, political organizations, their continuing power and influence or of election returns. I am not insinuating for a moment that they were turning to General Eisenhower who is a truly great as well as famous and popular man with the sordid motive of winning votes."

"Do you think President Truman will yet be stopped?"

"Yes, and again no. I have seen a crowd change its mind very suddenly—on principle, of course."

"THEN NOTHING in this political phenomenon surprises you?"

"Only one thing—why men knowing what they do of human nature and of the American electorate ever want to be President. Never have I seen a people so hard on their public men, especially their Presidents. Never have I seen public leaders who received so many brickbats, so few plaudits, who had so little encouragement in their man-killing jobs.

"Please understand I am not judging of the adequacy of President Truman. Also understand I am not questioning the high principles of the many factions of his party in trying to jump from what they think is a sinking raft. It is only that—well after 19 centuries it is a little surprising to find people still blowing hot and cold so rapidly on their heads of state."

"One question, General. As a famous man of eloquence, do you think it possible that some spellbinder—say like yourself—could reverse the tide, as you did at Caesar's burial, and start a bandwagon for President Truman by picturing his efforts, his achievements, his service and loyalty to the party——"

"To save you time, let me say I am certain the honorable delegates at Philadelphia could be induced to rush pell-mell to a Truman bandwagon, on principle of course——

"What principle?"

"That the President was a winner."

Thousand-Year Plan

I value what Mr. J. W. Haywood, jr., had to say in his letter of June 26 on the power of love as the solution for world problems and also that to be free is to live according to one's convictions.

Mr. Phillips (letter published June 20) had written that a true citizen of a democratic society loves his neighbor as himself. But isn't this a dream which may take a thousand years to realize? This reminds me of a magazine article I read in Biosophical Review in which Dr. Kettner writes on "The Need For a Thousand-Year Plan":

"But from the point of view of spiritual growth we understand that, with human nature as it is, a 'thousand-year plan' will be required in order to work out this ideal of 'one world.'

"The dream-mind can easily visualize one world, for it sees only the end result. But the spiritually enlightened mind sees the real problems involved.

"In working out the thousand-year plan, a very special kind of 'heart' work is needed. The more active we become in our spiritual nature, the more perfect will be the solution to the 'one world' problem."

I wonder how many are willing to put in the time and hard work so that perhaps in a thousand years there will be peace on this earth?

Today And Tomorrow

By Walter Lippmann

Tito And The Warsaw Declaration

THE SURPRISING thing about the Yugoslav rebellion is not that it happened but that it happened so soon—while the Red army is still as far west as the Elbe River. For there is no longer much doubt, I think, that the leading nations of eastern Europe, however Communist, are not the willing satellites of the Russian empire and are certain to follow an independent line in so far as they are not occupied or enveloped by the Russian army.

LIPPMANN

The reason why Yugoslavia, rather than Poland, Czechoslovakia, or Hungary, was the first of the satellites to defy the Kremlin is, I should suppose, that the military position of Yugoslavia is more favorable to independence than is theirs. It is not occupied, has no common frontier with the Soviet Union, and is not within easy reach of the Red army. Tito has a substantial army of his own. He is not dependent upon the Red army, as are Poland and Czechoslovakia, for the protection of his territory against a resurgent Germany. He has nothing to fear from Italy, and he has sea and land frontiers open to the west. Thus, the balance of military power protects him against direct Russian military pressure and permits him, indeed invites him, to exploit his advantages for national and personal purposes.

THE EVENTS will show whether his rebellion was premature, whether, being an impetuous and ambitious man, he has underestimated the power which the Soviet Union can exert in his neighborhood by virtue of its military control of the industries, the railways, the rivers, and the strategical strong points of eastern Europe.

But if Tito's rebellion fails, it will be because he attempted it before the Russian army's withdrawal from the center of Europe.

IF THE evidence is not yet conclusive, it is certainly increasingly impressive, that the key to the Russian problem in Europe is not, as so many believe, the ideology of communism and the fifth column of the Communist Parties. The key to the Russian problem in Europe is the presence of the Red army in the center of Europe. The iron curtain is the Red army on the Elbe River.

Thus, in reacting to the Cominforms denunciation, Tito called for a "general strengthening" of the Yugoslav army which "protects the freedom and independence of the people of Yugoslavia." In the context this can mean only that the army protects Yugoslavia against the Russian army.

Thus, also, there is the angry admission of a Romanian newspaper which speaks for the Cominform that "the people's democratic regimes"—namely Communist regimes—"could not even exist" in Europe "without Russian help." The only countries which Russia was unable to "help" become Communist were those which were liberated from the Nazis by the Red army and then governed by men installed in office by the Red army.

There is, too, the highly significant admission by the Cominform itself that Tito's rebellion can now be dealt with only by "the sound elements of the Communist Party of Yugoslavia." This means that M. Vshinsky cannot go to Belgrade, as he once went to Bucharest, in order to install a more satisfactory government. The Red army is not in Belgrade.

THE COMINFORM'S bill of complaint discloses the reason why, without the presence of the Red army, the Kremlin is unable to rule Europe through the Communist Parties. Nowhere are the Communists more than a compact minority. To stay in power they must either make terms with the Socialists and other non-Communists, as they have in Yugoslavia and Poland, or they must have overwhelming force behind them in order to exercise a purely Communist dictatorship.

But the national armies, recruited largely from the peasants, cannot be relied upon to support a purely Communist and urban dictatorship. For that an alien army, that is to say the Russian army, is indispensable. If the Russian army is not present to intervene, then, as the Cominform complains, the Communist Party inevitably "dissolves in the nonparty mass."

IN VIEW of all this, what are we to make of the recent declaration at Warsaw by the eastern Foreign Ministers, including M. Molotov, that they favor "the swift conclusion of the German peace treaty" and "the swift withdrawal of the occupying forces from Germany?" It is conceivable, though most unlikely, that a realist like Stalin could suppose that a swift withdrawal of the occupying forces from Germany and therefore from all of Europe, would not drastically reduce the Soviet power in Europe.

Why, then, does he offer to do the one thing which is most certain to make the Titos even more independent of Moscow, to release all the nationalist, all the European, all the anti-Russian sentiment, which is prevalent everywhere, especially in eastern Europe, even among Communists?

It could be that he has made the offer believing that it would not be taken up seriously, or that if taken up, it can be weighted with conditions that the Western nations would not accept. But I find it hard to believe that Stalin would make such a point of offering to do something he meant not to do. If he does not intend to withdraw, it would have been easy enough to find reasons to justify his staying.

THE ONLY explanation which seems to fit the facts will, no doubt, seem dangerously optimistic and too good to be true. It is that Stalin has really taken the basic decision to withdraw from Europe where he has lost the cold war and to turn to Asia, where the prospects are much more favorable. If he has, in fact, taken this decision, he would not, of course, need to surrender Europe unconditionally. He would, therefore, make every effort to retain as much influence as possible in Europe, and to weaken American and British influence, and to obtain as many advantages as he can by negotiating the terms of his withdrawal.

THE WARSAW declaration is a very powerful diplomatic instrument for such a policy. It comes right after Britain and America have committed themselves to a western German government. Now a western German government, whatever its other advantages, can exist only as long as Germany is occupied and defended by the western armies. The Frankfurt government requires the indefinite occupation of Germany.

As a result the Warsaw declaration enables Moscow to stand for the liberation of Europe from the occupying armies; it puts us in the position of wanting to continue the occupation.

This is very astute. If, as I think likely, the Soviets know that eventually they must withdraw, they have managed to make a virtue of their necessity, to acquire prestige from what is in fact a retreat. They have managed to make us lose face with the Germans and with the eastern Europeans because we are rejecting what could be made, if our diplomacy were equal to the situation, a decisive political victory for Europe and the Western World.

Off The Record

Washington Calling

By Marquis Childs

No Military Boom

THERE IS one member of President Truman's Administration who will not—but definitely not—attend any of the sessions of the Democratic Convention in Philadelphia next week. That is Secretary of State George C. Marshall.

Childs

Secretary Marshall has kept just as far away from politics as he possibly could. When he became Secretary of State he said unequivocally that he would under no circumstances consider any elective office. From that point on he has done everything he could to discourage any suggestion of politics in connection with his name.

He has chosen to ignore foolish rumors that he would consider the vice presidential nomination on a ticket with President Truman. Such rumors have never had the slightest foundation in fact.

In part, this attitude was conditioned by his desire to keep the bipartisan foreign policy out of political pulling and hauling. But it has deeper origins than that. Following a soldier's career, deeply imbued with the code of a soldier, Marshall firmly believes that politics and the military belong in separate compartments.

Again contrary to widely spread rumor, Marshall has never spoken to his protege and friend, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, about the Presidency except in the most casual way. His attitude, however, would naturally have influenced the younger man: Eisenhower's letter of last January, declining to accept the nomination for President if it were tendered him, expresses certain of Marshall's convictions, although, it is hardly necessary to add, he had nothing to do with the drafting of it.

THREE YEARS after the end of the greatest war in the Nation's history, with 12 million veterans, and there is as yet no sign of a powerful veterans' bloc. That is a remarkable political phenomenon, particularly in view of the record of the past. After the Civil War, for many years veterans dominated the conventions of the two parties, and a succession of military men occupied the White House beginning with General Grant, whose Administration ended in scandal and tragedy.

At the Republican convention it was hard to find any organized veterans' bloc. They were prominent in the group of younger men supporting Harold Stassen. But his followers also included many nonveterans.

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, chosen for the No. 1 position on the ticket, has no war record. He elected to continue serving as Governor of New York even though he was of military age. While the war was still at its height, Dewey in 1944, at the age of 42, campaigned for the Presidency. At that time it was freely predicted that he would be ineligible for another try after the end of the war precisely because he would have no service record.

Gov. Earl Warren served in World War I in 1917 and 1918. He became a first lieutenant of Infantry during the war and served until 1936 as a captain in the Officers Reserve Corps.

THE WAR hero, who might presumably have drawn support if the mood of the country had been different, was Gen. Douglas MacArthur. But the fact is that the so-called MacArthur boom was the most pathetic fizzle of the entire GOP convention.

The general did nothing to prevent his name from being presented, and even lent encouragement to the move. The responsibility, however, is not so much his, since he has not been in this country for 12 years and knows nothing of contemporary politics. Those who pressed the MacArthur "drive" did him a deep disservice.

According to reports from Japan, they weakened his position in the Orient, where face is so important, and, therefore, they also undermined the prestige of the United States. The grand finale of the trumped-up MacArthur boom will add nothing to the general's page in history.

The whole demonstration, coming at the end of a long night of oratory and sweaty parades, had a feeble and contrived look. On the first ballot MacArthur got the eight delegates pledged to him in the Wisconsin primary, where he ran against Harold Stassen; two in Iowa and one in Kentucky. On the second ballot the total was cut from 11 to 7, made up of six from Wisconsin and one from Iowa.

There is, of course, the fact of Eisenhower's widespread popularity. It is a tribute to the man and the warmth of his personality as well as to the soldier-hero. He would be a formidable candidate if he were willing to yield to the urgings of those who feel that at this point he is the only hope of the Democratic Party.

Matter Of Fact

By Joseph And Stewart Alsop

Ghost In The White House?

WHAT IS most remarkable about the great revolt against President Harry S. Truman is the extent to which the President has already been repudiated by his own party. General Dwight D. Eisenhower has now firmly quashed the Eisenhower boom. But the fact remains that, whatever happens at the Democratic Convention in Philadelphia next week, virtually the entire Democratic leadership has already publicly announced to the world that Truman is inadequate as President.

Among the major Democratic leaders, there now remains hardly a handful who have not openly committed themselves against the President. Even such powerful figures as Edward Flynn of The Bronx and David Lawrence of Pennsylvania, although they have not publicly committed themselves, are known to have smiled in private on the anti-Truman revolt.

Thus if Truman is nominated, he will be forced to wage the loneliest campaign in recent history. It is difficult to imagine the total lack of enthusiasm with which the campaign will be fought in New Jersey, for example, where that statesmanlike figure, former Jersey City Mayor Frank Hague, has already announced that Truman lacks "world leadership"; or in Illinois, where Democratic Boss Jacob Arvey has been a leader of the anti-Truman revolt from the first.

UNDER these circumstances, it is not surprising that supporters of Justice William O. Douglas are confident that most of the party bosses who have gone out on a limb for Eisenhower will turn to Douglas now that Eisenhower has sawed the limb off. Indeed, many of those who have been most active in the Eisenhower boom would really prefer the nomination of Douglas. In this category are New York City Mayor William O'Dwyer, the old New Dealers represented in Americans for Democratic Action, and most of the labor leaders; in a word, the left wing of the Democratic Party.

It is hardly surprising that the left wing Democrats should prefer Douglas. What is surprising is that such men as CIO President Philip Murray should have supported Eisenhower. For it is widely known, for example, that Eisenhower has privately stated that if he had been President he would have signed the Taft-Hartley bill—the one domestic issue which above all divides left from right. Indeed, dark suspicion exists that the Eisenhower boom has been used by the left wing Democrats only as a cover for the Douglas boom.

The Douglas backers assert confidently—at least for public consumption—that with Eisenhower out of the picture, Douglas can stop Truman. According to the analysis of the Douglas cabal, Truman is now short of nomination on the first ballot by some 90 to 110 votes. The Douglasites envisage — perhaps "dream" is the more accurate word—Truman stopped on the first ballot, with the South holding firm, and a rush to Douglas on subsequent ballots. They hope that anti-Trumanism is now such an obsession with the Southerners that the South will swallow Douglas, although Douglas' advocacy of civil rights is no secret.

THE BUGS in this reasoning are pretty obvious, quite apart from the fact that it is by no means impossible that Douglas will refuse to go along. Any defections in the anti-Truman front anywhere, North or South, would suffice to put Truman over, even by the Douglas supporters' own reckoning. Moreover, Eisenhower's real strength with such political idealists as Hague and Arvey has been quite simply that he could probably win. Douglas has no such strength.

Indeed, the Northern professionals are by no means convinced that Douglas could put up a much stiffer fight than Truman against the Dewey-Warren ticket. Even so, unless Douglas flatly refuses to go along, Truman can still expect a fight, and a bitter one, in Philadelphia.

No one knows what the private reactions to all this of the stubborn, mild-mannered President may be. But there is little doubt that he underestimates the extent to which his own party has already repudiated him. Much of the strange aura of confidence which emanates from the President is undoubtedly traceable to fat, ubiquitous, Court Jester George Allen, who has suddenly bloomed as the confidant not only of the President but of Eisenhower as well.

ONE STORY current in Washington illustrates the quality of Allen's influence. Former Democratic National Chairman Robert Hannegan recently asked to see the President, with the intention of telling him some grim political home truths. He was surprised to find Allen at the President's elbow. And he was not amused when his recital of the gloomy facts was repeatedly interrupted by assurances from Allen that "The people love you, Harry."

Whatever may be going on in the presidential mind, behind the outward appearance of chipper confidence, one fact is generally overlooked. The next six months will certainly be crucial ones in the history of the United States and of the world. Even if Truman is now nominated the power and prestige of his office have already been seriously undermined.

In the unlikely event that the revolt against him succeeds, the country and the world will be confronted with the prospect of a kind of six-month ghost in the White House—alone, discredited, disregarded, while the noise of the campaign and the tides of history sweep around him. That is a pretty appalling prospect in these times.

Britain Signs Marshall Plan Agreement

London, July 6 (U.P.).—Britain signed the Anglo-American agreement for Marshall Plan aid tonight less than an hour after Commons overwhelmingly approved it by a vote of 409 to 12.

Two Communists, a few leftwing Laborites and a handful of diehard Conservatives voted against the agreement. The House of Lords had approved it earlier without a record vote.

The accord was signed at the Foreign Office by Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin for Britain and Ambassador Lewis Douglas for the United States.

Dewey Denies Move to Halt Teacher Lobby

Cleveland, July 6 (AP).—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey sent word to the National Education Association today denying he asked other Governors to "break the teachers' lobby" and promising to discuss Federal aid to education in his campaign for President.

The New York Governor's statement, telephoned by his secretary, James Haggerty, to Martin Wilson of New York City, was read shortly after more than 2000 NEA delegates adopted a resolution calling upon President Truman "to reconvene the Eightieth Congress for the express purpose of passing the Taft-McCowen Federal aid to education legislation."

Last month, Columnist Drew Pearson wrote that at the June Governor's conference in Portsmouth, N. H., Dewey tried unsuccessfully to get other Governors to support an "antiteacher publicity campaign."

Dewey's statement today was a reply to New York NEA delegates who asked him about t' e columnist's report. The reply said inpart:

"On the story: It is not right. There never was any motion by Governor Dewey, or any Governor, to break the teachers' lobby. There was a discussion by Governor Dewey and other Governors regarding a proposal to the Council of State Governments, a nonpolitical group, to make a Nation-wide study of steps that have been taken, or are under consideration by various State governments for increasing State aid to education. That was the sum and substance of the discussion."

The statement added that Governor Dewey "will discuss Federal aid to education at length during the campaign."

Miss Mabel Studebaker, for the past 23 years a teacher at Erie, Pa., today was nominated without opposition for election Friday as president of the association.

She teaches biology in Strong-Vincent High School in Erie.

A graduate of Smith College, with a master's degree from the University of Pittsburgh, she is a former president of NEA's department of classroom teachers.

Navy Research Man Becomes U. S. Citizen

Half of a dream came true for Henri Marcus, 60, of 2525 Ontario rd. nw., yesterday, when he took the oath of citizenship in District Court.

The other half—that his wife, Herthe, become an American with him—was eliminated by her death April 6. On that day arrangements were being made for the oath of allegiance to be administered at her bedside.

In court yesterday, Marcus was reluctant to talk about her death, saying only, "I am very glad to have become a citizen."

He is a research consultant with the Navy Bureau of Yards and Docks. The Marcus family came to this country in 1942 from France.

Welfare Head Asks CSC to Survey Jobs

A survey of District Welfare Department job classifications has been requested and other departments may follow suit, District budget officials said yesterday.

Public Welfare Director John W. Tramburg has applied to the Civil Service Commission for personnel experts to review the jobs in his agency, the first survey of the kind for it in some 20 years.

Judge Lifts Bar To Deportation of 119 Nazi Aliens

New York, July 6 (AP).—A Federal judge today dismissed a writ which would have blocked the deportation Thursday of 119 persons described as "dangerous enemy aliens."

Federal Judge Henry W. Goddard vacated a habeas corpus writ obtained last week which claimed the group was being removed from the country by the wrong court.

The group, described by U. S. Attorney Harold Raby as the largest exodus of "Nazi-minded aliens" since the war, is scheduled to be removed to Germany Thursday by Army transport.

The group claimed in the writ that the New York Federal Court was the proper tribunal for their removal. They said the U. S. District Court in Washington, D. C., had actually arranged their deportation.

Raby said three former leaders of the German-American Bund, Otto Fentzke, John C. Fitting and Otto Willumeit, were in the group.

Let us dress you for summer

For you, certainly for some men, the only practical summer suits should be of tropical worsted. You want to be cool but not at the sacrifice of being well-dressed. Even if the cloth is lightweight, it should hold the tailored style lines. We have such suits from Oxxford, Lebow, Freeman and Stanford Williams. Where else could you have such wonderful choice? If we recommend that you buy now it is only that the selection is greater than it can possibly be a little later.

Tropical Worsted Suits, $48.50 to $135

Sales Off 2% In Non-Chain Stores in May

By S. Oliver Goodman

Washington independent stores showed an over-all sales dip of 2 per cent in May compared with the same 1947 month, the Commerce Department reported yesterday.

However, five-month sales of this group displayed a 4 per cent increase over the same 1947 period.

Shoe and jewelry stores exhibited the sharpest declines in May, sales being 17 per cent less for each. Sales of book and stationery stores dropped 16 per cent, while combination grocery and meat stores showed a 12 per cent decline.

Sharp upturns in sales continued for building materials, autos, fuel and ice, and bakeries.

Individual businesses here showed the following percentage trend for May and the first five months:

RAILS' INCOME: The Association of American Railroads reported net income of Class 1 roads in May totaled $90,178,066, compared with $76,818,499 a year ago. Net railway operating income represents the amount left after payment of operating expenses and taxes, but before interest, rentals and other fixed charges are paid. The Class 1 carriers had an estimated net income, after interest and rentals, of $63,700,000, compared with $49,000,000 in May last year.

FIRST DAY: The Guardian Building & Loan Association opened for business yesterday at 951 Ellsworth dr., Silver Spring. First depositors were 3-year-old Irene Colston and 2-year-old Muriel Loeffler, daughter and granddaughter of Hogarth Colston, a director of the new enterprise. Guardian is the second association of its kind in the fast-growing Maryland metropolis which now has an estimated population of more than 60,000. Directors are: Jesse Ott, president; Lee H. Robinson, vice president; Walter Miller, treasurer; Lawrence Eig, Hogarth Colston, Leo M. Bernstein and John McKeever.

AUTO BONUSES: The Wall Street Journal, in a survey covering 16 cities, including Washington, reports extent of premium prices being paid on used car lots for brand-new automobiles. To get actual figures, reporters went to scores of car lots and posed as customers. The table below averages prices asked for "new-used" cars, with the average regular price for models with similar equipment:

INNOVATION: Electrically-warmed mattresses will take their place under the electric blankets before the snow flies. That should take care of the cold-blooded, on the waffle principle. The Wolf Bedding Co. of Fort Wayne, Ind., says it will have the quilted mattresses with rheostat control heating units on the market in August.

NEW WAREHOUSE: GMC Truck & Coach Division of General Motors will open a new wholesale warehouse for the Washington zone at Alexandria, around July 15. Located at 2014 Ballinger st., the one-story steel and masonry structure will provide more than 42,000 square feet for the storage and conditioning of new GMC trucks and large stocks of GMC parts and accessories. It will also house GMC's Washington Zone offices and offices of GM Coach Sales and Service. The offices will be ready for occupancy after September 1.

ACACIA MEETING: Regional field representatives of the Acacia Mutual Life Insurance Co. opened a four-day meeting yesterday in Atlantic City to discuss new insurance plans and underwriting procedure. As of June 30, Acacia's total business in force amounted to more than 842 million dolars with assets totaling in excess of 184 million dollars, according to President William Montgomery.

ODD LOTS: Steel output rate this week is estimated at 90.3 per cent of capacity, against 95.2 per cent last week . . . Fred S. Gilchner Iron Works, Inc., Washington, reports 10 heavy repairs trucks are being constructed for local utilities . . . Eastman Kodak Co. has purchased General Mills' interest in Distillation Products, Inc. . . . American Bantam Car Co. has purchased the Newgren Co. of Toledo, subsidiary of the Monroe Auto Equipment Co. . . . Sunnyside Mining & Milling Co., from which millions of dollars worth of lead, zinc, gold and silver were taken earlier in the century, will be sold at public auction on July 15 in Denver.

23 Public Interest Projects Aided by Ad Council in Year

The Advertising Council yesterday issued its sixth annual report, "What Helps People Helps Business," outlining the vast contributions of advertising time, space, skills and money which American business made to information campaigns in the public interest during the twelve-month period from March, 1947, to March, 1948.

Describing the past year as "a year of strains and tensions," the report pointed out that "all of these tensions—economic, ideological and emotional—were reflected in the campaigns which found their way through council screening processes and onto the docket for 1947-1948."

According to the report, The Advertising Council, a nonprofit organization representing all phases of the advertising industry, was asked to enlist volunteer advertising support for 103 public interest projects during the past twelve months. Of this number, 15 were selected as top priority for the year by the Council's Board of Directors and Public Policy Committee and were given the great bulk of the advertising space, time and talent contributed to the council by advertisers, advertising agencies and media. Fifty of the requests were turned down, while the remainder of the projects received some degree of assistance from the advertising industry.

Effectiveness of the advertising technique in helping solve national problems was proven by the results achieved with the assistance of council campaigns. Here are a few of the 1947 "success stories" listed in the report:

Forty thousand student nurses were recruited for the Nation's hospitals in 1947.

The motor vehicle death rate was reduced by 12 per cent.

Two thousand plants which had dropped payroll savings reinstated it and 50,000 individuals joined the Bond-a-Month Plan, thus helping to curb the inflationary spiral of excess money. Savings bonds absorbed 18 per cent of the net savings of individuals—an increase of 11 per cent over the previous year.

Shipment of CARE packages to needy families overseas rose from the precampaign average of 175,000 per month to over 300,000 per month.

Since January, 1947, 38 States have made substantial increases in State appropriations for public schools.

Chicago Grain

Chicago, July 6 (AP).—Grain futures rallied at the close of today's Board of Trade session, after a shaky day. At one time the July corn contract was off the 8-cent daily limit and wheat was down around two cents.

However, the closing rally which developed in wheat on short covering gave a better tone to the market. Corn recovered half its losses. Oats closed mixed.

At the finish wheat was unchanged to ¾ higher than Saturday's close. July 2.28⅛@2.28¾. Corn was unchanged to 4½ lower, July 2.08¼@2.08. Oats were ⅛ to ⅜ higher, July 87¾@88, and soybeans were 1½ to 3½ lower, July 4.06.

New York Cotton

New York, July 6 (AP).—Cotton futures registered losses of 70 cents to $1.70 a bale today. The market was under pressure of liquidation, influenced by the lack of export demand for old crop cotton supplies, additional private forecast of large cotton acreage this season and favorable weather reports. Part of the trade selling was attributed to hedging operations. According to some dealers, there was some selling of this type for foreign account.

Ex-Banker Appointed To Ford Foreign Post

Detroit, July 6 (AP).—The Ford Motor Co. today announced the appointment of Norbert A. Bogdan as director of finance for its international division.

Also announced today was appointment of Walter L. McKee as regional director for Europe.

Bogdan, associated for nearly 20 years with the J. Henry Schroder Banking Corp., New York, has had considerable experience in international finance and trade.

McKee was assistant European supervisor for Remington Rand, Inc., when he resigned last month to join Ford.

N. Y. Plan Would Limit Profit on Used Cars

New York, July 6 (AP).—A proposed city ordinance which would limit used automobile dealers to 5 per cent profit on cars between six months and one year old was given a brief public committee hearing here today.

The proposal, by Councilman L. Gary Clemente, is aimed at halting the practice of selling new cars as used automobiles at prices greatly in excess of those listed for new cars. Among other things it would require dealers in used autos to file with the police department information on their purchases and sales.

Off for Italy . . .

WITH LUCINDA'S BLESSINGS—Louis Manarin and his son, Louis, jr., of 5310 O st., Hillside, Md., board a TWA overseas plane for a flight to Rome. Louis, jr., 16, competed with his sister, Lucinda, 14, for the trip, offered them by the father, who said he would take the child with the highest school grades. When both came home with three As and two Bs, Lucinda withdrew in favor of Louis because it was his graduation year at Hine Junior High School. Father and son will spend two weeks in Italy, the senior Manarin's birthplace

Security Council Will Urge Jews, Arabs Extend Truce

Lake Success, N. Y., July 6 (U.P.).—The United Nations Security Council today scheduled an emergency meeting for tomorrow morning to draft an urgent appeal to the Israeli and Arab governments to extend the four-week Palestine truce which ends Friday.

The Council called the session in response to a plea from U. N. Mediator Count Folke Bernadotte.

The United States, United Kingdom, France and Belgium pressed for immediate discussion of the mediator's appeal at today's Council meeting but ran into Soviet and Syrian objections.

Russia's Andrei Gromyko, in an attack upon Bernadotte for "going beyond his powers" in his peace plan, said that the question of a truce extension could not be separated from the mediator's other proposals and he demanded more time to study the problem.

The Security Council also ordered a complete investigation of an alleged Dutch blockade of Indonesia which, the island republic charged, has caused hardships that were unknown to its 72 million people during Japanese occupation.

U. S. May Furnish 335 Men for Holy Land

Lake Success, July 6. (NYHT.)—The United States and France, it was disclosed tonight, have agreed to supply the United Nations with 335 men each as part of a special force to patrol Haifa and Jerusalem in the event that a Holy Land truce extension is negotiated by Count Folke Bernadotte.

Griswold Says Greek Stand Saved Italy

Athens, July 6 (U.P.).—Dwight Griswold said today that his American military and aid group, "by holding this outpost," had changed the history of Europe and helped keep Italy off the roll of Communist states.

"If we had not come to Greece, we would now have a Communist Italy and also a bad situation in Turkey," he said. "By holding Greece, we held Italy. Therefore, the American military and aid group (AMAG) accomplished its job and was worth the money spent.

"My advice to the Greek people is to prepare to support the government which makes difficult and disagreeable decisions. It is easy for the government to give the people what they ask, but it is necessary for them to stand on their own feet and not depend on bounty from an outside country."

Greek Second Army Corps Tactical Headquarters, Sunday, July 4 (Delayed) (U.P.). — Government military leaders predicted today that the two-week-old offensive to oust the Communists from their Grammos Mountains fortress would go into its final stages this week.

Jewish Session Closes on Red Issue Deadlock

Montreaux, Switzerland, July 6 (AP).—A deadlock between Communist and anti-Communist delegates marked the end of the second assembly of the World Jewish Congress today.

Dr. Stephen S. Wise of New York was reelected president and Dr. Nanum Goldmann chairman of the congress executive.

Eastern and western delegates disputed the composition of the council and executive body of the organization, but reached no agreement. The Communist delegates announced they would boycott the council and the European section of the executive because they had not been given any representation on the American section.

The executive consists of two sections, one of which meets in New York and the other in London. On the 15-member American section, 12 seats were allotted to the United States, two to Canada and one to Argentina. On the European section, the United Kingdom received six seats, Italy, Poland, Romania, and Hungary two each and France, Belgium, Sweden, and Bulgaria one each.

Get Welcome Relief From Stomach Gas, Sour Food Taste

Do you feel bloated and miserable after every meal? If so, here is how you may rid yourself of this nervous distress. Thousands have found it the way to be well, cheerful and happy again.

Everytime food enters the stomach a vital gastric juice must flow normally to break-up certain food particles; else the food may ferment. Sour food, acid indigestion and gas frequently cause a morbid, touchy, fretful, peevish, nervous condition, loss of appetite, underweight, restless sleep, weakness.

To get real relief you must increase the flow of this vital gastric juice. Medical authorities, in independent laboratory tests on human stomachs, have by positive proof shown that SSS Tonic is amazingly effective in increasing this flow when it is too little or scanty due to a non-organic stomach disturbance. This is due to the SSS Tonic formula which contains special and potent activating ingredients.

Also, SSS Tonic helps build-up non-organic, weak, watery blood in nutritional anemia—so with a good flow of this gastric digestive juice, plus rich red-blood you should eat better, sleep better, feel better, work better, play better.

Avoid punishing yourself with overdoses of soda and other alkalizers to counteract gas and bloating when what you so dearly need is SSS Tonic to help you digest food for body strength and repair. Don't wait! Join the host of happy people SSS Tonic has helped. Millions of bottles sold. Get a bottle of SSS Tonic from your drug store today. SSS Tonic helps Build Sturdy Health.

Meet a man who is making connections

THE scene is the "nerve center" of a telephone central office! The time is now! The man at work is one of the hundreds of skilled technicians who are busy installing vast amounts of equipment to improve and expand your telephone system.

It's a big job, and a delicate one. Each new part must work perfectly with all the others. A single central office installation may require as many as one million hand-soldered connections. And nearly right is not enough. Every one must be exactly right—by test!

Despite the size and complexity of the task, we are doing everything we can to speed it along. Our objective is to furnish the most and the best possible telephone service to all who want it, as soon as we can give it to them.

Little Honors Prophet Wells

By Richard L. Coe

THAT VOCATIVE CRYSTAL-GAZER, H. G. Wells, is the surprise star of the downtown theater screens this week. Today the Little revives both "Things to Come" and "The Man Who Could Work Miracles," both filmed in England more than 12 years ago.

"Things to Come" will be particularly fascinating to watch. For of its three major episodes, the first is concerned with "The Greatest War." Back when he wrote the book which fathered the film release of 1936, Wells said this would come around 1940. It would be followed by a period of barbarism, the second sequence of the film, in which survivors descended to medieval warring.

The final phase of the picture—the year 2035—is devoted to picturing the scientific rebirth of the world, with a group of young technicians controlling the airways and striving for a flight to the moon.

At the time it appeared, the film was the most ambitious to come from the British studios and was particularly fascinating to all for its shots of a destroyed London, a London not unlike the inferno it was during the Nazi blitz. Raymond Massey, Ralph Richardson, Cedric Hardwicke and Ann Todd are among the players whom William Cameron Menzies directed for Alexander Korda—six names still at the top of the film heap today.

And in an Elfin Mood

"The Man Who Could Work Miracles" is the late prophet Wells in a more elfin mood. This finds Roland Young as George McWhirter Fotheringay, a small merchant in a British town, suddenly possessed of the power to work any miracle he chooses. The gods, sportively inclined, decided to give one man this power just to see if mankind could be trusted with control of the universe. George begins by removing an incompetent police officer and works his way up the cosmic scheme.

It was a grand role for Young, and Ralph Richardson also had a good part in this one, Colonel Winstanely (aren't the Wellsian names all good?). Lothar Mendes directed for Korda.

In view of what's happened since to make 1936 seem roughly centuries ago, the Wells double bill at the Little is novelty of the first water.

FRANK LA FALCE, the local Warner man now visiting the home studios at Burbank, hit the lots at their highest production level since 1940, with the peak coming right now. . . . Eight feature pictures, employing 4188 persons on the Burbank lot, are now rolling, five of them in Technicolor. . . . "Fighter Squadron" brings back Robert Stack to costar with Edmond O'Brien; "Silver Lining" finds June Haver playing Marilyn Miller; "The Younger Brothers" costars Wayne Morris, Bruce Bennett and Robert Hutton; Doris Day, who's scoring in the Warner's current "Romance on the High Seas," is at work with her costar of that one, Jack Carson, in "My Dream Is Yours," and Alexis Smith and Joel McCrea are making "South of St. Louis." . . . The non-color films find Bette Davis and Robert Montgomery in a comedy, "June Bride"; Virginia Mayo and Ronald Reagan in "The Girl from Jones Beach," and Robert Alda, who was here a few months ago with Ilka Chase at the National, in "Night Beat." . . . By the time Traveler La Falce gets back to town, he'll be bursting, no doubt, with the superior advantages of the films he's watched aborning.

CARTER BARRON, the Loew bigwig, is in Doctors Hospital, but it's nothing serious . . . As everyone round town knows, Carter was a slambang football guy in his days at Georgia Tech, and a mid-July operation twenty-odd years later is what happens to such a one . . . For some years now an old football injury has been pushing the Barron knee out of gear, and now that the Fourth of July is over, Carter figures the thing has to be jammed back into place . . . Meanwhile, Carter will be pleased to know, biz is boffo on F st., with both "On an Island with You," at the Capitol, and "The Street With No Name" likely holdovers for next week.

"OKLAHOMA!" seats go on sale at the National box office today . . . 'Twill be interesting to see if this third return of that wondrous musical will be drawing lines to the air-conditioned lobby the way it always has in the past . . . No reason, really, why not . . . This is the company that closed a few weeks ago at New York's St. James, where nothing else could get a look-in for 5½ years; most of these people were in the show for the last year or more . . . So have no fears about this being an inferior company . . . At the moment, next Monday night's opening already has your scribe trembling with excitement, and if the cast lets down, he'll be honest with you Tuesday morning.

IT'S GREER GARSON! Yes, it is. This is the erstwhile Mrs. Miniver-Mme. Curie decked out for "Julia Misbehaves." This comedy finds her giving a special performance with an acrobatic troupe. The lads holding Greer up are the Ted DeWayne Troupe, who report that anytime Miss Garson wants to take to circus acrobatics, she can have her job back

Bested Reds Claim Posts in Finn Cabinet

Helsinki, July 6 (AP).—The Communist-led Popular Democrats will demand key posts in the new government, Minister Without Portfolio Herita Kussinen-Leino indicated today. The party lost 12 of its 49 seats in the parliamentary election.

Mrs. Kussinen-Leino, a leading Communist, said it would be advantageous to the Popular Democrats to be an opposition party. But she said they want to cooperate in the government in the interests of the nation.

A Popular Democratic prime minister would not be harmful for Finland, she said, adding that her party considers this desirable. Acceptance of another party member would depend on his personal qualifications, she said.

Mrs. Kussinen-Leino said the interior ministry, which controls the police, must be placed in safe hands.

Earlier, Finnish Communists said an anti-Soviet whispering campaign stirred up by reactionaries was one reason for Communist losses in the election. Another reason, they said, was that nationalization of big industries and a land reform program has not been accomplished.

Judge Upholds Seduction Conviction

Arlington Circuit Court Judge Walter T. McCarthy yesterday refused to set aside the jury verdict which found Guy H. Fuller, jr., 19, guilty of seducing a 17-year-old Arlington girl.

But he granted a 60-day stay of Fuller's two-year penitentiary sentence to permit the defense to take the case to the Virginia Supreme Court of Appeals.

Defense Attorney Earl H. Davis, who said he would file the appeal, earlier had refused to have Fuller's case turned over to a probation officer. He said such action would mar the youth's record.

The judge's refusal to set aside the jury's verdict came in the face of the admitted "confusion" of Juror Earle R. Hough of 4605 N. 17th st., who had concurred in the guilty verdict.

Hough later told Judge McCarthy he was confused over one instruction to the jury and that "my verdict was not my honest verdict."

Vandals Damage Chillum Manor Project Again

Complaints of vandalism at a 58-home housing development in Chillum Manor are being investigated by Hyattsville police.

Over the weekend, black paint was splattered throughout one of the homes, at Chillum Manor rd. and Burketon rd., police said. William R. Turner, chairman of the Chillum Manor Committee which represents home owners in the development, said this was the latest in a series of such acts in the project. "At first we thought this was the work of children," said Turner, "but now we're wondering if someone—for some reason—is trying to 'sabotage' the project."

Police Stop Benes Cheers

ent but hastily released him as soon as he discovered the correspondent was a foreigner. After the demonstrations the square was dotted with police who several times broke up groups waiting for streetcars.

In the morning Czechs waved flags and shouted for Eduard Benes, co-founder of the republic, and the late Jan Masaryk during the five-hour Sokol parade which turned into a thunderous demonstration against the Communists.

Individuals and sometimes whole blocks of marchers in the Sokol (gymnastic society) parade whipped out tiny paper and 4-foot silk American flags, touching off spontaneous ovations among crowds along the line of march.

Officials said 70,000 marchers and 111 bands paraded. As they called for Benes, who recently resigned as President, and Masaryk, who was killed in a plunge from a window while foreign minister, the chant was taken up by onlookers.

The parade passed through the old town square, where President Klement Gottwald and other government officials reviewed it.

Police apparently were unable to cope with the situation, although eyewitnesses said three youths in their 20's were arrested in front of the National Theater for shouting: "There is no republic without Masaryk." About a dozen young men and women took their place, organizing new cheers every few minutes.

Onlookers reported that shortly after the parade started through downtown Wenceslas Square at 8 a. m. two successive groups of 120 girls started chanting:

"We want the republic of Benes and Masaryk."

The chants were taken up by following groups and by crowds on the sidewalks. In some instances, the crowds started the chanting.

Each member of groups from Pilsen and Rokycany in western Bohemia, liberated by United States armies, carried small paper American flags. Other units flew large silk Stars and Stripes, side by side with their Sokol banners.

One group of marchers broke out American flags, kissed them and waved them furiously, to a swelling crescendo of cheers from spectators.

Following the parade, the Sokol mass gymnastics program proceeded without incident.

Police headquarters announced tonight that "a few people" were arrested and later released.

Anti-Red Reports Arouse U. S. Interest

By The Associated Press

American officials displayed intense interest yesterday in reports from Prague of the anti-Communists demonstrations by the Sokol Congress.

Authorities here said that it was the first great public eruption of what they called very strong "anti-Stalinist" feeling in Czechoslovakia, which the Communists brought under their control early this year.

The Czech situation was linked here with the Communist crisis in Yugoslavia and the recent setback for the Communists in Finland. It was regarded as new evidence that the Kremlin is running into trouble at many points in trying to maintain its domination of the satellite countries.

ILO Says Workers, Employers May Join Own Groups

San Francisco, July 6 (AP).—Rights of workers and employers to establish and join organizations of their own choosing were proclaimed by the International Labor Organization today.

This action came on adoption of a draft text of an international convention or treaty on the subject, considered the most important at the 31st conference.

A final record vote will be taken at Saturday's closing session. A two-thirds majority is required and it appeared assured as a result of today's preliminary vote.

Men Who Get Up Nights Often Lose Their Pep

If you have to get up 2 or more times a night, your rest is broken and you may feel old and run-down before your time. So if you Get Up Nights or suffer from Bladder Weakness, Painful Passages, Backache, Leg Pains, Nervousness, Rheumatic Pains, Circles Under Eyes, or Swollen Ankles, due to non-organic and non-systemic kidney and Bladder Troubles, you should try Cystex.

This great medicine, a doctor's formula, has helped thousands of sufferers for over 20 years. Usually the very first dose of Cystex starts to work immediately to help you in these three ways: 1. Helps nature remove irritating excess acids, poisonous wastes and certain germs. 2. This cleansing action helps nature alleviate many pains, aches, soreness and stiffness. 3. Helps reduce frequent night and day calls, thus promoting better sleep.

Get Cystex from druggist today. Money back guaranteed unless Cystex satisfies you.

Mouse-Daunted Miss Calls Coppers to Aid

West Los Angeles, Calif., July 6 (AP).—Two radio cars and a patrol car, carrying seven policemen, sirened up to a house in response to a woman's scream for help today.

A breathless voice called: The back door's open come in that way."

They found, they said, Miss Victorian Markey standing on a chair, pointing.

"A mouse," she gasped.

knife at Marsha. Alan said it was a Scout knife.

Police believe the slayer stabbed the child as she sat on her bicycle. A bloody imprint of her hand was found beside the vehicle.

The Sapperstein children said that Marsha and the man disappeared into the woods and that Marsha came out a few moments later, bleeding from a wound in her chest.

Dr. Marvin M. Graham, a dentist, told police he was driving through the section and passed the Sapperstein children on their bicycles.

Then he saw Marsha sitting by the roadside. She was covered with blood. He carried her to his car. She died just after an ambulance had taken her to a hospital.

Soon every available police cruiser had been sent to the scene and a manhunt described by Baltimore police as one of the greatest in the city's history was under way.

Mrs. Arthur W. Kluge and her daughter, Borthea, of Bethlehem, Pa., visitors in Baltimore, said they were driving by the scene when they saw Barbara Sapperstein running up a hill.

"Oh, stop," she called. "Please stop. Wait for me. A colored man is stabbing little Marsha."

The similar slaying of Carol Bardwell 10 days ago in a secluded section of Rock Creek Park differed in several details. There was no known witness to the murder of the Bardwell child and she was raped by her killer.

Police here have questioned more than 100 persons, combed through lists of known sex offenders, made a painstaking search of a mile-square area in Rock Creek Park for the murder weapon, and followed down each lead until it either evaporated and could be safely ruled out.

One lead which looked promising immediately after the murder developed yesterday to be of no import.

Three young girls had been seen running excitedly from Rock Creek Park, at 17th st. and Colorado ave. nw., the afternoon Carol Bardwell was murdered.

They were finally identified late Monday night as Frauline E. Anderson, 11, of 1705 Vermont ave. nw.; Mildred G. Wright, 11, of 1703 Vermont ave. nw., and Mary Holt, 6, of 1105 R st. nw.

After questioning the two older girls and retracing their steps with them in the park, detectives were convinced that the girls had passed near but not by the spot where Carol Bardwell's mutilated body was found.

Their explanation of why they were running from the park was simple. They were having a race to see who could get to the bus stop first.

This development left police with only one lead, that now grown very cold. A man of about 35 was seen in a blood-stained shirt the afternoon of the slaying trying to thumb a ride at 14th st. and Park rd. nw. A motorist who observed him went through the park police picture file of sex offenders, but could not identify anyone.

Yugoslavia Condemns To Death 5 Terrorists

Belgrade Yugoslavia, July 6 (U.P.)—Five of 14 "terrorists" were sentenced to death by a Ljubljana district court yesterday for killing a member of the government.

All 14 were charged with being members of a terrorist gang connected with alleged war criminals who escaped to Austria. Two were sentenced to life imprisonment and seven to prison terms of from 9 months to 18 years.

Technicality Frees Woman

A Silver Spring woman, charged with posing as the mother of an under-age boy who enlisted in the Army, was cleared of a perjury charge in Silver Spring Police Court yesterday on a technicality.

The charge against Mrs. Catherine D. Nuanes, 43, of 805 New York ave. was dismissed by Judge William B. Wheeler. The defense attorney, Joseph B. Simpson, jr., had shown that a notary public had failed to administer an oath before certifying an affidavit in which Mrs. Nunes claimed she was the boy's mother.

In dismissing the charge, Judge Wheeler told Mrs. Nuanes she was being freed on a technicality and the case could be reopened by the Montgomery County Grand Jury.

The perjury warrant was sworn by Jacob Loewy, 421 Ethan Allen ave., Takoma Park. He said his son, William, 14, entered the Army June 2, after Mrs. Nuanes signed an affidavit identifying herself as the boy's mother and swearing he was 17.

The boy's father said Mrs. Nuanes was a neighbor for whom William had performed odd jobs. He said his son is in San Antonio, Tex., in the Army, apparently enjoying Army life, but would probably be discharged as soon as affidavits revealing his true age could be given to Army authorities.

Hollow Tooth Helps Chinese Foil Kidnapers

Manila, July 6 (AP).—Go Konghua, 23-year-old Chinese, outsmarted kidnapers today by the hole in his tooth.

Five armed Chinese and a Filipino snatched Go from his home, forced him to sign a ransom note to his father and then to take a sleeping tablet.

Go popped the tablet into a hollow tooth. Then he pretended to sleep. When his captors relaxed their watch, Go went.

they are purely exploratory," Press Officer Lincoln White said.

"No information concerning the substance of the conversations will be made public until such time as decisions are reached."

Taking part in the discussions was Ambassador Hume Wrong of Canada and Canadian Undersecretary for External Affairs, Lester B. Pearson. Canada voluntarily joined, after expressing interest in creating an effective system of collective security under the United Nations, but only if the United States participates.

The other ambassadors were Sir Oliver Franks of Great Britain, Henri Bonnet of France, Baron Robert Silvercruys of Belgium and Eelco N. Van Kleffens of the Netherlands.

Any program developed must have congressional approval. Under consideration is a peacetime lend-lease program, which would mean a departure from traditional United States foreign policy.

Diplomatic officials point out that any program recommended would, like the multibillion dollar European Economic Aid program, take months to develop.

Factual Films Trip Iowa Tipplers

The FBI revealed yesterday how Waterloo, Iowa, is using movies to get the goods on drunken drivers.

The current issue of the FBI's "Law Enforcement Bulletin" said the Waterloo police take movies of suspected drunken drivers immediately after their arrests. The result, it said, usually surpasses "the slapstick of the old Mack Sennett comedies."

The film is used as evidence against the accused when he comes to trial. Iowa's attorney general has assured the police this evidence is admissable, although the Supreme Court hasn't ruled as yet.

The FBI said the "ultimate results have been amazing and far above expectations." Since the practice was put into effect at the beginning of 1948, there have been 30 drunken driver arrests in Waterloo. There were 25 convictions, and five cases are pending.

The bureau said the idea was conceived by Waterloo Police Chief Harry J. Krieg. A movie outfit was set up in a section of the police station basement. A black stripe was painted down the side of the back wall and across the floor to where the floodlights and camera were set up. Movies are then taken of the accused while he walks along the black line and undergoes other tests

Man Retrieves Lost Youth On Trip to Forgotten Town

Denver, July 6 (U.P.).—Al Bird told the strange story today of how he found his "lost childhood" accidentally when he visited a small Michigan city with his wife.

Bird, who is about 65 but doesn't know his exact age, said he would undergo blood tests to help prove he is a relative of a family he discovered in Standish, Mich., after 46 years of not knowing about his youth because of a memory lapse.

Bird's memory begins with his life in Denver at about the age of 18. All before that has been a mystery to him, he said.

Recalls Town

This year the Birds decided to vacation in Michigan. Mrs. Bird said they were driving near Standish when her husband suddenly said:

"I've been here before. I remember this place."

Mrs. Bird thought he was sick.

Al said his memories flooded him. He saw homes of people he had known, a school he had attended, a stream where he had fished.

"He talked and talked," Mrs. Bird said, "reciting names and places he had never mentioned before."

At Standish, Bird located Billie Bisconner, an old-timer. Bird asked the whereabouts of Louise Stover, a sister whom he remembered. Bisconner told him she died about a year ago.

Then, Bisconner added: "If you're Louise's brother, I'm your uncle. You must be Alec."

Bisconner directed Bird to the nearby home of Al's aunt, Mrs. Sophie Fedders.

Face Turns White

"I went up on the porch and an old woman with white hair came to the door," Bird said. "When she saw me, her face turned white and she said: 'You're Alec, ain't you?'"

In Bay City, Bird met his brother Bill. In Flint City, he met another brother, Joe.

Piecing together the 18 mysterious years of his youth, Bird, now a railroad worker here, discovered he left home suddenly but no one, least of all himself, knew why.

West Coast Firm Wins Arabia Oil Development Bid

London, July 6 (AP).—The American Independent Oil Co. announced tonight it has outbid the petroleum firms of two nations for rights in the Kuwait-Saudi Arabia "neutral zone," in the heart of the Middle East's major oil region.

Ralph K. Davies, president of the San Francisco firm, said Sheikh Ahmad Ibn Jabir As-Subah, ruler of Kuwait, has granted American Independent full rights of exploration and development in his undivided half interest in the zone.

The Sheikh holds the area jointly with King Ibn Saud of Saudi Arabia.

The area of the concession is a semidesert territory 50 miles long from east to west and averaging 45 miles wide.

Davies, former United States deputy petroleum administrator for war, said Gulf Oil Corp., Amerada Oil Co., Burmah Oil Co. and Shell Oil Co. were among the unsuccessful bidders.

No test wells have yet been drilled in the concessino area, but geologists have reported favorably on its petroleum potential, Davis said.

Lee, Eustis to Get 7500 More Troops in Spring

Some 7500 additional troops will be in training at Camp Lee and Fort Eustis in Virginia by next spring, the Army said yesterday.

The number at Camp Lee is expected to be increased by 5000 to approximately 9500 during the early part of 1948. This number will include Wac trainees.

This Morning

—With Shirley Povich

MATCHMAKER GABE MENENDEZ has coralled an expensive collection of boxing bric-a-brac, near-champions and non-champions, for his Griffith Stadium show next Monday night and he trusts that they are long on box-office appeal. Not a dime will accrue to Menendez, he says, unless the gate hits $20,000.

POVICH

At that, his show has certain charms. On top he has Aaron Perry, perennial Washington favorite, who could get his ears knocked off by Laverne Roach. Beneath them are the heavyweights, Jackie Cranford and Jackie Lyons, a curious pair who sometimes punch hard. In a third 10-rounder, he is offering Jimmy Cooper and Joe Kay, and as a special added attraction Menendez is tossing in Ken Stribling and Randy Brown for 10 rounds.

They represent a lot of fighters who could show a lot of fight. All but the Perry-Roach thing are re-matches of main events in other arenas. Menendez buried an old feud with Perry's manager, Harry Garsh, to make that match. Roach accepted the Perry bout because he was in need of a victory over somebody to rebuild his middleweight title hopes after being stopped by Marcel Cerdan.

PERRY is on his latest comeback. He used to command $50,000 gates when he was hot stuff in Washington four years ago. That was before his weak chin was discovered. But he's still only 23. He's fighting for comparative peanuts now after being rushed to destruction by un-smart management that put him in with the likes of Henry Armstrong, Sammy Angott and Danny Kapilow.

There never has been any dispute about Perry's own hitting ability, though, and that is the chance that Roach is taking. Roach was a sensation earlier in the summer with 23 straight wins and there was talk of a Roach-Zale or Roach-Graziano fight until the Frenchman Cerdan fractured his winning streak and almost his skull.

Cranford, though, is the enigma of the card. Surprising as it may seem to Washington fight-goers who never did rate him highly, Cranford was nevertheless only one fight away from a bout with Joe Louis. And then he got himself lickel by Gino Buonovino, a third-rater, in a Garden main bout, and poof! went any idea that he was ready for Louis or any other good fighter.

CRANFORD DIDN'T fight a lick against Buonvino, not that he can't fight well sometimes; he simply wasn't in the mood. He had to arouse himself a few weeks ago to beat Lyons, his opponent Monday, by a split decision at Richmond. Pretty Boy Cranford makes a wonderful appearance in the ring—until the fighting starts, and then it's a matter of mood with him.

Menendez's particular pet on the show is Jimmy Cooper, and Cooper's bout with the red-headed English featherweight, Joey Kay, could be the best thing on the card. A month ago they thieved the show from Jake LaMotta and Ken Stribling at Griffith Stadium in one of the prelims. They were both on the floor for nine counts with Kay getting up in better shape and winning the decision.

That was an eight-rounder, though, and this time they're boxing 10 and young Cooper may have the advantage there. He's the slickest fighter to come out of Washington since Georgie Abrams, Menendez says, and the town's best hope of getting one of its products into the title class.

THIS RANDY BROWN who fights Ken Stribling is no green hand, either. He beat Stribling by a split decision last time, and before he outgrew the welterweights he licked the fancy Danny Kapilow, too. Stribling, however, represents the most box office appeal. He made friends here with his gallant showing against Jake LaMotta.

That was the night Stribling went down six times and came up only five times, but he came up punching until the final coup de grace. He was over his head in that match, but against Brown he will be at a happier level. Their's is the bout on the card that promises the punching feature.

This is Menendez's big show. He has boxers in there with punchers, and punchers in there with punchers. He says the first $20,000 that comes into the house will cover only the expenses of the promotion, and he adds dismally, "I ain't on salary."

Dobson Wins 10th, 2 to 1, Over Yanks

Boston, July 6 (AP).—A five-hit 2-1 decision gave right-hander Joe Dobson his tenth pitching win of the season and his Boston Red Sox a three-game sweep over the New York Yankees tonight before a chilled 31,735 crowd. Dobson totaled seven strikeouts, three of them in the ninth inning.

Dobson had a shutout until, with two out in the eighth he passed Tommy Henrich and Yogi Berra lashed a two bagger off the left field wall.

The Red Sox made both of their runs and all six hits against Frank Hiller before he was lifted for a pinch hitter in the eighth.

Bums Win, 5-0; Two Players Fight

Philadelphia, July 6 (AP).—Andy Seminick and Gene Hermanski were expelled for fighting in the first inning tonight as the Brooklyn Dodgers defeated the Philadelphia Phillies, 5-0, with George Schuba hitting a two-run homer.

Hermanski crashed into Seminick at the plate when he scored from third on Bruce Edwards' fly for the Dodgers' third run. The players first exchanged words, then bumped chests and Seminick swung a left hook. They clinched and fell to the ground.

Dutch Bergman Gets $10,000 Armory Job

By Edward F. Ryan
Post Reporter

Arthur J. "Dutch" Bergman, former football coach of Catholic University and the Washington Redskins, was named yesterday to the $10,000 job of manager for the District National Guard Armory.

Bergman was appointed to the newly created job by the Armory Control Board, set up this year by Congress to manage nonmilitary activities at the Armory.

Bergman will serve at the discretion of the Armory board which governs the length of his contract and also the salary.

The appointment was announced by Leonard P. Walsh, chairman of the Armory Board, after a two-hour closed meeting in the office of District Commissioner John Russell Young. The latter is a member of the board, as is Brig. Gen. Albert L. Cox, commanding officer of the District National Guard.

Bergman was selected from about 15 applicants, Walsh said. Earlier in the day, Col. Waldron Leonard, director of the Veterans' Information Service here, had withdrawn his name from the list of applicants. Colonel Leonard was backed by Commissioner Young.

Bergman had the personal backing of Representative Joseph P. O'Hara (R., Minn.), chairman of the House District Subcommittee which sponsored the new Armory control plan. O'Hara said yesterday he had recommended Bergman for the job, and that he was "delighted" with the selection.

Chairman Walsh said that Bergman will enter upon the active management of the Armory "just as quickly as conditions will allow." He said the next move of the board will be to confer with Bergman at

Anna Hal Sets New Record In Winning Laurel Feature

A new track record for the six-furlongs was established last night at Laurel Raceway as Anna Hal, an 8-year-old black mare owned by Harry M. Case of Dover, Del., won the $700 feature purse for pacers from a field of five other top horses.

Anna Hal, rated off the early pace by Tom Walters, came through with a burst of speed in the stretch to beat out W. H. Farlow's Lord Clinton, with youthful Alan Myer in the pilot's seat, by a length and a half. She paid her backers $22.00, $8.20 and $5.00.

Anna Hal covered the six furlongs in 1:34 2/5 to clip one-fifth of a second off the previous best mark which Lieutenant Kohl set last week.

A crowd of 5000, held down because of an early rain, saw the record-smashing performance. Lord Clinton, which beat out the 24-1 shot, How John, for the place money, paid $5 and $3.20, while How John returned $5.80.

The big favorite $1.70 to 1 shot, A. B. Highley's Plaza, with Tom Wingate the driver, finished a disappointing fifth.

The fans wagered $125,077 for the eight races, raising the total for the meet to $1,625,617.

Tom Wingate, veteran Behoboth Beach, Md., skipper, added another victory to his growing list by driving home Kroger Babb, a 2-year-old black colt owned by J. J. Rose of Philadelphia in the opening race, a mile trot. Wingate came from fourth to beat out Real Gay by six lengths, and return $7.89, $3.20 and $2.80. It was Kroger Babb's first victory.

In the secondary feature, the sixth race, a mile trot for a $600 purse, Silver Kephie, an 8-year-old gray gelding, owned by Charles Middaugh of Lewistown, Pa., and driven by 22-year-old Alan Myer, showed a burst of speed to step home first in a six-horse filed.

Silver Kephie won by a neck from Frank Hanna's Chester Hanover, the favorite, and paid $5.60, $3.40 and $2.40. The daily double combination of Kroger Babb and Hanover Scout paid $127.20.

Charlotte, N. C., July 6 (AP).—The Charlotte Hornets of the Tristate League today announced the transfer of Outfielder Hal Keller to Hagerstown, Md., of the Interstate League. Hal is a brother of Charlie Keller of the Yankees.

It's All Figured Out

Sun Lamps, Suntan, Freckles May Be Next at Night Games

Boston, July 6 (U.P.).—Some day you may get a tan at night baseball games from sun lamps sprinkled among the arc lights.

Harry F. Karlson, a 43-year-old Belmont lighting engineer, said today he had figured the details down to the last volt and freckle and stuffed them neatly in a brief case. A locked one.

"I'll keep them under wraps until President Lou Perini of the Boston Braves decides whether he's interested," he said.

But the lean, lanky inventor's face beamed confidence.

"I'm not worried," he said. "The idea's a natural. Can't miss. It'll be like having sunshine at night. Why, even if your team loses you'll get your vitamins. Somebody's always a winner that way."

And glamour!

"On balmy nights," he predicted, "folks will grab their sun-tan lotion and smoked glasses and flock to the ball park. It'll bring color to the game . . . romance.

"Imagine those stands bulging with beautiful girls in bathing suits and shorts just sitting there soaking up the sun and getting themselves tanned. Man! Who'll care what the score is?"

He said he is equipped to tackle all the problems of nocturnal sun baths—such things as beam angles, exposure time, intensity and freckles.

"Freckles are tough," he conceded.

"I plan to have ushers sell paper parasols with the peanuts and hot dogs. Won't eliminate the problem, but it will help. Of course, some people will freckle no matter what you do for them. Nature just made them like that. Can't be helped.

"But that's no reason for denying others after-dark sunshine."

Lou Brissie Goes Route For 8th Win

By Morris Siegel
Post Reporter

The Nats ended their short home stay by coming out on the short end of a 5-3 count against the Athletics last night at Griffith Stadium.

The game was called in the eighth inning to permit both teams to catch a train, sending the Nats to Boston deeper in sixth place and the Macks to New York only 10 percentage points behind the league-leading Indians.

The Philadelphia triumph was accomplished in the first two innings against Walter Masterson. The bespectacled righthander followed up his 2-1, 12-inning victory over the Yankees by being belted out in the second inning last night after permitting four runs on seven hits.

Masterson and his two successors, Earl Harrist and Sid Hudson, were touched for 13 solid blows, including Shortstop Eddie Joost's twelfth homer of the year, delivered on the third pitch of the ball game.

Nats' Rally Fizzles

Lefthander Lou Brissie, pocketing his eighth decision for the Mackmen, was nicked for 11 hits, 3 in the final inning, when the Nats produced their final two runs and threatened to do more damage.

Brissie, however, fanned Pinch Hitter Early Wynn with the tieing runs on base to wind up the game, sending the Nats to Union Station and 10,116 customers home and unhappy.

Masterson, charged with his sixth reversal, didn't fool anyone except Manager Joe Kuhel. He was in a hole from the opening pitch until well along in the second inning when Harrist finally came to his rescue with the bases loaded and two more runs already across.

After Joost's homer, Ray Coleman, Ferris Fain and Hank Majeski singled to add the second Mack run in the first inning.

Harrist Good in Relief

Three singles and a walk added up two more runs in the second, and when Masterson walked Fain to load the sacks with two away, Kuhel decided he had enough and dispatched Harrist to the scene.

The former Chicago righthander got Majeski on a force play to wind up the inning. He pitched scoreless, 3-hit ball for the five innings he toiled.

Brissie fanned seven of the Nats, including the side, in the fifth.

Eddie Yost's single, walks to Gil Coan and Tom McBride and Mark Christman's long fly produced the first Nat tally in the third.

The Griffs didn't strike again until the eighth when Christman followed McBride's single with a double for another run. Kozar and Al Evans kept the attack alive with singles to produce the third Nat run but Wynn ended the game by swinging vigorously at a third strike.

Lineups Set For All-Star Game July 13

Chicago, July 6 (AP).—A record vote of more than four million baseball fans today named players from six National and five American League clubs to the starting lineups for the All-Star game at St. Louis July 13.

The players, excluding pitchers, which Managers Leo Durocher of the National League and Bucky Harris of the American will pick themselves, were selected in a three-week poll conducted by 453 newspapers and radio stations.

The lineups as dictated by the fans:

American	Pos.	National
McQuinn, N. Y.	1B	Mize, N. Y.
Gordon, Cleve.	2B	Stanky, Boston
Kell, Detroit	3B	Pafko, Chicago
Boudreau, Cl.	SS	Reese, Bklyn.
Williams, Bos.	LF	Musial, St. L.
DiMaggio, N.Y.	CF	Ashburn, Phils.
Mullin, Detroit	RF	Slaughter, St.L.
Rosar, A's	C	Cooper, N. Y

Only Pittsburgh and Cincinnati failed to place a starter in the National League, while Chicago, St. Louis and Washington were shut out in the American League.

Over Four Million Vote

Washington's Mickey Vernon, however, ran a close second to McQuinn for first base honors. Mickey had 1,038,426 votes to 1,193,513 for McQuinn.

Biggest individual vote-getter was Boston's Ted Williams, who garnered mention of 1,556,784 of the 4,107,893 lineups submitted by fans in the wide-spread balloting.

Yankee Clipper DiMaggio, the 1947 leader with approximately the same number of votes Williams collected, placed third this year behind Stan Musial of the St. Louis Cardinals, who topped National League returns with 1,532,502.

Under the pact between the Chicago Tribune and Baseball Commissioner A. B. Chandler and with Presidents Will Harridge of the American League and Ford Frick of the National League, the managers must use the lineups designated by the fans for the first three innings.

There was only one change in the American League's opening line-up from that elected for the 1947 game. Pat Mullin of Detroit supplanted Washington's Buddy Lewis in right field.

In the National League, fans made five changes from last year's starting line-up. Boston's Eddie Stanky replaced Emil Verban of the Phillies at second. Chicago's Andy Pafko took third base from Bob Elliott of the Braves. Eddie Miller, formerly of Cincinnati, yielded shortstop to Pee Wee Reese of Brooklyn. Rookie Richie Ashburn of the Phillies ousted teammate Walker from center field, and Musial replaced Dixie Walker, former Dodger, in left.

Vernon Stopped After 372 Games

After 372 consecutive games at first base for the Nats, Mickey Vernon was out of the lineup last night, a victim of ptomaine poisoning.

Vernon missed only six games in 1946, played in all 154 last year, and has been at his usual station for 70 contests this year.

He is expected to be back in action tonight when the Nats open a two-game series with the Red Sox in Boston. Earl Wooten relieved him last night.

Reds Beat Bucs In Ninth, 6-4

Pittsburgh, July 6 (AP).—Ted Kluszewski's ninth inning two-run double with the bases loaded and two out tonight led the Cincinnati Reds to a 6 to 4 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

It was the second time in two days that the Red first baseman has pulled victory from defeat in the final inning. In the second game yesterday, his ninth-inning home run tied the contest, 4 to 4, and the Reds went on to win.

Natchez 3d, Rain Slows Program

By Walter Haight
Post Reporter

Havre De Grace, Md., July 6.—On a day at the races marked by much confusion it was only fitting that a colt named Circus Clown should be a winner.

The son of Tiger, virtually unknown to Maryland racegoers, picked the big spot for his victory—in the $10,000 added Philadelphia Handicap.

An opening day crowd of only 5942 saw Circus Clown perform in a field of 10. The program was late getting under way and just before the fifth race a heavy storm broke, dunking the track and almost blowing the horses into near Chesapeake Bay.

Power Lines Down

The downpour knocked out the power lines feeding the odds board so betting on the feature was almost sight unseen.

However, there was nothing phony about Circus Clown's victory. The 3-year-old, the youngest member of the field, came from behind to take command and then won by two lengths.

In second position was S. M. Newmeyer's Turbine with Mrs. Walter M. Jefford's Natchez, the even money favorite, third in a field scratched down to 10.

Pays $14.80

Circus Clown paid a healthy $14.80 win mutuel and was clocked in 112 4/5 for the six furlongs while under good handling by Jockey Ovie Scurlock.

Natchez was first to show in front and opened what appeared to be a good lead along the backstretch. However, before the far bend was reached, Meet Me Now had shot up abreast of the pacemaker and then took a brief lead only to drop back.

Circus Clown, always well up, then moved to challenge Natchez as Turbine began to show signs of activity. Circus Clown went to Natchez but the Jeffords hope had speed left and again drew out.

Stretch Is Different

But in the stretch it was a different story. Scurlock went to a drive in earnest and Circus Clown responded. This time Natchez was unable to resist Circus Clown and the 3-year-old took command. From that point to the wire it was a case of how big would the win mutuel be on Circus Clown.

Natchez, despite the vigorous driving of Jockey Lee Hansman, seemed to quit and along came Turbine to force the son of Jamestown into third position. Among others, Flying Weather, owned by D. K. Kerr, jr., of Washington, rallied mildly in the stretch run.

The victory was the fifth in seven tries this year for Circus Clown and he took down $8820 to bring his 1948 earnings to $27,070. He carried the colors of the Kentuckian, W. J. Walden.

The program was the first of 11 here this week and next while the crowd of betting was far below big time standards.

Spots Before His Eyes

Leon Culberson Gets Assist From Ump on Stolen Base

Milwaukee, July 6 (AP).—Former Nat Leon Culberson, Kansas City outfielder, had the easiest stolen base of his career today—he went down while the ball was stuck in the plate umpire's mask.

The theft occurred in Milwaukee's American Association doubleheader yesterday with the Blues.

Brewer Catcher Frank Kerr missed a pitch by Ray Martin with Culberson on first. The ball slammed into Umpire Harry King's mask—and stuck. Kerr jerked the mask loose, but couldn't free the ball. Culberson went to second and was credited with a stolen base.

No Tea in England

London, July 6 (AP).—You could have knocked out Gus Lesnevich, world light-heavyweight champion, with a tea cup. The boxer, here to fight Freddie Mills on July 26, couldn't get a cup of tea with his luncheon today. Then he discovered he was in a cafe specializing in Spanish foods.

"I never ask for coffee in a British cafe," Lesnevich said, "I'm afraid I'll get it."

Add Fish Stories

Chesapeake Beach, Md., July 6 (AP).—A party of Washingtonians were relating a 900-pound fish story today.

The party of six or eight went fishing in Capt. Barnes Lowery's Gloria B. and came home with 412 hardheads with a total weight of 900 pounds.

Skipper Lowery said "I never saw anything like it. We were pulling them in as fast as we could cast." The Gloria B. was hip-deep in hardheads, he said.

Bingo Binks Goes to Toledo

St. Louis, July 6 (AP).—The St. Louis Browns announced the release tonight of Outfielder George Binks to the Toledo Club of the American Association. At the same time the Browns called in Outfielder Richard Kokos from Toledo. Binks came to St. Louis from Philadelphia in a trade June 5. His only role with the club has been as pinch batter.

Hippenstiel In Semifinals

Second seeded Capt. Robin Hippenstiel defeated Eddie Miller, 6-3, 6-2, yesterday at Edgemoor and Advanced to the semifinals of the District of Columbia tennis tournament.

In a fourth round match, Don Leaven, seeded fourth, encountered strong opposition from K. K. Jones before winning out, 4-6, 6-3, 6-2.

Tutwiler Wins W. Virginia Golf

White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., July 6 (AP).—Ed Tutwiler of Mount Hope regained the State Men's Amateur Golf championship he last held in 1940 by defeating Defending Champion Fred G. Bannerot, jr., of Charlestown 4 and 3 today.

Mrs. Brooks Wins

Mrs. Ray T. Brooks shot 42—7—35 yesterday to win the Ladies Day Golf Tournament at Manor Golf and Country Club. In second place was Mrs. Ralph Zuber with 44—7—37.

He Qualifies For National Tournament

Marvin (Bubby) Worsham youngest of Washington's most famous golfing family, shot a record-breaking 69 yesterday at Georgetown Prep, and automatically qualified for the National Junior Tournament August 3-7 at Lincoln, Nebr.

Worsham's score was a competitive record for the nine-hole Georgetown Prep course. He bogied only on the par four sixth hole going out. Coming in, he birdied the par four thirteenth, and par five fourteenth.

Worsham's card:
Par	442	452	434—35
Worsham	443	454	535—36
Par	442	454	434—35—70
Worsham	443	344	434—33—69

With his sparkling one-under-par performance, 18-year-old Bubby resumed the string of local victories he ran up before joining the Wake Forest University team last fall. Previously, he had won The Washington Post's Schoolboy golf title two years in a row.

The next 16 scorers will fight it out today and tomorrow in match play for the six remaining Washington berths in the National Tournament. Worsham's closest competitors in yesterday's field of 50 were Stan Mouser with 73, Eugene Wolfe with 74, and Pete Kyne, Eddie Reagh and Charles Faller with 78 each.

Bubby's score might have been even more remarkable had the greens not been a little too fast for his putter. At least four times, Worsham putts hit the cup but stubbornly refused to drop.

Medalist's scores, pairings, starting times for today:
10 a. m.—Stan Mouser (73) vs. Peter Kyne (78). 10:05—Bob Wolfe (79) vs. John Eisinger (79). 10:10—Dennis Bolster (81) vs. Francis Price (81). 10:15—Charles Faller (78) vs. Eddie Reagh (78). 10:20—Billy Wolfe (79) vs. John Shilling (82). 10:25—Dick Wolfe (81) vs. Don Dedrick (82). 10:30—Bob Malcombe (81) vs. Fedie Bohlen (81). 10:35—Jim Bogley (82) vs. Eugene Wolfe (74).
Quarterfinals start at 2 p. m.

Redskins See Themselves as Others See Them

President George Marshall of the Washington Redskins had a July football party at the Hotel Statler yesterday to preview a moving picture, "Hail To The Redskins."

Some of the boys from radio and press around town, as well as special guests, saw the film, made up of high-light plays of Redskin games and between-halves performances since 1942.

The movie is well done in color, with Harry Wismer narrating.

Many of the stars—past and present—of the National Football League are shown in action plays.

This 16-milimeter film, running about 22 minutes and covering 78 plays, will be available to boys clubs, schools, civic groups and other organizations.

The Redskin office, 739 9th st. nw., will handle bookings upon request.

Bergman Gets Armory Manager Job

10 a. m. Friday about a tentative budget for his work.

Commissioner Young said that among Bergman's first duties would be to consider the suggestions made earlier for enlarging the seating capacity of the Armory, limited now by District regulations to 4825 persons.

A three-step plan prepared by officials calls for boosting capacity by 1800 persons at a cost of $65,000, by another 1350 persons for an additional $75,000, and by another 1800 persons by major structural changes which would cost $200,000 more.

Young said money might be sought in the next budget for either of the first two plans, but not for the third step. He said the board would first want to learn from the manager whether the crowds for Armory events justify the increased capacity.

Bergman, 51, was born in Peru, Ind. He played halfback at Notre Dame in 1915, 1916 and 1919. He graduated in 1920. His college course was interrupted by service in Europe as an Army Air Force pilot during the first World War.

He coached football at Catholic University from 1930 through 1940. One of his teams won the 1936 Orange Bowl contest 20 to 19 against Mississippi. Another tied Arizona State, 0-0, in the 1940 Sun Bowl game.

After leaving Catholic University, he scouted for the Washington Redskins, and in 1943 was their head coach. He has been a radio sports commentator for WRC for the past four years. He said yesterday he expects to continue his broadcasting, while taking on the armory job.

But He's Never Had a Cold

Dee Toran, fiery little Mexican from Los Angeles, is "broken up" by midget auto racing but hopes to have a good season this year, particularly at the West Lanham Speedway.

When he was 17 his mother bought him a $9000 Miller big car but the first time Dee drove it he broke both legs.

Toran has raced both big cars and the midgets but he prefers the latter because there is "more action." It's the midgets, however, that has caused him to be "broken up."

"That's the truth," Dee says, "I've had five skull fractures, four concussions, two blood clots, both arms and both legs broken and nine holes punctured in my lung."

Last year Toran had the worst season of his career because he was driving what he calls "junk" This year he purchased his new gold-leaf-decorated Offy and now is among the first seven leading drivers on the Eastern circuit.

On the Town

DID YOU KNOW:

That Senator Howard McGrath of Rhode Island is an inveterate cigar smoker and has a son named David, aged 12, who is really a "chip off the block"?

That Representative Charles Halleck of Indiana loves the song "Love in Bloom" and went to school with Composer Hoagy Carmichael?

That George Dixon, the columnist, played poor trombone in the school band in Vancouver, British Columbia, in his boyhood?

That Senator and Mrs. Joseph Ball, Minnesota, go to the Shoreham every anniversary by themselves and sit at he same table, orchid and all?

That Gen. Hoyt Vandenberg, Air Force Chief of Staff, is a good dancer but never smiles when he dances?

That Senator Fullbright of Arkansas likes the song "South of the Border" and doesn't actually look over 30 years of age?

That Senator Wayland Brooks of Illinois looks like a doctor and invariably wears formal dress at night for dinner?

That Les Biffle doesn't speak above a whisper?

That Ambassador Casceres from Honduras, besides being a diplomat, is a poet and can recite at length from the great bards.

That Senator Wiley of Wisconsin knows all the words to "On Wisconsin"?

That Arthur "Dutch" Bergman dances a very good "samba" with his daughter?

That Gen. Joseph Batteley is considering an offer for a screen test?

That Ed McGinnis, the Sergeant-at-Arms of the Senate, answers his mail almost immediately, if possible?

That Senator Arthur Vandenburg of Michigan has liked the song "Yankee Rose" for 15 years?

That the Secretary of Agriculture, Charles Brannan, had more fun more often dining out with Mrs. Brannan when he was Assistant Secretray?

That Grace Stewart, secretary to the Attorney General, looks as young as her two beautiful daughters?

That the Delegate from Hawaii, Joseph Farrington, has a deep baritone voice that the Metropolitan Opera could use?

That Representative Sid Simpson of Illinois has one of the greatest senses of humor in Congress?

That Henry Kaiser, the industrialist, still likes "Make Believe" and never seems to have a worry on his mind?

That Representative Lowell Stockman of Oregon is the tallest man in Congress, with Representativetive Charles Fletcher of California a runner-up?

That Senator Hawkes, retiring Senator from New Jersey, has a great sense of humor and his great philosophy is to "Live so as not to be afraid to die"?

That when Gen. and Mrs. Claire Channault arrived from China several months ago and were in the Blue Room, Mrs. Chennault often requested the song "You Are My Sunshine"?

That Senator and Mrs. McClellan of Arkansas can both sing the words of "The Way You Look Tonite" and have done so from the first day that they were married.

That years ago the late Senator Huey Long of Louisiana would take one hour to fix his own salad?

That Senator Holland of Florida is the best dancer in the Senate?

That General Eisenhower has loved the song "I've Got Spurs That Jingle Jangle" and that Mrs. Ike loves the song "The Old Spinning Wheel," and that my most fond memory was the first night the General returned to Washington from the wars to spend a "Happy Birthday" with Mrs. Ike in the Blue Room?

That I am grateful for the opportunity of being at this great hotel for 18 years?

Macricostas Back On Show Tonight

A two-time winner last Wednesday night, "Ironman" George Macricostas will be back at Turner's Arena tonight to tangle with Gino Garibaldi in one end of the twin-headlining wrestling show.

Former Champion Babe Sharkey squares off with aggressive Herbie Freeman in the other cofeature.

In other bouts George Bolas trades with Francois Miquette, Benito Gardini meets Lew Lair, and Mike Carroll debuts against Fred Corona. The show starts at 8:45 p. m.

The Federal Diary

by Jerry Klutz

CIVIL SERVICE is planning scores of competitive tests before the end of this year. A list of the proposed examinations to be announced within the next six months has been sent to agency personnel directors. The personnel people are free to suggest changes and additions.

In other words, this is a tentative list and many of the exams on it won't be announced for several months. This is the schedule of written tests to be announced:

CAF-1 & 2 clerk; CAF-1 to 5 office machines operator; P-1 librarian; P-1 patent examiner; P-1 meteorologist; CAF-7 to 12 labor management relations examiner; P-2 & 3 graduate nurse; CM-1 to 3 printer's assistant; P-2 & 3 psychologist; SP-2 to 8 scientific aid; CAF-5 to 7 secretary; CAF-1 to 7 storekeeper, and these three ungraded tests—privates in the Washington Police and Fire Departments, and student nurse.

A junior professional assistant exam with these options: astronomer, bacteriologist, chemist, economist, geographer, legal assistant, mathematician, metallurgists, physicist, psychologist, social science analyst, statistician, and trade mark examiner.

A junior agricultural assistant test with these options; economist, engineer, agronomist, animal husbandman, aquatic biologist, wildlife biologist, botanist, dairy manufacturing specialist, dairy husbandman, entomologist, farm management supervisor, forester, geneticist, home economist, horticulturist, plant pathologist, plant physiologist, poultry husbandman, range and soil conservationist, soil scientist, textile technologist, and zoologist.

The assistant exam in all cases will be for P-1 jobs.

Also, CAF-10 aeronautical inspector; CAF-10 to 12 air carrier inspector; CAF-10 aircraft inspector, and CAF-5 to 11 ammunition inspector.

The above completes the list of written tests. On the following exams to be announced applicants will be graded on education and experience as no written exam will be given:

CAF-7 to 12 personnel officer; CAF-7 to 9 statistical clerk; CAF-11 to 13 statistical officer; P-2 to 4 statistician; CAF-5 to 7 vessel sanitation inspector; P-2 to 6 social science analyst; CAF-11 service agent; P-2 and 3 public health nurse; ungraded photoengraver; P-6 to 8 physical science administrator; P-1 to 8 physiologist, and ungraded plate grainer and process plate maker.

Also, P-2 to 6 agriculturist; P-2 airmen standards specialist; CAF-7 to 13 apprentice training officer; CAF-5 to 7 commissary inspector; ungraded copper plate engraver; SP-2 to 8 draftsman; CPC-6 to 9 elevator mechanic; SP-3 to 8 mappin engineering aid; CPC-4 to 6 general mechanic; ungraded hand compositor and film assembler; P-4 flight test engineer inspector; P-4 flight test engineer and pilot; CPC-4 to 8 foreman of laborers; CAF-13 to 15 industrial specialist, and CAF-9 inspection officer.

And, finally, agricultural research scientist with these options: agronomy, bacteriology, botany, wildlife biology, cereal technology, dairy husbandry, dairy manufacturing technology, entomology, fisheries research biology, genetics, horticulture, meat technology, microanalysis, mycology, parasitology, plant pathology, plant physiology, poultry husbandry, poultry physiology, and soil science.

Civil Service emphasizes this word of caution—no applications will be accepted until the exams are officially announced. Also, no advance information will be given out on any of the tests.

PAY RAISES for upward of 20,000 per diem employes of the Navy, Army and Air Forces in and near this city will be announced momentarily, perhaps today.

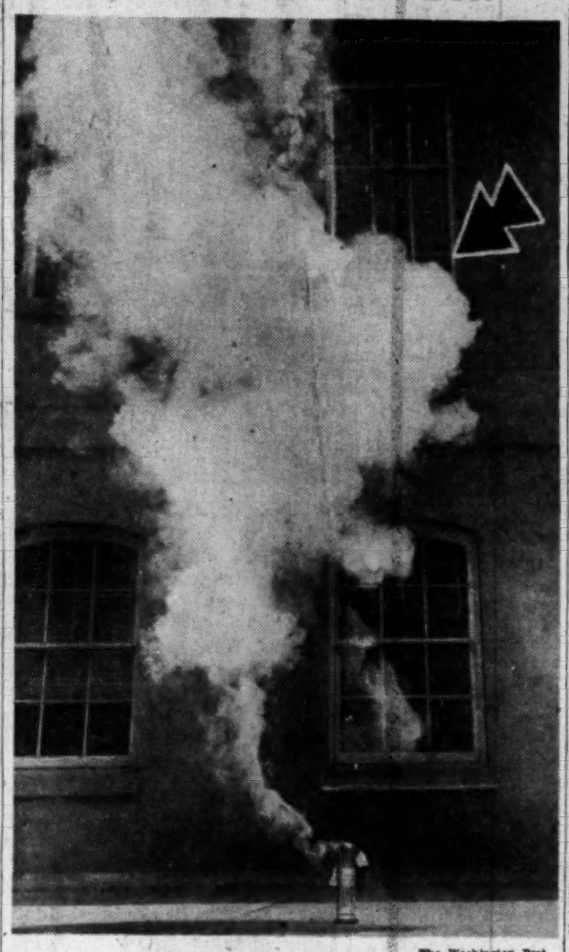
The increases have been recommended by a joint wage board to the Navy and Army Secretaries. They will go into effect no later than 30 days after they are approved by the Secretaries.

To be benefited by the wage boosts are more than 15,000 Navy per diems in the Washington metropolitan area, and about 3900 Army and Air Force per diems. The increases will vary. All Army and Air Force grades have been increased.

This is the first time the three military services have cooperated with one another to fix the wages of their per diems and it will result in identical wages being paid for similar jobs.

Among the big military establishments here and nearby where per diems will get increases are the Naval Gun Factory, Alexandria Torpedo Plant, Army Map Service, Fort Myer, Fort Belvoir, Bolling and Andrews Air Fields, Naval Research Laboratory, Naval Ordnance Laboratory, David Taylor Model Basin. There are many others.

Attaches Scoot as Toy Mine Rises 60 Feet in Court Test



The Washington Post

BANG!—THE JUDGE WATCHED FROM WINDOW (ARROW)

Municipal Court Judge John P. McMahon yesterday showed how an explosive situation may be handled without recourse to long legal argument.

Defense Attorney Samuel Block asserted that there was no evidence showing that a colored star mine sold by his client, Lloyd Shalen, a grocer of 518 7th st. sw., was an explosive

Judge McMahon suggested a test of the mine.

And so with Prosecutor Clark King, Block, Shalen, newspapermen and sundry court attendants looking on, Sergt. R. L. Rison of No. 14 Precinct lit the mine's fuse at the F st. entrance to the courthouse, near 5th st. nw.

"Yes, Your Honor," Block replied meekly.

"No, Your Honor," faintly returned Block, withdrawing the plea of not guilty.

3 Forfeit Collateral For Illegal Fireworks

Charges of setting off illegal fireworks in Montgomery County were lodged against six Greater Washington youths over the weekend.

Three of the six forefeited collateral yesterday in Silver Spring Police Court. Hearings for the others were set for July 13.

Those forfeiting and the amounts forfeited are: Hugh M. Smythe, 18, 7 Grant ave., Takoma Park, $7.50; Charles G. Bairle, 20, 51 Carroll ave., Takoma Park, $7.50; Horace H. Trussall, 21, Olney, $11.45.

Those slated to appear July 13 were: Robert G. Hauser, 19, 8104 Piney Branch rd., and Richard Cissell, 18, 810 Silver Spring ave., both of Silver Spring, and Thomas R. Colburn, 6615 6th st., nw.

Nov. 5 Date Set

Garners Get Chair for Jones Slaying

The brothers, George A. Garner, 25, 28½ Hanover st. nw., and Lawrence J. Garner, 23, of 2331 L. st. nw., displayed no emotion when sentence was imposed by Justice Richmond B. Keech.

They were convicted last month by jury for the fatal shooting of taxi driver Howard Jones, 37, of 417 Irving st. nw. According to the evidence, they robbed Jones of $4 before shooting and dumping him from his cab near 2d and Canal st. se.

They are also under indictment for a similar killing the same night, February 27, but have not been tried for this offense.

Law Examiners to Meet

Richmond, Va., July 6 (AP).—The State board of law examiners will meet in Richmond August 10 to pass on the examination papers of 299 candidates to become members of the Virginia bar, Board Secretary M. B. Watts said today.

Council Solves School Board's Financial Fix

The Alexandria City Council last night removed the city school board from an impossible financial position by appropriating up to $100,000 to start construction on the Northeast Elementary School.

The school board, through a misunderstanding, had let a $542,860 contract for the school's construction and piled up about $7000 in bills before the council had appropriated any money for the school. The council is expected to give final approval next week to a bond issue which approves construction of the school.

At a joint meeting with the council last week, school board members sought money to pay initial bills, explaining they were under the impression that they had been authorized to go ahead with construction.

Recommendations Adopted

A joint committee was appointed to study the problem and its recommendations were adopted last night by the council. They specified:

1. The school board should submit to the city council any proposed expenditure above its annual budget.

2. The city council should approve these expenditures when they seem proper, but the council should "be cautious to see that money is available or would be available."

3. The city manager be directed to borrow money to meet the requirements of the Northeast Elementary School until the bond issue is completed and money is available from it.

3 Weeks to Evict Families

The council solved the present problem by use of the third recommendation with a $100,000 ceiling on it.

School Board Chairman Edward D. Reed said the board was ready to start work immediately on the school. But City Attorney Joseph M. Pancoast said it will take nearly three weeks at least to evict families now living on the school site. The school is at 2nd st. between Pitt and Royal sts.

School Board Elects Everly as Chairman

The Alexandria School Board last night elected Joseph S. Everly as chairman for the next year. He succeeds Edward D. Reed. John Ballinger was named vice chairman in the regular elections.

Electricity Rate Boost Challenged

AFL Labor Group Questions Pepco Efficiency, Charges Job Discrimination

Proposed boosts in electricity rates were challenged on several fronts yesterday at a Public Utilities Commission hearing in the District Building.

Labor opposition was injected by J. C. Turner, chairman of the public utilities committee of Washington Central Labor Union (AFL), who charged the Potomac Electric Power Co. with discriminating against union construction workers.

Declaring that contractors employing non-union workers have been "favored" by PEPCO, Turner stated that two such contractors have been working on a $500,000 cost-plus contract for "tie-in work" on conduit lines to the Alexandria power plant, under construction just beyond National Airport.

"We are opposed to any increase in PEPCO rates until its degree of efficiency is increased," said Turner. "We are referring to cost-plus contracts for electrical installations in new neighborhoods . . . We believe the Public Utilities Commission should investigate to find if this is indicative of efficiency."

Sharp Exchange Develops

Asked by PUC Chairman James H. Flanagan if he believes such construction work "costs the consumer more," Turner said that was his contention, but that he had no figures on this.

A somewhat sharp exchange developed when Flanagan asked PEPCO Attorney James F. Reilly, himself a former PUC member, for a statement on this construction.

"That matter (of contracts) is solely within the discretion of the company," replied Reilly.

With a half-smile, Flanagan countered, "This commission has not issued a subpena in all of my experience, Mr. Reilly." Reilly then said he would take up the matter with company officials.

The proposed rate increase would boost the average home owner's electric bill about 10 cents a month, and bring PEPCO additional revenue of three million dollars a year. PEPCO contends the rate boosts, which would end a 28-year record of periodic rate reductions, are needed to bolster the company's financial position sufficiently to attract investors for a proposed five-year 86 million dollars expansion program.

Along with the rate boosts, PEPCO is proposing a new special rate discount of one-half cent a kilowatt hour for benefit of customers using electric water heaters.

PUC Counsel Lloyd B. Harrison asked Fisher S. Black, assistant to Pepco's president, "Wouldn't that have the tendency to promote the sale of electric water heaters . . .?"

Black replied, "Of course we'd like to see more use of electrical appliances, but a higher rate might price electric water heaters off the market."

Under questioning by George A. Corbin, vice chairman of the Federation of Civic Associations' public utilities committee, Black admitted it costs twice as much to heat water with electricity as with gas, but said electricity had special advantages.

Dunn Cross-Examined

Earlier, R. Roy Dunn, vice president and treasurer of Pepco, was cross-examined by Harrison and by Byron E. Harding, chief counsel of the Bureau of Federal Supply, on PEPCO's financial standing as com-Pepco's financial standing as companies.

Dunn said that because of Pepco's worsening financial position over a period of years it now requires enough of a rate boost "to bring us a little above the average company so we can attract capital." At present, he said, Pepco is far below the average.

Charles J. Bauer, secretary of the Building Owners and Managers Association, charged the proposed rates "are excessive in some brackets," and John B. Case, of the International Association of Machinists termed the whole expansion plan "unwise . . . with such an uncertain future ahead." The hearings resume today at 10 a. m.

Fort Belvoir Soldier Dies of Gun Wounds

T/Sergt. William W. Angus, jr., 33, of Fort Belvoir, died Monday, at St. Francis Hospital in Peoria, Ill. of wounds from a .22 caliber repeating rifle, according to the Associated Press. The coroner said the wounds were self-inflicted.

Sergeant Angus had been wanted by the military police of Fort Lesley J. McNair in connection with the shooting of another Fort Belvoir soldier, S/Sergt. Russell R. Green near Clinton, Md., July 3, who is now recovering at Walter Reed.

Coroner Chauncey Wood at Peoria said Sergeant Angus apparently shot himself after a quarrel with his wife, Betty. She has been living at the home of her father, O. L. Snyder, near Peoria, for the past 10 days.

Sergeant Angus' local address was at 10 West Luray ave., Alexandria.

2 Sailors Escape Anacostia Brig; 1 Gives Up, Other Still at Large

The Washington Post

MARINE PARTY RECONNOITERS WOODS FOR ESCAPEES. PRIVATE CARRIES RIFLE

Machinist's Mate Calls FBI on Phone; Police, Navy Share Day-Long Search

One of two Navy prisoners who escaped from the brig at the Anacostia receiving station yesterday surrendered last night after he and his companion had eluded a day-long dragnet.

The man who surrendered was Aviation Machinists's Mate 2/c Clifford R. Rhoads, 21, of Flint, Mich.

Hubert

Still at large and presumed to be armed with a .38 caliber revolver and baton was Apprentice Seaman Hiram Hubert, 23, of Eatonton, Ga.

Rhoads went to the home of Claude B. White, 22, a clerk at the Pentagon, at 5536 C st. se., at about 9:15 p. m., identified himself and said he wanted to surrender.

Doesn't Know Why He Fled

White said Rhoads telephoned the FBI and then waited until the Navy shore patrol arrived to pick him up.

White said Rhoads told him, "I don't know why I ran away."

According to the Navy, Hubert and Rhoads were both awaiting court-martial, Hubert for desertion and Rhoads for theft of Government property. Both men, the Navy added, were recently captured by the FBI, Hubert after being AWOL for more than three years.

The pair escaped at about 8:30 a. m. The men were working on the receiving station lawn and overpowered a guard, Fireman 3/C Frank C. Williams, 21, of Danville, Ill. They relieved Williams of his .38-caliber revolver and his baton.

Hubert and Rhodes, it was reported, then jumped a fence, ran to a nearby lumber yard and commandered a dump truck.

Washington and Prince Georges County police joined the shore patrol in a search of the area for the escaped men.

Search Wooded Area

At about 2:35 p.m., two Marines, members of the short patrol detail, sighted the escapees on 53d st. se. The shore patrol rushed 30 men, 10 of them Marines and all heavily armed, to the scene. Metropolitan police dispatched four scout cars, two cruisers and a patrol wagon and Prince Georges County police sent three cruisers.

The manhunt then focused on the heavily wooded area around the National Capital Hebrew Cemetery.

Metropolitan Police Inspector George Wallrodt, in charge of the Third Police District, who was in the neighborhood in a cruiser, went to the scene and took over direction of Metropolitan police activities.

Bluejackets and Marines, armed with Garand rifles and 45-caliber revolvers, fanned out through the wooded area and beat the underbrush.

Abandoned Jeep Found

Wallrodt relayed instructions to his men through the police radio to be sure and not confuse the sailors and marines with the escaped prisoners and open fire on them.

Earlier reports had been that Hubert and Rhoads had been seen in the neighborhood riding in a jeep. The jeep was found at about 2:30 p. m. in the woods on a trail about 50 yards off the 4600 block of M st. se.

Slumped over the wheel, police said, was Frank Tippett of 7350 Walker Mill rd., Seat Pleasant, Md. Tippett was hazy about what had happened, police added, and said only that the two men had come up to his parked jeep and climbed in with him. He didn't know where they had gone.

Woman Killed In Head-On Auto Collision

Car Driven by Kin Glances Off One Auto Into Path of Another

A 60-year old Muirkirk, Md., woman was killed instantly yesterday noon when a car driven by her 16-year-old grandson, glanced off the rear of one car and swerved and collided head on with another vehicle on the Baltimore-Washington blvd. at Oakcrest, Md.

The dead woman was Mrs. Albert F. Kirk. Her grandson, Robert L. Kirk, also of Muirkirk, was admitted to Leland Memorial Hospital, Riverdale, Md., suffering from cuts of the head and face and possible internal injuries.

According to Maryland State Police, the auto operated by Kirk, traveling south on the boulevard about 3 miles south of Laurel, first struck the rear of a car driven by Martin L. Dare of Laurel.

The Kirk car then glanced off into the northbound lane, where it ran headon into an auto driven by Herman Drake of Pensacola, Fla. Neither Drake nor Dare was injured.

In another accident, earlier, Guy C. Hancock, 28, of Belleview ave., Fair Haven, Fairfax County, suffered leg and arm bruises when he was grazed by an Army truck on Route 1 near Alexandria, while he was waiting for a bus.

Meanwhile, Gary Larsen, 7, of 5978 N. 9th st., Arlington was recovering in Arlington Hospital from injuries received Monday when he and his 8-year-old sister, Lois, were hit by a car.

Drowning Victim Found; Believed Donald Dasher

The body of a young man believed to be Donald Dasher, 21, of Fairfax Station, Va., was recovered from the Potomac at 8:30 o'clock last night.

Dasher was reported drowned in the river a mile above Great Falls Monday afternoon, while canoeing with a brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Noel Dasher. They told police he tumbled over when the canoe tipped. The victim, recently married, could not swim, they said.

According to Mrs. Dasher, her husband jumped in after his brother but could not locate him. She stayed with the canoe until it drifted to shore, she said. Montgomery County Coroner Dr. F. J. Broschart was investigating last night.

For 6 Months

D. C. Traffic School Will Continue

Operation of the District traffic school for six additional months was ordered yesterday by the Commissioners.

The school is run by the Police Department. To it are sent a number of traffic violators for instruction in the city traffic regulations, in safety and courtesy. The school was set up last December for a six-month test period expiring Friday.

Continued operation of the school was recommended to the Commissioners of Maj. Robert J. Barrett superintendent of police. His recommendation was based on a report of the school's activities by the man who organized and ran it, Inspector Arthur E. Miller, in charge of the police traffic division.

Miller reported that 1007 persons attended the traffic school from January 9 to June 19. Of the total, 810 persons were referred to the school by the Board of Revocations and Restorations, 169 by Traffic Court and 28 by permit examiners.

$1200 Stolen From Safe of Rep. Engel

Representative Albert J. Engel, (R., Mich.), said yesterday he had to face facts.

His $1200 was stolen, and out of his unlocked safe in the New House Office Building.

The loss was reported to Washington police yesterday by the Congressman's secretary, Helen Klassen. She said Representative Engel last saw the bills on June 15.

Six days later, said the secretary, she noticed the money was gone. But at that time Representative Engel was at home in Muskegon, Mich., and she figured he had taken it with him. He'd straightened her out on that when he got back, she said.

But, before reporting the loss, she declared, the Congressman again went home, hoping to find the money among documents he had taken with him on the first trip.

Brazilian Envoy Loses $2200 in Jewelry

Antonio Castello, second secretary of the Brazilian Embassy, reported to police yesterday that $2200 worth of jewelry was stolen from his home, at 5007 Nebraska ave. nw., during the holiday weekend.

Castello said he was at Rehobeth Beach, Del., during the holiday. Jewelry stolen, he reported, included four decorations conferred upon him, three by his own government and one by the government of Paraguay.

Detectives found the thief or thieves had broken in a first floor window.

Bystander Badly Hurt

Woman Toppled in Chase, Police Capture Theft Suspect

A woman pedestrian was seriously injured yesterday when she was knocked down by a suspected thief who was fleeing police.

Knocked from a streetcar loading platform at 11th and F sts. nw., Miss Anna Kelly, 59, of 1701 20th st. nw., was admitted to Georgetown University Hospital with a possible fractured pelvis.

The chase first started in the Lacy store, 8th and E sts. nw., when the suspect allegedly picked up a portable radio and fled. A store employe gave chase, as the man ran up E st. to 9th where he dropped the radio.

The fleeing man was next seen by Pvt. H. H. Prince, directing traffic at 11th and F sts. nw., when he knocked down Miss Kelly. Prince chased the man into Woodward & Lothrop's cutting his hand on the glass of a revolving door, which the suspect had smashed in his flight.

While a dozen other persons joined in the chase, the man fled through the store doors on 13th st. with Prince on his heels.

He was finally tackled by Prince near 8th and G sts., but put up a battle and was subdued by Corpl. Elmer Skinner, who arrived on his motorcycle.

The suspect was held for questioning at the First Precinct Station.

Montgomery Due to Get 50 More Teachers

Agreement on Budget Reached to Continue All School Services

Hiring of 50 additional teachers and continuation of all present school services is provided for in a 1948-49 budget breakdown agreed upon yesterday by Montgomery County government and school officials.

The agreement climaxes a two-month dispute over the amount of money needed to finance the rapidly expanding school system.

Faced with a cut of $611,000 in their budget request of $3,429,000, school officials warned last month that it could mean drastic curtailment of services, including elimination of the 50 new teachers, operation of 19 kindergartens, as well as driver training and special physical education courses.

The school board said at that time it would use the money saved by eliminating these services to pay higher teacher salaries. Then followed a legal ruling that the school board could not pay teachers with money appropriated for other purposes.

A promise that funds would be spent for their specified purpose came yesterday from Dr. Edwin W. Broome, county school superintendent. The agreed-upon budget breakdown totals $2,818,000, of which $2,007,000 is for teachers' pay.

As a result of the disagreement, a harmony move is under way, it was learned. The commissioners yesterday named Commissioners Wesley I. Sauter and Oliver W. Youngblood to represent the county board in a series of conferences with the school board aimed at improved relationship. School members James W. Gill and Mrs. Curtis Walker will represent the school board.

County Supervisor I. G. McNayr, who proposed the move, pointed out "a great deal of misunderstanding could have been prevented if we had better liaison."

In another development yesterday, the county commissioners were told by Civil Service Commissioner Charles S. Lawrence that county justices of the peace and notaries public who accept fees violating civil service regulations, probably unknowingly. No action was taken on the ruling.

Lieut. Comdr. Rupert Lee Dunn, 616 Albemarle ave., Takoma Park, was recommended by the commissioners for appointment to the post of deputy sheriff for the Silver Spring area.

Real Estate Man Held in Lottery Case

Two men and a woman yesterday were held in $1500 bond each for the grand jury on charges of operating a lottery and possession of numbers slips by United States Commissioner Needham C. Turnage.

They are Carl S. Cummings, 49, of 425 12th st. ne.; Samuel Smith, 41, of 251 Warren st. ne., and Mrs. Thelma Jones, 28, of 1010 3rd st. ne. Cummings also was charged with permitting gaming and setting up a gaming table. Police said Cummings also operates a real estate business.

The man was arrested after vice squad detectives raided the 12th st. address Friday. Smith was charged in the same case.

Mrs. Jones was taken into custody at her home Saturday after, police said, several numbers plays were made with marked money.

Area News in Brief

Dog Vaccinations Will Begin Monday

Every dog in the District is going to have his day—for vaccination.

District health officials announced yesterday a month-long program to vaccinate the District's dog population against rabies.

It starts next Monday. Vaccinations will be performed free at 12 centers, from 4 to 6 p. m. Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays from July 12 through August 13.

The program was announced by Dr. R. R. Ashworth, chief veterinarian of the Health Department. He said the District law requires vaccination of all dogs. He said last year 23,000 were vaccinated by the District and another 10,000 by private veterinarians.

He said the vaccination program reduced the number of rabid dogs found in the District from 107 in 1945 to two in 1947 and none so far this year.

The vaccination centers will be located at the District Pound, S. Capitol and I sts., and on the grounds of the following buildings:

Alice Deal Junior High, Fort Drive and Nebraska ave., nw.; Whittier School, 5th and Sheridan sts. nw.; Adams School, 19th and California nw.; Upshur Street Hospital, 13th and Upshur sts. nw.; Polk Health Center, 7th and F sts. nw.; Fussell Young Ice Cream Co., 3206 N st. nw.; Burroughs School, 18th and Monroe sts. ne.; Merritt School, 50th and Hayes sts. ne.; Circus Grounds, 23d and Oklahoma ave. ne.; Patterson School, South Capitol between Danbury and Elmira sts.; and Beers School, Alabama ave. and 36th pl. se.

Hackers Want Fees Back

Approximately $8800 paid to the Montgomery County government by county hackers for cab permits may be turned back to the taxi drivers and operators as a result of a recent court ruling.

Attorneys James R. Miller and James H. Pugh, both of Rockville, representing 140 county hackers, yesterday asked the county commissioners for the refund. They pointed to a county Circuit Court ruling last week which indicated the year-old county taxicab ordinance may be ruled invalid. The request was referred to F. Barnard Welsh, legal counsel to the county commission for study.

County Studies Proposed Road Standard Law

The Prince Georges County Commissioners yesterday took under consideration a proposed ordinance setting up county-wide standards for all new street and road construction.

The proposal, submitted by County Engineer Arthur W. Tayman as a means of improving streets in subdivisions and other sections developed by private interests, would establish minimum specifications to be met by builders before construction permits could be obtained.

After requesting Waldo Burnside, attorney for the commissioners, to determine whether all phases of the ordinance comply with existing law, the board indicated it would take final action on the proposal next Tuesday.

The ordinance would set up specifications as to street width, materials used in construction and street design. However, developers could choose from alternate designs and materials to be built.

The commissioners also approved appointment of dog tax collectors for the 21 election districts for the fiscal year that began July 1. The appointees:

Boy of 18 Months Plunges 25 Feet, Fractures Skull

An 18-month-old boy suffered a skull fracture yesterday when he fell from a second story window at his home. He was reported in serious condition last night at Casualty Hospital.

The child, Paul Hangliter, pushed the screen from the window of his room at 1629 Gales st. ne., and tumbled 25 feet to a concrete areaway, when his mother, Mrs. Judy Hangliter turned her back to get him a bottle of milk.

Firecracker Victim Has Eye Operation

Doctors yesterday operated on the left eye of Robert Legard, 19, Wheatland, Va., in an effort to save the sight of the optic injured in the explosion of a firecracker Saturday.

At George Washington Hospital, where the operation was performed, it was said nothing definite would be known until bandages are removed. However, one physician expressed optimism as to the outcome.

Exchange Head Installed

Harold E. Mott, radio and communications attorney, was installed as president of the Exchange Club of Washington at a Willard Hotel luncheon meeting yesterday. Other new officers are Albert C. Borghi, vice president; Harry Prentiss, secretary, and Raymond C. Firor, treasurer. Installed as members of the board of control were Pern E. Henninger, retiring president; William Russell Ackor, Charles M. Grimm, and Edgar Hicks.

Rotary to Hear Putman

Wilfred B. Putman, Washington delegate to the Rio International Rotary Convention, will discuss his experience at that convention at the weekly luncheon of the Rotary Club at 12:15 today in the Mayflower Hotel. Philip M. Talbott, newly elected president, will preside at the meeting.

Fairfax School Needs Mount To 7½ Million

Revised estimates have raised the cost of meeting "existing and forseeable" needs of school buildings in Fairfax County to $7,500,000, but chances of getting it soon are slim.

These figures, drawn up by the county school board yesterday on estimates furnished by architects, include the construction of 10 new schools at a cost of $3,639,750 and additions to 16 existing buildings at a cost of $3,404,000.

The total also includes $150,000 for purchase of sites and a $300,000 cushioning fund to allow for further increase in construction costs.

Substantially the Same

Superintendent of Schools W. T. Woodson said this represented substantially the same number of buildings for which the school board had sought $4,000,000 in State loans in its annual budget last spring.

Part of the difference was caused by adding one new building and an addition in yesterday's figures, plus the cost of furniture and fixtures and an extra $50,000 for sites. Woodson attributed the rest to increased costs.

Woodson said the new schools are needed to meet immediate needs. The program will meet future needs only to the extent of accommodating children from homes now under construction, he said.

However, great the need, the county has no money for new schools, nor any immediate prospect of getting money.

Grant or Loan Sought

Two possibilities are being worked on by a School Emergency Committee, formed last month by a group of citizens.

They are gathering signatures for a petition to the governor asking for an emergency grant or loan from State or Federal funds.

They are also working to set in motion the machinery for a county bond issue. One reason the school board compiled the figures yesterday was for the committee's use.

Could such a large bond issue pass? "It would pass as easily as a bond issue for three million dollars," said School Board Chairman Fred W. Robinson. "The people know the need. If they want schools for their children, they'll have to pay for them."

Mrs. Vivian P. Clark

Mrs. Vivian Petz Clark, 30, of 9317 Glenville rd., Silver Spring, Md., for eight years assistant chief of the Navy Audit Unit of the General Accounting Office, died at 11:25 a. m. Saturday.

A former student of Roosevelt High School, she worked in Government offices in Cleveland and Washington until ill health forced her to resign two years ago.

She is survived by her husband, Clayton Jay Clark; a son, Clayton J. Clark, jr.; her mother, Mrs. Vinda Phillips Petz of Alma, Va.; a sister, Mrs. Muriel Petz Tendick, and a neice, John Elizabeth Tendick.

Funeral services will be conducted at the Hines funeral home, 2901 14th st. nw., at 2 p. m. today. Burial will be in Arlington National Cemetery.

Joseph P. Tanney

Joseph P. Tanney, 57, died of a heart attack on July 2 in Carlisle, Pa., at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Mary Eichhorn.

Mr Tanney was born in Gosforth, England, and had lived in Washington for the past 31 years. He had been employed in the Government since 1917 and had been attorney with the Office of Chief of Engineers, in the Legal Division.

He is survived by three sons Joseph J. Tanney, Patrick Paul Tanney, and William James Tanney, all of Washington, and a daughter, Mrs. Mary Eichhorn, of Carlisle.

He will be buried in Arlington National Cemetery today at 3 p. m.

Admiral Dies In Bethesda

VICE ADMIRAL RUSSELL WILLSON
Veteran of two wars

Adm. Willson Dies; Helped Organize U. N.

Vice Admiral Russell Willson, 64, former deputy commander in chief of the United States fleet, died yesterday at the Bethesda Naval Hospital.

The admiral, a native of Fredonia, N. Y., and a veteran of both World Wars, had been admitted to the hospital Monday.

Admiral Willson, who lived at 107 Hesketh st., Chevy Chase, Md., played a prominent part in the organization of the United Nations in the twilight of his career.

Although placed on the retired list in 1943 for physical disability, he continued on active duty as a member of the Joint Strategic Survey Committee of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

He was a member of the American delegation to the Dumbarton Oaks Conference in 1944 at which a charter for the United Nations was drafted and the following year served as military adviser at the San Francisco Conference where the Charter was ratified.

Admiral Willson was relieved of active duty in February, 1946, and later became associate editor of the United States News and World Report.

The admiral almost qualified as a Washington native. His father, who became Pension Commissioner, brought the family here while Willson was still a child.

The future admiral became major of the Washington High School Cadet Corps. He studied engineering for one year at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

At this point, Willson had his mind set on an Army career, but thoughts of West Point were put aside when an opening at Annapolis developed.

Graduated from the Naval Academy in 1906, he was on the round-the-world cruise of the Great White Fleet during the Administration of President Theodore Roosevelt.

During World War I, he organized and developed the code and signal section of the Navy Department for which he won the Navy Cross. He also received a substantial compensation by act of Congress for inventions in connection with secret communications.

Admiral Willson's assignments between wars were many and varied. His most important one came in February, 1941, when he became superintendent of the Naval Academy.

When Admiral Ernest J. King was made commander in chief of the United States fleet after Pearl Harbor, he made Willson his chief of staff.

Willson was elevated to the rank of vice admiral in March, 1942, and the following September was named deputy commander in chief of the United States Fleet.

His was a Navy family. His only son, Navy Lieut. Russell Willson, jr., a 1941 graduate of Annapolis, was killed in a Florida plane crash in 1945.

His two daughters, Mrs. Robert H. Rice of New London, Conn., and Mrs. Thomas Cunningham of Annapolis, are both married to naval officers. He is also survived by his wife, Mrs. Eunice Wescott Willson.

Funeral services will be held in the Naval Academy chapel at a time to be announced later.

Roy L. Burge, ICC Examiner 20 Years, Dies

Roy L. Burge, 49, president of the Chillum Heights Citizens Association and a Government employe for 25 years, died yesterday at Bethesda Naval Hospital after a brief illness.

Mr. Burge

Mr. Burge was a motor carrier examiner with the ICC for 20 years. Born and educated in Oceola, Iowa, and a member of the Winfield, Iowa, American Legion Post 645, he came to Washington in 1923 to enter Government service.

He made his home at 5735 Kansas ave. nw. with his wife, Mrs. Louise Burge, and three daughters, Eunice Elaine, Barbara Sue and Bonnie Lou, who survive him. He was a member of the United Presbyterian Church.

Funeral services will be held Friday at 1:30 p. m. in the Wallace Memorial United Presbyterian Church. Burial will be in Arlington Cemetery.

Unadorned Adams Apples

Southampton's Gentry Omits Ties in Daytime But Nights Are Dressy

By Mary Van Rensselaer Thayer

SOUTHAMPTON, N. Y., July 6.—Foibles affluent Southampton pace setters adopt this summer often become next season's best sellers and holiday tailend is a handy recording moment. Much neglected subject—masculine fashion—is due a few kind words. Conspicuous trend is the unadorned neckline. Daytime, even at most formal luncheons, gents occasionally swathe Adams apples in cravats lushly a la Hollywood, more often don ordinary shirts, tieless yet buttoned at the collar.

Angier Biddle Duke, whose tuxedo jackets are fastened with initialed crested gold buttons, zips around afternoons in a two-piece raspberry pink denim coverall. Ted Straeter, the orchestra leader, here relaxing, wears a beigy-tangerine doeskin dinner jacket. John Warner, son-in-law of the late Al Smith, plays contract in shorts, yellow tweed coat and navy blue polka dotted cravat, while Charles Lawrence and his wife invariably make beach appearances in twin bandanna or Hawaiian shirts. Most conservative are Hollywood's Dick Barthelmess and Gary Cooper, who wows the bobbysoxers when he plunges into the surf his slim hips encased in navy blue trunks.

Evenings the younger married glamor girls dress beautifully and to the teeth. Most of the ball gowns are voluminous skirted, topless, expensively materialed. Mrs. Jack Chaqueneau's tiny waist is nipped into a boned taffeta bodice, her shoulders veiled in a black lace stole, 3-inch diamond bracelets on each wrist, a mess of diamonds cascading from her bodice. Mrs. Rodgers Denokla looks ready to fly away in panniered pink tulle, one shoulder wreathed with roses. Gray-haired, exquisite Mrs. Constance Woodworth drifts in clouds of yellow chiffon or on less formal occasions looks girlish in white organdy printed with fat clover blossoms.

The Ladies' Costumes

MOST amusing accessories are those of Mrs. Reed Vreeland, fashion editor of Harper's Bazaar. They are a real leopard skin evening bag, outsize, brilliant-centered, white enameled daisy earrings and brooch. Mrs. Herbert Weston wears a pale blue cashmere evening sweater embroidered in jet. Mrs. John Lavelle's crimson velvet sweater has a wide, fake seed pearl collar. Mrs. Darrah Park who owns Chez Ninon, a super luxury dressmaking shop—carries a series of minute polka dotted parasols.

Gals with wonderful figgers such as Mrs. Lucille Vanderbilt and Mrs. Charles Amory wear the briefest skimpiest shorts to show their tan—two-piece bathing suits, a snitch of a bra and straight skimpy shorts often in checked gingham.

Fashions in cars are variable—there is a rash of little Crosleys, a sprinkling of foreign jobs. Cartoonist Charles Addams thunders about in a giant silver nosed Mercedes—but most envied for some peculiar reason are owners of antique autos. Parked at the fashionable Southampton Beach Club are half a dozen high bosomed Packards, Pierce Arrows and Simplexes all polished to the nines and moving through the narrow lanes with slow dignity.

Besides the inevitable contract, the local gamblers are going in for Casasta, the newish game imported from Buenos Aires via Mexico and Biarritz or vice versa. Mrs. Dwight Davis, a croquet expert, plays every day, stages luncheon parties as prelude to tournaments.

Food, Parties and Such

FOOD hereabouts is delicious. Best buffet luncheon given for some 50 guests by Mrs. Edgar Leonard on her tree-shaded lawn started off with frozen borsch topped with whipped sour cream, eggs with sliced mushroom sauce, cold salmon, cold roast beef, sliced paper-thin tomato salad and a choice of raspberry ice, sliced strawberries or strawberry shortcake. For nonalcoholically inclined bridge players still around at tea time, Mrs. Leonard sets out two kinds of wonderfully gooey cakes, iced tea, iced coffee accompanied by a huge bowl of coffee ice cream to use instead of cream.

Handsomest new interior and exterior decorating job is that of Mrs. William Gaynor, the former Rosemary Warburton, in her just redone house.

The garden overlooking the lake fringes a flagstoned terrace, most of the flowers are dwarf with height given at strategic points by 5, 6 and perhaps 7 feet high standard rose plants. The terrace furniture is upholstered in a chintz printed with decorative vegetables, the parasols peaked a la chinoise are peppermint red and white striped.

The garden is brought into the house via flagstoned rooms lined with every imaginable kind of potted plant.

Oddly enough the weekend parties seldom vary much among the wealthy younger and not so much younger sets. It is usually dinner followed by bridge or sitting around talking, drinking champagne and such with or without accompaniment of strolling musicians. The food does not vary too much and at all the bigger parties Freddy, the white-haired caterer, and his wife, Bertha, have charge of the lesser waiters. The kids fall into routine, too. They lunch at the Beach Club cafeteria, go to movies, carnivals clad in shorts, ride around in jeeps and their families' oldest smallest car. Among the more attractive younger generation is Ana Maria Martins, daughter of former Brazilian Ambassador and Mme. Martins. Off to Paris next Saturday, she is envied by her friends but doesn't want to leave.

Arrives for Visit

New arrivals in town are Gen. and Countess de Benouville of Paris. They are stopping at the Mayflower Hotel. The general is well known as the hero of the French Resistance Movement, and as a member of the executive committee of Union of the French People. He is one of the youngest generals in France. A year or two ago he made a lecture tour of this country, and he is the author of a book on the part the resistance took in bringing the war to a conclusion.

Happy Day Cake Is Easily Made

Here's an easy-mix recipe for "Happy Day Cake." It's as delicious as it's speedy to make.

2¼ cups sifted cake flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1½ cups sugar
½ cup shortening
Milk (see below)
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 eggs, unbeaten

Stir shortening just enough to soften. Sift in dry ingredients. Add about ¾ cup milk and mix until all flour is dampened. Then beat 2 minutes, or about 300 strokes. Add eggs and remaining milk. Beat 1 minute longer, or 150 strokes. Take time out to rest as necessary and scrape bowl and spoon often. Turn batter into two 9-inch layer cake pans and bake in moderate oven (375 degrees F.) about 25 minutes. Ice with your favorite frosting.

Ambassador's Daughters, Princess Feted at Teas

By Elizabeth Maguire

YOUNGER members of diplomatic society will be happy to meet two charming senoritas, daughters of the new Panamanian Ambassador and Senora de Vallarino. They have just arrived from Panama. The elder, Analida, is 20, and Ida is 15. Both are slender and pretty, and one is brunette, the other blonde.

Their mother, the Ambassadress, gave a small tea at the embassy yesterday afternoon, and the two girls were on hand to assist, along with wives of various staff members.

There are six children in all in the new Ambassador's family. Besides the two who are here, there are four in Panama who are married. Three are sons and one, a daughter. The latter has five children and is expecting a sixth, which will make the 11th grandchild.

Ambassador Octavio Vallarino is a cousin of former Ambassador J. J. Vallarino and the Ambassadress is a sister of the wife of the President of Panama. Before coming to his present post, the Ambassador served in the Cabinet, and prior to that he was Ambassador to Chile and Cuba.

At the tea yesterday it was very evident that the tradition of lovely parties at the Panamanian Embassy will be well upheld by the new chatelaine.

Senora de Vallarino is very proud of her large family of good-looking children, who, judging by their records, are capable as well. The youngest has had to hop from school to school and country to country, but she has maintained a high scholastic record. The eldest son, Octavio, is considered the second surgeon in Panama. Aquilino, the second son, is a civil engineer in California and Louis, the third son, is well launched in his career as a doctor.

REMINESCENCES followed on around the globe trail yesterday at the tea honoring Russian-born Princess Sophie Engalescheff, renowned miniature portrait painter. Hostesses at the international event, held in the Sulgrave Club, included Mrs. Walter McK. Jones of Upperville, Va., Mrs. Lothrop Stoddard, Mrs. Anne Archbold, Princess Cantacuzene and Miss Mercedes Mercade.

The tall, erect, blue-eyed Princess is dividing her visit between Mrs. Jones in Upperville and Mrs. Archbold here. It is her first visit to the Nation's Capital since she arrived in this country a couple of months ago from France where she has lived most of the time since she fled the revolution in Russia when a young girl. With her are her three children, Princess Sophie, who has a yen to be an editorial writer, Nicholas, a student at Rutgers University, and another daughter, Mary, who will be entering school this fall.

After a little exploratory conversation Princess Sophie Engalescheff discovered that Princess Cantacuzene had been present at her parents' wedding and knew the entire family. Then there was plenty of "do you remember when or who" when she and Mme. I. V. Mishtowt cornered off for a chat. Atalente d miniature painter, Princess Sophie has done miniatures of Queen Astrid of Belgium, Princess Juliana of Holland, Queen Anne of Bulgaria, Mr. and Mrs. John Rockefeller 3d, the Duchess Mariana of Kent, Princess Roman of Russia, and others.

Two of the most exquisite seen yesterday were those of Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney, wife of the Assistant Secretary of Air and Mrs. Frank A. Vanderlip of this city.

MRS. NATHANIEL I. BASS
. . . weds July 4

Bass—Shainbloom

Miss Esther S. Shainbloom, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Shainbloom of Washington, and Nathaniel I. Bass, son of Mrs. Bertha G. Bass of New York City and the late Samuel Bass, were married July 4 at the Kenmore Hotel, Rabbi Harry J. Kauffman officiating.

The bride wore a white pique gown and her veil of illusion was held by a shirred coronet. She carried a white orchid and stephanotis on her prayer book.

Mrs. Mack J. Faskin was her cousin's matron of honor and Miss Ruth Bass, sister of the bridegroom, was the maid of honor. Miss Marion Cohen, Miss Miriam Bass and Miss Harriet Bass were bridesmaids.

Reynold I. Bass served his brother as best man and the ushers were Dr. Melvin D. Rein, Maxwell R. Gross and Leo M. Reiss.

Following the reception the couple left for a wedding trip to Niagara Falls and Canada. On their return they will reside in Washington.

The bride is a graduate of Southeastern University School of Accountancy. Her husband attended the Academy of Advanced Traffic Management in New York and is now with the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Emily B. Kidder Will Be Married To John W. Hughes

The engagement of their daughter, Miss Emily Bliss Kidder, to John Wing Hughes has been announced by Mr. and Mrs. Delos Bliss Kidder of Charlottesville, Va. Mr. Hughes is the son of John Edward Hughes and the late Mrs. Hughes of Lake Forest, Ill., and Middleburg, Va.

The bride-elect attended Dwight School for Girls in Englewood, N. J., and was graduated from St. Anne's School in Charlottesville. She also attended the University of Georgia.

Mr. Hughes is a graduate of Groton, Harvard and the University of Virginia Law School. During the war he served overseas as a captain with the 38th Infantry Division.

Girl Is Morbidly Afraid of Babies, Afraid To Have One, Afraid to Touch One; Also She's Frightened at Her Own Attitude; Asks Help

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: My problem is really very difficult. No one understands it. I can't stand the thought of having a child; I don't know why.

My fiance and I have often discussed it, and until recently he always said it didn't matter if we had no children; but a while ago he casually mentioned our having at least one child. He said that a woman who marries and tries to put a limit on marriage is making a sucker of her husband.

He doesn't understand that it isn't pregnancy or childbirth that I fear. It's the child itself that frightens me. When I hear a child cry, my stomach knots. Recently a friend brought her 3-month-old baby to our home, and mother (who knows how I feel) insisted that I hold the infant.

Doctor Gives Her Brush-Off

I CAN'T put into words what I felt. The child repulsed me so I couldn't touch it. Mother was very angry with me and said I should have 12 children. It wasn't the first time she has said that, but this time her words hurt more and I became very upset.

I know my attitude isn't normal and I tried to talk to a doctor about it, but he just didn't understand. He said women like me usually make the best mothers!

Perhaps it has something to do with my childhood. There were five of us, and there were always formulas to make, bottles to fix, diapers to wash and children to dress before I left for school. There was always a baby who cried at night or called for water or needed a diaper changed.

Whatever the reason, my fear of babies has become an obsession. I have no peace of mind; and lately my fiance is beginning to say it's due to selfishness. Maybe I am selfish, I don't know. At this point I am thoroughly confused. Please help me. C. G.

Deep Diagnostic Insight Is Needed

DEAR C. G.: It is certainly true that the doctor you consulted had no understanding of your problem; he was completely baffled but chose not to admit it, and dismissed you with a sentiment meant to be consoling.

In search of a clue to the meaning of your serious distress, I have discussed your letter with two analysts, and each (speaking without knowledge of the other's comment) said at once that your panicky reaction to babies is not to be taken at face-value, that it is really symptomatic of conglomerate anxieties about life and love and human relations.

One specialist said briefly—and "just as a guess"—that he would look first to the possibility that the problem is grounded in a consistently inadequate relationship to your mother, a relationship devoid of feeling-rapport or warm perceptive maternal consideration of you, inasmuch as that type of emotional deprivation can work havoc in the young and come to a head in symptoms such as you relate.

Girl Is Inhibited, Afraid of Feeling

THE OTHER specialist speculated along similar lines. He remarked that your references to your fiance were emotionally toneless, quite detached, not indicative of companionable tender feeling, which suggests to him that you may be a cold, withdrawn, self-contained personality, without experience in "real relatedness" to fellow beings.

This theory doesn't imply any disparagement of you. In the event you have reached adult age without capacity to feel affection, that is your misfortune, not your fault; and it is a condition that might be relieved considerably, so that "normal" or warmhearted emotional reflexes could begin to develop, if you were to discuss your misgivings, freely and fully, with a competent psychiatrist.

You write from a region where psychiatric services are available, both in private practice and community clinics, so my advice is to canvass the field for a trustworthy specialist who has the good sense to lay hold on your problem with sympathetic insight, and supply confident leadership in helping you solve it. M. H.

Removing the Label

When the piece of material has a paper label on it, do not wet the cloth to remove it, but draw the cloth in a bias direction, first one way and then the other. This will soon loosen the label so that it can be removed without injury to the fabric.

Oven Control

The beauty of the stove that has automatic oven control is that the oven stays the same heat while the door is open and you are basting the roast or testing the cake. Consequently when the food must be put back for further cooking the temperature of the oven has not been lowered and apt to cause trouble in the cooking.

How to Remove Thermos Top

Do you have any suggestions on how to remove the top of a thermos bottle? The bottle hasn't been used for about a year and the cap will not unscrew. M. N. B.

Undoubtedly, you will have to try several methods before you find one that removes the top. If it has rusted, tapping the screw edge lightly with the handle of a knife and then holding it under hot water might loosen it. The hot water on the outside of the lid should expand it enough so it will come loose. If it doesn't come the first time, try it again. If, after several trys, it refuses to budge, run a little lubricating oil around the joint where the top joins the thermos and allow to stand upside down several hours or longer. In this way, the oil may penetrate the screw joint and make it easier to remove. After the oil has had sufficient time to penetrate, repeat the hot water routine.

Could you tell me how to get a "permanent ink" stain from a cotton dress? Milk doesn't seem to help. S. K.

It is not always possible to remove ink stains completely. However, it is possible that you can at least lighten them. To avoid spreading the stain, it is usually a good idea first to remove as much of the ink as possible with an absorbent. Moisten the stain with water and work corn starch or cornmeal into it. As it absorbs ink, brush it away and keep adding the absorbent until it takes up no more ink. Now, pour either glycerine or one of the soapless shampoos on the stain. Rub lightly between the hand and rinse. Continue to apply glycerine as long as any ink is removed. Rinse. If the stain has not been completely removed, the only way to do this is to use a bleach.. Bleaches should be used with extreme care if the dress is colored.

I would appreciate knowing how to remove chocolate ice-cream stains from a pink cotton, homespun-type weave, tablecloth. I used cold water and soap once, and so far every stain is still very apparent. R. K. E.

Sponge the stain with carbon tetrachloride to remove any greasy portion which may remain. Now, pour glycerine or soapless shampoo onto the stain and rub gently between the fingers. If stain is removed, then wash the entire cloth. If the stain is not completely removed, it will probably be necessary to use a bleach. Be sure to test the effect of the bleach on an inconspicuous spot before applying it to the stain as it may affect the color. Hydrogen peroxide will sometimes remove stubborn stains. Sodium perborate is also an effective bleach. Stretch the stained portion of the cloth over a bowl of water, apply the bleach and then, after a minute, dip into the water to stop the action of the bleach. If stain is not removed with first application and color is unaffected, repeat.

THE DISTRICT LINE by Bill Gold

Maybe Her Conscience Bothers Her

Hal Feyling of 812 K st. se. spots an interesting coincidence in the news.

He refers to Dr. Dorothy Sell, the Chicago blonde who worked her way through medical school as a waitress.

Now that Dr. Sell has her degree, she says she plans to specialize in internal medicine. District Liner Feyling says:

"Impelled by humanitarian motives, she's probably going to try to undo some of the damage to which she was a party as a waitress."

REVISED MARSHALL PLAN?

George Washington University's recent efforts to obtain the best amateur football team that money can buy has led to suggestions from the wisecrackers that maybe GW should just take over the Redskins.

An alternative would be for the Redskins to add a law college.

MISCELLANY

Lou Huff of Arlington, Va., finally sets me straight on fluid drive. "You can put your car in high gear and leave it there, without touching your clutch. But any time you shift gears, you must use the clutch." Okay, Lou—now we'll "shift" to another subject . . . Harold M. Cotner of 1214 Savannah st. se. has found an interesting stone marker in a vacant lot at the corner of 12th and Savannah sts. Some of the letters are almost obliterated, but the legend appears to be:

2nd. Boundary
St.
Elizabeth
Nov.r Et
1800

The "ary" in the top line and "Et" in the fourth are indistinct, but if those who pursue historical lore are interested in further research, Harold says the marker may be found about 50 feet southwest of a cedar tree growing in the northeast corner of the lot . . . When I got a check intended for the Crusade for Children recently, I couldn't find anybody who knew the address of the local office. So I sent the check to Mrs. Raymond Clapper of 2101 Connecticut ave. nw., who has done such fine work for the kids. By return mail she advised me that the check had been forwarded, and the correct address of Crusade for Children is 1622 H st. nw. If you intend to send a contribution, why not clip this item for future reference? . . . A survey estimates that 96.8 per cent of Washington's families own radios. Golly, what a tremendous audience I fail to reach.

LIFE-IS-LIKE-THAT DEPT.

L. J. B., a former sailor who lives out Rhode Island ave. way, says that it's nice to hear about obliging taxi drivers who are praised for changing tires for ladies in distress. BUT . . .

One day our sailor was hitchhiking from Norfolk to Washington when he came upon a large car parked by the side of the road.

The car was notable for its flat tire and its three stranded female occupants.

Unmindful of his "whites," our sailor offered to change the tire. The ladies accepted; the whites quickly became "blacks"; the tire was changed.

"Yes," replied one of the ladies, guardedly.

"Could you give me a lift?"

"Oh, I'm sorry—but we never pick up strange sailors."

ONE MAN GANG

Howard (WINX) Williams should be investigated by the Justice Department's anti-trust division. It looks like he's trying to corner all the radio jobs in town.

The other day, Bandstander Williams got a letter from a listener who wrote: "It seems that every time I turn on my radio, I hear your voice. Don't you ever go home?"

Howard's answer is, "Not often." He puts WINX on the air at 6 a.m., rattles off six newscasts on the Jerry Strong "Wake Up and Listen to Me If You Dare" show, and then puts on his own "Bandstand" program from 10:05 a.m. until I push him off the air at noon.

Just to round out his day, Williams does the color and commercials on Bob Wolff's telecasts of the ball games; makes transcribed commercials; has a dance band of his own; and appears each Saturday night at the Roosevelt Hotel dances.

The rest of the time he just lazes around and counts his money.

WISE GUY

The other day I pointed out to the boss that even if he didn't think I deserved a vacation, the readers were entitled to a rest.

Tom Beesley of the Dorchester House cracks back:

"Not only a rest—I think we ought to get a rebate."

Leonard Lyons . . .

NEW YORK.—Eleanor Roosevelt tells this story of her grandson, John Boettiger, jr., who was in the White House at the beginning of the 1944 campaign. The youngster approached the President and asked: "Grandpa, is it true that the Republicans nominated Mr. Dewey for President?" . . . "Yes," Roosevelt told him. . . . "And does this mean that he will run against you for President?" asked the boy. . . . "Yes," the President said. . . . "Grandpa," Johnnie continued, "is it true that if Dewey is elected he will move into the White House?" . . . "Yes," said Roosevelt. . . . "Grandpa," said the boy, "will Dewey then become my Grandpa?"

Martin Munkacsi, th e photographer, searches for antique furniture in his spare time. He is familiar with every story told by antique dealers about the items they offer for sale. Last week, at long last, he finally encountered a new story which went with the sale of an antique chair. It was priced at $250, and Munkacsi asked: "What's the story of this chair? Did Napoleon once sit on it? Did a Louis sit here, with a queen on his lap?" . . . "No," said the dealer, "no story goes with it." . . . "I notice that it's been marked down from $1250," said Munkacsi. "A chair marked down from $1250 to $250 must have a story." . . . "It did," shrugged the dealer. "But I sold the story to Hollywood for $1000."

The Tito-Moscow fight has frayed the nerves of King Peter to such an extent that it's brought on hay fever. The young King, who still hopes to be restored to his throne, spends all his time in his air-conditioned room, reading every scrap of news from Belgrade . . . Salvador Dali returned to New York from California "for some bacchanal" and to sail for his first trip back to Europe since he became famous . . . Howard Baer, the painter, will leave for Spain where he will make a mule-back trip through the mountains, along the route once taken by Don Quixote. He'll make a series of paintings on this journey.

Bernard Baruch, now en route to Europe, was there last in 1945 on a mission for Roosevelt. Before Baruch left, there were reports from Germany that the Werewolves, the underground remnants of the Nazi movement, were plotting to kill him . . . Baruch is a fearless man. And when he arrived in Frankfurt, he told General Patton that it was his intention to adhere to his custom of sunning himself on a park bench. Not even Patton could stop him. And before he left Frankfurt, Baruch had his park-bench siesta—unaware that hidden around him were soldiers and armored cars, assigned by Patton to guard him.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Leaders See Truman Defeated

By Drew Pearson

While every seasoned political leader in the Democratic Party is convinced Harry Truman will suffer one of the worst election defeats in history here are some sidelights on how the President himself feels about it.

Pearson

Asked by aides how he felt about the GOP nominee, Tom Dewey, the President replied:

"I'll take him—like that," and he snapped his fingers.

Truman also goes out of his way to assure advisers that he is not worrying about any competition from Gen. Dwight Eisenhower.

"Ike is a soldier," Truman remarked recently. "He doesn't want to be President and would be the first to admit—in fact, he has admitted—that his military background doesn't qualify him for the many responsibilities of the presidency."

Truman is so confident of taking the convention in his stride that he already is planning a 60-day campaign trip in August, September and October, taking him to every section of the country.

Italian "Democracy"

During the Italian elections, the Communists claimed that the deluge of American friendship letters sent to Italy and other United States aid was just a flash in the pan. After the elections, they argued, Americans would soon forget Italy.

Today, however, a remarkable shortwave radio contest across the Atlantic ends with the award of 1750 prizes to the Italian people for the best letters on "How to Win the Peace and Make Real Democracy Live."

The contest has been broadcast for several weeks by Worldwide Broadcasting Foundation, a non-profit organization, and a total of 14,000 Italian democracy letters have been received. Radio experts consider this an unprecedented return, especially in view of the fact that Trans-Atlantic postage is expensive for the ordinary Italian, while he could hear about the contest only via shortwave radio or through brief mention in Italian newspapers.

In contrast to the slipshod manner in which NBC kissed off its shortwave propaganda broadcasts farmed out to it by the State Department, a group of Americans worked hard to make the Italian-democracy contest a success. Generoso Pope, the Italian-American newspaper publisher, undertook the difficult job of translating the Italian essays into English.

Two hundred and fifty wrist watches were contributed as prizes by Ingersoll, Harman and Helbros watches, the Kruger Jewelry Co. of Austin, Tex., and Martin Gruenborn of Seattle. The Amalgamated Clothing Workers, together with Eagle Clothes and the OPO stores, contributed 100 hand-tailored suits as prizes. Endicott-Johnson contributed 100 pairs of shoes; the Wing Shirt Co. 100 shirts; the Frank H. Lee Co. 1200 hats, and Allis-Chalmers one tractor.

Since these firms do not sell in Italy, they had no motive in giving anything to Italians other than cooperating toward a closer understanding and a firmer democracy.

The judges in the contest are Judge Ferdinand Pecora of the N. Y. Supreme Court; Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro of Baltimore, and Vincent Impellitteri, deputy mayor of New York.

General Ike's Mail

General Eisenhower has been getting thousands of letters. But here is one from two former GIs which, if he reads it, should make him think twice before he answers:

"Dear General Eisenhower:

"We are a couple of former Stars & Stripes correspondents who once interviewed you—at the Shanghai airport in 1946. You broke away from a group of generals to talk to us, although we were only enlisted men. We know from that experience it isn't necessary to be big shots to approach you.

"At Shanghai, we asked you some blunt questions and you gave us frank answers. We believe you will be equally straightforward now.

"We are supposed to be trained observers. From what we have seen, we can report unequivocally that the American people want you as their President. We are not echoing the mouthings of politicians but the will of the people, clearly expressed every time your picture flashes on the newsreel screen or a conversation turns to politics.

"We served willingly when we were drafted by our country, and we cannot believe you would do otherwise. The people have the right to call upon you to serve, yet they have no chance to express it unless you permit your name to appear on the ballot. Under our two-party system, there is no practical way for the people to draft you if you will not accept an advance nomination.

"The papers clearly indicate that you could have the Democratic nomination. This appears to be the only way left to place your name before the people in November.

"What we would like to ask sincerely is this: Recognizing that you are not seeking the presidency, will you permit your name to go on the ballot, so people of all parties can be given a chance to draft you as their leader?

"Cordially yours,
"JIM BECKER,
